

WOOD GIVEN LEAVE TO MAKE CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Major General Wood Tuesday asked for and was granted a two months' leave of absence to conduct his campaign for the Republican nomination for president.

Maj.-Gen. George Bell, Jr., now commanding Camp Grant, Ill., will act as head of the central department of the army with headquarters at Chicago during Gen. Wood's leave of absence.

Leave Begins March 20.

Gen. Wood's leave of absence will begin on March 20 and consequently will expire eighteen days before the opening of the Republican national convention at Chicago on June 8.

In announcing the granting of the leave today, Secretary Baker said Gen. Wood would be permitted to wear civilian clothes during his leave if he so desired.

Under army regulations, it was said, Gen. Wood can grant himself leave in his own department and so, if he elects, he can devote the last part of his campaign to work in that department, which embraces all of the mid-west and much of the territory west of the Mississippi.

WASHINGTON

In Pauline Frederick's latest Goldwyn picture, "Bonds of Love," which will be shown at the Washington theatre today and tomorrow, the marvelous acting of Little Frankie Lee, who plays the adopted son of the star, is one of the features of the production.

His part is the most important, male role in the story. The child appears in almost a hundred scenes, an assignment which has rarely, if ever, been given to a child. Nevertheless, Little Frankie Lee knows how to act. It is uncanny to watch him play the bad boy when his aunt is about, and then find him changed into a little adoring angel in his scenes with Miss Frederick. He understood the part he was playing and required little coaching from the director, Reginald Barker.

Perhaps Frankie Lee's work would not have been quite so spontaneous,

LARGE APPETITE IS COSTLY BUT PROFITABLE IS THEORY ADVANCED BY MRS. THOMPSON

The high cost of living is a serious problem to most people these days. The hearty eater is compelled to pay big to satisfy his appetite, but he is much better off than the nervous dyspeptic who unwillingly saves money at the expense of his physical strength.

A large appetite may be expensive, but there is nothing that brings such tremendous dividends.

Nobody knows the absolute correctness of this statement any better than Mrs. Della Simpson, 1203 Boyer street, Richmond, who, having been relieved of stomach trouble by Pepgen, gives it the stamp or her approval.

"I think I had all the miseries that a disordered stomach is capable of causing," said Mrs. Simpson. "I didn't eat very much, and even what little I did eat caused gas to form. Often

I belched up hot, bitter fluids that almost nauseated me. I grew slender and weak."

"In a short time after I began taking Pepgen, my appetite increased. Not only that but I was able to eat what I wanted without being distressed afterwards. I know that food is high priced now, but it certainly pays to be able to eat what you want and relish your meals."

"The grocery bills are higher, but I do not care. It is great to feel like I do. Of course, being able to eat heartily, is making me stronger, but if it hadn't been for Pepgen, I know I should still be a nervous dyspeptic."

Pepgen can be obtained from any

atre announces that the picture drama on that theatre's program for Friday and Saturday will be "The Hellion," presenting Margarita Fisher, George

Perolat and an exceptional cast in a latest addition to the American Film power play of unique theme and company's new list of "special features."
