News and Events Among R. R. Workers

A washout beneath one of the outgoing tracks at the Penny East Yards, Friday afternoon, slightly impaired traffic. Thawing weather and heavy rains were causes. Normal conditions were soon restored by the wrecking crew.

Patrick Conroy, Pennsy yard engineer, was announced as retired with pension in the latest Pennsy bulletin. Conroy has worked on the Pennsy for 51 years. The memorial list includes the name of William Moffitt, of Richmond pensioned ticket receiver.

The 13 freight cars, damaged in the wreck at Greensfork Monday, were brought to the East Yards and repaired Thursday and Friday. None was badly damaged.

An air of prosperity prevails at the Pennsy roundhouse, as several employees have bought automobiles with back pay. Several men have received over $2,000. One youth, not yet 21, is to receive nearly $2,800.

About 150 miles of track have been laid at the East Yards and the work continues each day. Several hundred miles will be laid before the end of the year.

Four clerks from the M. M. office will be absent from work next Saturday.

The Follies, which show at Indianapolis next week, will be the direct cause of numerous passes being issued, as several clerks and others have announced intention of taking in the show during the week.

Charles Kiser, stenographer of F. J. Stimson, when the latter was superintendent of the Richmond division, left for St. Louis to act in the same capacity. Stimson was promoted to the St. Louis offices.

L. G. Railsback has been promoted to truck driver.

G. H. Rady, foreman at the roundhouse on the second track, has announced his intention of going to Ireland this summer. Rady is a dyed-in-the-wool Irishman and longs for the Auld Country.

Wedding bells have rung and will probably ring soon for several roundhouse employees. Henry Hartzler, machinist, was married this week. Herschel Daffler and John Staubach are prospective grooms.

Miss Ruth Burdick, stenographer in the M. M. office, spent the forepart of the week visiting her parents in Knightstown. Rumor has it that the office will soon lose the services of Miss Burdick. Cupid is listed as a reason.

C. E. Burke, clerk in the M. M. office, is entertaining several out-of-town guests at his home on North Twenty-first street.

Several employees are expecting annual passes to be issued them the first of April, as they have worked the required three straight years.

Andy Isen, of the Car Repair Department, visited in Indianapolis Friday. Herb Bradley was there Thursday. At least three are going to attend the Follies next week.

arose from the ruins of the Hohenzollern dynasty, and which enabled the Entente Allies to conclude peace with Germany.

On November 10, 1918, when former emperor William abdicated and fled, Ebert was the Imperial Chancellor.

HE COULDN'T STRAIGHTEN UP James Carman, Mayfield, Ky., writes: My back used to hurt me at times and I could not get straight for half an hour. I took Foley Kidney Pills and have not had the trouble since. I cannot say enough for them and they are great work. having succeeded Prince Maximilian of Baden, who was instrumental in negotiating the armistice. He at once assumed command and succeeded in quelling revolutionary outbreaks. The red flag was hoisted over the Brandeburg Gate and the royal palace after wild scenes in Berlin where the people shouted "Long Live the Republic!" and sang the Marseillaise.

Ordered People's Government. "The new government will be a government of the people," Chancellor Ebert said. "It must make every effort to secure in the quickest possible time peace for the German people and consolidate the liberty they have won. The new government has taken charge of the administration to preserve the German people from civil war and to amine and to accomplish their legitimate claims to autonomy."

The Independent Socialists, including a radical element favorable to Bolshevism and known as Spartacists, complicated Ebert's problem. When he became chancellor many of these radicals including Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, were freed from prison, and the two mentioned were subsequently assassinated.

The National assembly which elected Ebert was formed for the purpose of adopting a constitution. Its document which was approved last August 2 provided that "the executive powers lie with the people." The power of the upper chamber of the Reichstag was limited similar to the British House of Lords. There were special protection for labor and "generally accepted rules of international law" were incorporated in the new instrument. Ebert took the oath of office on August 23 and two days later the National assembly ceased to exist, it being superseded by the new Reichstag.

Noske Was Dictator Philipp Scheidemann was the first premier of Germany under Ebert. Gustav Noske, formerly minister of demobilization and before that governor of Kiel, was named the first minister of army and navy. By reason of his drastic enforcement of new regulations he became known as a "dictator."

The Ebert government underwent many changes by reason of political, economic and popular demands.

The first real crisis to threaten the Ebert regime, however, arose over the question of accepting the peace treaty terms. Ebert, Scheidemann and other leaders were opposed to yielding to the Entente demands. Scheidemann resigned and a pro-union cabinet including Dr. August Mueller and ex-Labor Secretary Bauer, former socialist member of the Reichstag, was organized. Bauer in a speech at Weimar before the national assembly denounced the treaty in strong terms but announced the government's decision to sign.

Claims Law and Order

For weeks before the revolution broke out in Berlin there was a steady run on German banks. Ebert, then chancellor, had a conference in Berlin on November 25, 1918, with 70 delegates from various parts of Germany, said: "Everything was in ruin when we took charge. Now, however, a Socialist republic has replaced the monarchy and power has been put in the hands of the workmen and soldiers."

Meanwhile the provisional government had been in an almost constant state of flux. Ministers came and went. Owing to scarcity of food, clothing and fuel, conditions in many parts of Germany were reported desperate and there were many rumors that soviet government would supercede the Ebert regime.

President Ebert had the backing of the moderates of Germany almost from the beginning. One reason for this was that when he succeeded Prince Maximilian he announced that property rights would be respected, that no banks would be seized and that the government would uphold the German war losses and pay all claims on the state.

The president in a new year manifesto, said that 1920 would decide whether Germany would maintain herself as a nation. A week later he was threatened by a mob in Stuttgart. On the preceding December 12 the Ebert cabinet's fall was reported as likely as a result of the allied demands over the Scapa Flow sinkings.
