sometimes quite straight—sometimes wrinkling easily to the hips, sometimes seamed down the back in the old fashioned way, we are destined to see much of the Basque this Spring and Summer. And other fascinating features are borrowed from the Greeks—the Chinese—Isolde—the Empress Eugenie and even from African idols. To know now months ahead—the smartest colors—the most favored fabrics and how to achieve the newest lines in frock and gown—you simply must read the February Harper's Bazar.

Hood's Pink Beans FOR SALADS

Hood's "Pink" Beans are really Red Beans, although the label doesn't say so, due to an interpretation of the pure food law. But you can depend on them as being MORE than the label says—they are in reality RED BEANS.

Hood's Pink Beans are packed where they grow, expressly for the W. H. Hood Company, by a process that gives them a quality of unusual excellence.

As a basis for salad they are unexcelled. Try them with celery, a few cubes of Spanish onion and pimentos, over which pour French dressing.

Hood's Pink Beans served from the can make an ideal luncheon dish. They save time and worry, besides being the highest form of body-building food.

Ask your grocer for Hood's vegetables and fruits. There's a wide variety and each kind packed where it grows to finished perfection. The Label Hood insures it's good.
