WAGNER GRAIN LETTER

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Corn and oats affected by rye weakness, letup in export demand, weakness of cash wheat, and refusal of the grain trade to become bullish in January. Overnight corn and oats evidently remain a bulge sale. Flour consumers are asking for wheat statistics, and wheat prices promise to remain easy. The question remains, how is the United States to export if wheat and rye surplus remains. Oats are scarce but the trouble is how to haul them to the seaboard. The easy feeling that prevailed last week is evidently carried over to the Jan. 19 to 24 period.

Fresh FISH Fresh

At the earnest solicitation of your Mayor and Board of Health our product will be in your city next Thursday all day and up to noon Friday. The condition is that we handle nothing but fresh caught goods.

This condition will be lived up to the letter.

It has been brought to our knowledge that when they had fish in Eastern freezers which was outlawed and could not be sold for food, they were sent to this state to be disposed of at any price.

Do not confound these goods with ours but remember our goods are strictly fresh caught, retaining their natural flavor and landed in your city from 48 to 60 hours after being taken from our vessels.

We are the largest producers of fresh caught fish in the United States and for the first time in the history of the fishing industry, the producer is offering his goods to the consumer saving you three profits.

The fish will be sold at practically Boston wholesale prices only transportation and handling charges added.

Our car will arrive Thursday and be open for business from 5 a. m. to 7 p. m. Friday from 5 a. m. to noon.

Any fish unsold at noon Friday will be donated to any charitable institution applying for it.
