

TAGGART OUT OF SENATORIAL RACE

Thomas Taggart yesterday withdrew his name as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator and speculation in party circles immediately turned on the probable nominee to be named by the state committee, which under the state election laws, will select the man to head the ticket.

Mr. Taggart's definite refusal to become a candidate, which he had reiterated prior to the filing of his name, came as a distinct blow to the Democratic chieftains who had hoped to see the veteran politician lead the party in the coming campaign.

Mr. Taggart said that the condition of his health made it impossible for him to enter the field again. "Writing this letter is the hardest political task I have even undertaken," he said in a letter to A. C. Sallee, state chairman, through whom he made known his declination to serve as the senatorial nominee.

"Nothing could give me greater pleasure," he wrote, "than to serve my party in answering this call were it not for the fact that I do not feel physically able to undertake this campaign."

State Committee to Act.
Mr. Sallee said the state committee would be called in session about April 1, to select a senatorial candidate. Had Fred L. Feick of Garrett, whose name was entered for the Senate by his friends, not withdrawn his name last Friday he would have been the party's nominee without further action, save the ratification by the state convention.

Springtime Very Severe on Catarrh

There's no joy in the glad season to those who can hardly breathe

Just as the happy springtime is about to bud forth with all its joyful message of nature's wonderful changes, there comes a discordant note to those afflicted with Catarrh, for just at this season while the system is undergoing a thorough renovation, any physical infirmity becomes more aggravated and pronounced.

Hence those who are victims of Catarrh, that most troublesome and tenacious of disorders—find that with the approach of spring there is a decided tendency for the air passages to clog up, the throat and nostrils become sore and inflamed so that their breathing apparatus operates only with the greatest pain and difficulty.

Nature acts with thoroughness. She will tolerate no half-way measures. She insists upon eradicating all impurities, and is not content to have them merely hidden from view.

Nature's remedy for the treatment of Catarrh, is S. S. S., which has been so successfully used for this ailment for the past fifty years. Made from the roots and herbs of recognized medicinal value, gathered direct from the forests, this fine old remedy stands unique in the annals of medicine, because its therapeutic value is in such strict accord with the laws of nature.

You should lose no time, therefore, in taking advantage of this excellent season to get nature's assistance in cleansing your system of Catarrh. Begin at once to take a thorough course of S. S. S., which will act directly upon the millions of tiny Catarrh germs that infest your blood, and give direct, rational results by eliminating them from your system. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores.

servations, ever seen anything more than temporary relief result from the use of sprays, atomizers, jellies, lotions, salves and other locally applied treatment?

Take your own case, for instance. Doubtless you have faithfully tried all of the local remedies ever recommended. Outside of possibly unstopping, for the time being, the clogged-up air passages, and affording a little temporary relief from difficult breathing, what real benefit have you received from remedies, locally applied?

Spring is the great house-cleaning season, the time when nature throws off all impurities and takes on new life and fresh vigor and strength and vitality.

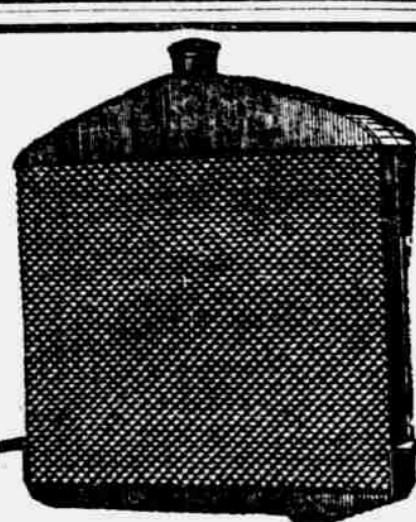

Therefore, this is the best season of the entire year to get real rational results from the intelligent method of treating Catarrh, because the right treatment co-operates with nature in her rebuilding and eliminating efforts that are now in full operation.

Catarrh, as any victim of this disease will readily agree, is a great deal more than a local irritation and disarrangement of the breathing apparatus. If the disease were nothing more than this, then the usual methods of local treatment would give some definite results. But have you, in all your experience and ob-

GRACE JAN PADEREWSKI, the world famous pianist, who deserted the concert stage at the end of the war to become the first premier of reconstructed Poland, recently announced that he would never again give public concert. His present ambition, he says, is to become a composer of music that will live after he himself is gone.

Paderewski was born in Poland in 1880. He began to learn the piano at 3 years of age, and was placed under a teacher at 7.

His first professional tour included Russia, Roumania and Siberia. At 18 he became a teacher; at 28 he made his Paris debut.

A few years later he came to the United States, where his tours were veritable triumphs. He has been the most popular of all pianists in America.

During the war he made his home in Lausanne, Switzerland.

As Poland's first premier, Paderewski has faced many trials and problems which he has found it impossible to solve. He has stood like a stone wall against Bolshevism. It is
