Better Paid Teachers

"It used to be a mark of honor to be known as a teacher, but no parent encourages a son or daughter to enter training for the teaching profession now, and very few young men and women of ability are entering it."

This statement is attributed to a prominent official in educational circles. The most convincing proof of the assertion is the large number of teachers who are quitting the school room to enter vocations that pay salaries commensurate in a degree at least to the cost of living. Fourteen teachers, on the city school roll last fall, are no longer there. In the rural districts, an acute shortage exists.

If teachers are quitting the profession now, what will the future be? The places of those who have left cannot be filled, neither will there be a supply to take care of the expanding needs of the school system.

There is only one way of meeting the emergency. Remuneration of teachers must be on a par with that of other professions and callings. Parents cannot expect young men and women to enter a profession which will not pay them a return on the money they invested in obtaining their education.

The development of a teacher does not take place over night. Years of preparation in colleges and normal schools are required. The expense of this training is not borne by the county, city, or state, but by the individual who is preparing himself or herself to enter the profession. The time required at a college to prepare for teaching is just as long as that demanded for the engineering or medical vocations.

Indiana is considering the problem of the teacher this week in a state-wide campaign. The situation has become so acute in Indiana that the governor has called upon its citizens to give serious consideration to their school system, it behooves its citizens to see that the system is maintained at its highest efficiency and is not permitted to deteriorate.

The vitalizing factor of the school system, after due consideration has been paid to the value of administrative ability, is after all the teacher, who comes in direct contact with the child, directs its schooling, helps determine its character, and exerts an influence that is second only to that of the parents themselves. The teacher is the substitute for the father and mother.

If parents exercise care in watching the companions of the child, how much more important the attention which they should devote to seeing that excellent teachers direct the mental and moral development of the child during school hours. A good teacher is a priceless asset to any city. A poor teacher is a menace. Good teachers will not stay in the profession under present conditions, and the state cannot afford the menace of poor ones.

Quackery in every line is condemned. Do we want our school systems filled with inefficient quacks, who teach because they cannot make a living in other callings? Do we want the education of our children marred and hampered because we refuse to take measures that will keep the good teachers we have and will encourage capable young men and women to enter the profession?

The answer rests with us. If we appraise at its true value the necessity of a good school system, we will make it possible for teachers to stay in the calling. If we are recreant to our duty, our school system will soon deteriorate.

adopted resolutions urging "relentless warfare against quackery, imposters, cal profession."

TAKE A CHANCE

Very few things in this world are assured in advance.

And while life is very far removed from being a gamble, yet it has about it every fascination of the greatest of adventures. Every day toward every hour, chances—some small, some great—must be taken.

And the good sport abides by the result. The main thing in importance is first to think things out. Then take the chance—come what may. To such a performer, ultimate failure is impossible.

Two things clothe success—confidence in your own ability, and confidence in people.

And if these things are well grounded, taking great chances, even, is part assurance that the thing aimed at will be attained. At least that is what one gets from the study of those who have played their game and left their record.

The child learns to walk by falling down more times than it stands up.

And so it is with men and women of vision. They take the chance—the one that the cautious would avoid; but, as reward they always get in satisfaction what the timid get in fear and regret.

There is but one way to win quick decision—which is one of the most valuable assets that anyone can have—and that is by being ready to take a chance.

You may get blamed. You are liable to chalk up a lot of mistakes. You will be called impulsive. But what man of action ever got anything else for applause on his way toward ideals?

If you are sure of the honesty of the thing—take a chance!

Dinner Stories

Some old story—banana skin on the pavement and the unobservant passer-by.

In this case the victim was a well-nourished lady of 200 pounds or so, and she alighted in a box of "best country eggs" outside a grocery store. The merchant ran out to assist her to her feet.

"Oh, I do hope I haven't broken them," she said when she had regained her perpendicular.

"Not at all, ma'am!" said the man politely. "They aren't broken, only slightly bent!"

