

Choose! Men May Wear English or U. S. Clothes This Spring

A well filled pocketbook and a clear conscience are all the young man of Richmond will need to venture forth on the annual drive for Easter-time "spiffy-ness."

Rulers in the world of fashions have made a halfhearted compromise for the unusually high prices by declaring that the styles of the last five years will be "the thing" for this spring.

The young man will have the cosmopolitan and stuffy fashion of English clothes, or the long and willowy be-vampish American modes, to select from.

English fashions have had a profound effect upon American clothes for the last 10 years, but the imitation has usually differed from the original in being made better. The English fashions are more extreme than the American.

Pea Jacket Coat the Rage.

Richmond clothiers will display a short and shapeless English coat of the pea jacket effect. The coat will have as many as four buttons and buttons up tightly nearly to the throat.

If Americans do not favor the English models, clothiers have a wide range of the home product. The long coat of American design is in contrast to the short English model.

The coat will be less high waisted than of yore, and with broader shoulders. The tight sleeves and flaring skirts still remain. Vests will be concave when possible—among the extremely youthful models.

No Cuffs on Trousers.

Whether from the sailor suit influence or as a throw-back from the styles of the early eighties, style fixers do not say, but the 1920 spring trousers will be tighter than formerly and will be minus the cuff.

The sailor influence probably has to do with the fact that the bottom of the trouser legs will be flared a rife. Perhaps the flare will enable the young man to get the trousers on quicker!

Belts have been relegated to sport clothes and will not be worn on the snappy business coats. Single and double breasted coats will be shown impartially. The cloth of the suits will be mostly of soft finish with many startling shades and figures.

Narrow Brims on Hats.

Spring hats will rhyme with the English styles, being very narrow of brim and without rakish tilts. Brims will roll up all around and with a slight dip in front. Zephyr weights in soft hats and a wide variety of tweeds and checks in cloth hats will be popular.

"White" will be "the color" in shirts this spring. Madras, jacquard silks, plain silks and linen will predominate in materials. Green jade jewelry will be worn in novelty design in scarf pins and cuff links. Scarfs will be very narrow, to accommodate the lowest collars worn in years. The low collars that our fathers wore in their youth, will prevail.

Ah! Shoes Are Broader.

In shoes the light tan will stage a comeback after a long exile. Red and blacks will be put on the shelf for a while. The shoe shapes are swinging away from the long, narrow English last, and the newest models have a wider swing with a pointed toe. This is good news to those who could never feel comfortable in the English last.

Although Richmond haberdashers do not show much enthusiasm, dispatches from style headquarters say that walking sticks are going to be popular this year. The yellow chambray glove is not expected to be popular this spring; gray, brown and green being "the colors".

Styles in middle aged men's clothing have made practically no change.

The three button sack coat, with or without vent are to be displayed by Richmond clothiers as "the latest". The same styles in collars, shirts, gloves and shoes that are announced for the younger man will hold good

For Freckled, Rough or Muddy Complexions

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in early spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercorized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any drugist's. There's no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.

for the well dressed middle aged man. Different clothing houses add little changes to the make-up of a middle aged man's suit, as distinguishing marks.

For a Delicious Breakfast

Frizzled Beef On Toast

In the morning try a new breakfast dish.

Open a jar of HOOD'S Dried Beef.

Unroll the big, paper-thin slices (it is not chipped but sliced)—get the spicy fragrance of the meat; note the natural appetizing color, indicating young and tender beef, and the perfect cure.

Melt a small lump of butter in a frying pan; "frizzle" the beef a few moments over a hot fire, have squares of hot buttered toast ready; cover each piece with crisp strips of meat and serve on hot plates. The best breakfast you ever tasted.

Hood's Label beef is packed by one of the largest concerns in the country, especially for us. It is perfectly cured, sliced to transparent thinness, packed in sanitary glass jars and hermetically sealed.

As a luncheon and breakfast dish it is delicious and appetizing.

Ask your grocer for Hood Label Dried Beef—you'll say it's the best you ever tasted.

Enough in each jar for an ordinary meal.
