

PRESIDENT MAY BE SEEKING 3RD TERM; VIEW IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, March 15.—With President Wilson in his March 8 letter to Senator Hitchcock taking a stand against the most important of the reservations to the peace treaty and with many evidences that the president expects to carry the issues of the treaty and league covenant into the campaign, there is a growing belief in Washington that he will be the nominee of his party at San Francisco.

Some weeks ago, it was generally agreed, even by the administration newspapers, that the president was not seeking another term. In fact, some of the strongest of the administration papers said that his renomination was out of the question. Now, by reason of his latest uncompromising stand on the treaty involving the league covenant, there has been a great shift of opinion. Many politicians of both parties think that the president is seeking a renomination.

Others say that if the president wants the treaty issue to be foremost one of the campaign, he is the logical man to nominate at San Francisco. Some believe by one process of reasoning and another, a very large number of public men in Washington have reached the conclusion that the president is not at all unlikely to be the nominee of his party in June.

Differ in Opinion.
Of course, whether the president has deliberately set out to secure for himself a renomination is something as to which there is great variance of opinion. Those who believe he has done so are much more numerous now than they were a month ago or even a week ago.

The result is a great amount of discussion, in the newspapers, in the cloakrooms and corridors, and elsewhere, about the sort of a situation which will be produced if Mr. Wilson again heads the Democratic ticket. Of course, if he does head it, he will support before the country the league covenant practically as it is and the Democratic convention at San Francisco will have to adopt a plank in the platform which opposes the Lodge reservations or anything like them.

The American people will, under those circumstances, be given a chance to say whether they want to undertake the solemn and far-reaching obligations of Article 10 in the form the president wants them to be assumed.

Depends on Delegates

The time may come, of course, when the president will set at rest the third-term talk and declare himself out of it. But one effect of such talk has been to cause observers here to cast about to see what kind of a gathering of delegates will compose the San Francisco convention, and whether the president can force his own nomination if he wants to do it.

Caldwell "Convicted" in Annual Ionian Mock Trial; Fight Results

Clyde Caldwell, former marshal of the Ionian Literary society, was "convicted" on the "charge" of embezzeling $100 from the Ionian treasury, at the regular session of the Earlham college circuit court last Thursday evening. The event was the annual Ionian mock trial.

While the sheriff and policeman were searching in the audience for Janet Rawls, lady friend of the prisoner, and next witness to take the stand, the prisoner made his escape via the rear entrance to the "court," which was in session in Ionian hall. He was only recaptured after a desperate fight between him and the sheriff (Fred Chambers). The sheriff was forced to use a high powered revolver.

The jury retired abruptly to the ante-room from which loud acclamations of "hang the prisoner," "he's a bad guy," etc., issued. Upon their return the foreman in sonorous Latin derivatives declared the prisoner "absolutely guilty."

Immediate clamor arose in court. The jury, sheriff, and whole court engaged in a general fight, in which six were killed and seven wounded. Court officers to the annual Ionian mock trial were:

Judge, "Sass" Whitley; clerk, Milton Hadley; sheriff, Fred Chambers; deputy sheriff, Donald Loeff; policeman, Donald Kellum; bailiff, Warren Farquhar; prosecuting attorney, Donald Snyder; lawyer for defense, William Jones; complainant, Julius Tietz; defendant, Clyde Caldwell; reporter, Paul Hutchens.

Russian Dancer Dislikes Heating System of America

The Baroness Rouskaya, whose forthcoming appearance in Richmond Thursday with the Yerkes Novelty Jazz orchestra, is being eagerly awaited, is making her first tour of America, having been brought to this country from the Argentine, via Havana and Mexico City.

Upon the Baroness' arrival in New York, she was conducted to one of the most modern hotels in the city, where a suite of rooms had been reserved for her use; all windows were down, and it being a particularly cold day, the heat was turned on with the result that the rooms were warm and cozy. The Baroness, totally unaccustomed to American heating systems, was amazed and insisted that the heat be completely turned off before she would consent to remain at the hotel.

Her experience in American Pullman sleeping cars, with their ample heat in wintertime, caused her to insist on a special clause being immediately written into her contract whereby she should be provided with a stateroom in which the heat had not been turned on prior to her occupation for the night.

Clothes Are Oppressive.
"It is pernicious," stated the Baroness. "It spoils the complexion, the

WASHINGTON.

Persons well versed in history who expect to see in "The Copperhead," the picture at the Washington, today and tomorrow, a bloody drama against a background of Civil War battles will be disillusioned. Director Charles Maigne, who made the screen version of the great play by Augustus Thomas, reduced the war scenes to the slight skirmish at Tyler's Ford. There are other indications of the great struggle that was gripping the country, but only enough to get the proper atmosphere.

The recruiting scenes for the Mexican war are interesting to compare with the modern methods used in the late war. The celebration at Millville, Illinois of the fall of Vicksburg is convincingly shown. Mr. Maigne has built his story around the tremendous sacrifice made for his country by Milt Shanks the role played strikingly by Lionel Barrymore.

MURRETTE.

As its special feature attraction the Murrette Theatre will show "The Willow Tree," with Viola Dana as the star, for a run of three days, beginning today. "The Willow Tree" is laid in Japan, and tells a weird, fantastic story of an image that came to life in the form of a beautiful maiden. The play is surcharged with delicate sentiment, delicious comedy and tender pathos, and it affords Viola Dana one of the best vehicles on the screen that is dainty and talented little actress has thus far had.

The action of the play transpires for the most part in far-off Japan, where Hamilton, the young Englishman, goes after he has been jilted by his fiancee. Thereafter it concerns an ancient legend regarding the wooden image of a beautiful girl and her coming to life after she has been bought and taken home by the young Englishman. It is a sweet and appealing love story.

MURRAY.
Another forceful William Fox picture, "The Hell Ship," opened today at the Murray theatre and will be featured there for three days. Judging from its enthusiastic reception, it promises to be a pulling attraction for Manager Holland, and it proves also the popularity of the star, the beautiful Madaline Traverse, whose portrayal

Robert H. Tyndall, national treasurer of the American Legion, Sunday received a check for $400,000 from the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. The money represents a surplus from the operation of canteens in France, it being the practice of the association to make no profit from this work.

Recently the charges for transportation of canteen supplies were remitted to the Y. M. C. A. by the American and French governments giving the organization a surplus of $400,000.

The money will be invested in securities pending the formal appointment of the Fletcher-American Bank as trustee, officials of the legion said, legion's executive committee has decided to hold it in trust for five years. The income is to be expended for the benefit of disabled former service men and for work in Americanization in compliance with the wishes of the Y. M. C. A. in making the gift.

The feature was accompanied by a letter from John R. Mott, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who said that the association will send approximately $100,000 more as soon as the audited figures from the canteen amount are received from overseas.