A Kansas City man paced nervously back and forth on his front porch yesterday morning.

"Hey," he called to his wife, "haven't you started to get up yet?"

"Yes," she replied, "I'm starting to comb my hair."

"Good night!" he yelled. "Just starting to comb your hair! We'll miss that train, sure."

Five minutes later she appeared and announced she was ready for the train.

"Well, one good thing about the way women dress nowadays," he commented, cooling off, "is that when a woman gets her hair combed she is ready to go."

A certain senator, deploring the dishonest methods of one type of business man, once said with a smile: "It all brings back to me a dialogue I once heard in a southern school."

"Children," said the teacher, "be diligent and steadfast, and you will succeed. Take the case of George Washington, whose birthday we are soon to celebrate. Do you remember my telling you of the great difficulty George Washington had to contend with?"

"Yes, ma'am," said a little boy.

"He couldn't tell a lie."

MUST BE A PLUMBER TO HAVE APPENDICITIS NOW

CHICAGO, March 11.—The Chicago medical society has announced fees charged by its 7,000 members would be increased from $3 and $5 for calls to $5 and $10, and from $150 to $200 and $250 for appendicitis operations. Other fees would be increased proportionately, the announcement said.

Under Searching Eyes— Do you ever wince inwardly?

AN unexpected meeting—a battery of eyes focused upon your face—Can you meet it with composure? Is your skin flawless? Clear, lovely in coloring?

Or is there some blemish that stands out mercilessly in your own consciousness? Some fault in your complexion that you know observant eyes must take notice of?

There is nothing that so destroys a man's or woman's poise and self-confidence as the consciousness of a complexion at fault. Even a little blemish in some conspicuous place makes you miserably embarrassed. You want to shrink into the background. You lose your confidence, your gaiety. Your very personality is dimmed, just when you are most anxious to appear at your best.

Yet this suffering is entirely needless. You need never be miserable and tongue-tied from such self-consciousness. Almost anyone, by simple, regular, hygienic care of the skin, can free her complexion of the defects that so commonly mar an otherwise lovely face.

Disfiguring blackheads—enlarged nose pores—a skin that will get shiny—These things can be corrected.

Take care of the new skin that is forming every day as old skin dies. Give it every night the right treatment for your particular trouble, and within a week or ten days you will notice a marked improvement.

How to remove skin blemishes

Take one of the most common skin troubles. Perhaps your skin is constantly being marred by unsightly little blemishes. No doubt you attribute them to something wrong with your blood—but authorities on the skin now agree that in the great majority of cases, these blemishes are caused by bacteria and parasites that are carried into the pores from outside, through dust and fine particles in the air.

By using the Woodbury method of cleansing your skin, you can free it from such blemishes.

By the right care you can not only free your skin from blemishes—you can keep it smooth and clear. Use the special treatment recommended here.

Just before retiring, wash in your usual way with warm water and Woodbury's Facial Soap, finishing with a dash of cold water. Then dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy cream-like lather. Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this and leave it on for ten minutes. Then rinse very carefully, first with clear hot water, then with cold.

Use this treatment until the blemishes have disappeared, then continue to give your face, every night, a thorough bath in the regular Woodbury way, with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water, finishing with a dash of cold water. In this way you can guard against any reappearance of the blemishes.

Special treatments for all the commoner skin troubles are given in the famous booklet of treatments that is wrapped around every cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap. Get a cake today—begin, tonight, the treatment your skin needs.

You will find Woodbury's Facial Soap on sale at any drug store or toilet goods counter in the United States or Canada. A 25-cent cake lasts for a month or six weeks of any treatment, or for general cleansing use.

Would you like a trial size cake?

For 6 cents we will send you a trial size cake (enough for a week of any Woodbury facial treatment) together with the booklet of treatments, "A Skin You Love to Touch." Or for 15 cents we will send you the treatment booklet and samples of Woodbury's Facial Soap, Facial Powder, Facial Cream and Cold Cream.
