

LABOR'S GUNS ARE TURNED ON CUMMINS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 22.—Senator Cummins, Republican of Iowa, is one of the members of congress organized labor will attempt to defeat in November, according to L. E. Sheppard, acting president of the Order of Railway Conductors, who is in Washington today attending the railroad wage conference. Senator Cummins was the author of the anti-strike provision of the railroad, which was thrown out in conference.

Mr. Sheppard indicated that union officials were carefully studying the record of every member of congress with respect to his stand on this provision and other labor matters, with a view to opposing in the elections those regarded as inimical to organized labor.

The headquarters of the railway conductors is at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and it is said that this union will organize the fight against Senator Cummins.

Mr. Sheppard said, however, that union labor had not yet decided on a candidate to oppose Senator Cummins, whose term will expire next March.

HEAR VIOLIN RECITALS

Music lovers of New Paris enjoyed a delightful recital last Friday evening when Mrs. Dorothy Kirkpatrick Heerman, wife of Emil Heerman, concert master of the Cincinnati symphony; Miss Benette Goldstein, pianist, and Ida Anderson Klien, mezzo soprano, appeared in an interesting program. Mrs. Heerman was a prominent New Paris young woman before her marriage. She was a violin student of Mr. Heerman.

Turn That Vacant Lot Into A Producing Garden!

Vacant city lots would not be of much value for growing corn or wheat, but these valuable pieces of dirt are often just the place for growing a good vegetable garden.

Often the soil is rough and covered with stones and all sorts of waste materials, but most people who live in cities and towns do not get enough outdoor exercise anyway, and the labor necessary to clean off the trash and pile the stones to one side will do them good.

Some of the best home gardens have been grown on vacant lots that were not much more than a stone pile to begin with. In one case enough old foundation stones were removed to build a wall along the two exposed sides of the lot. The soil was then leveled and a few small loads of manure spaded into it.

The garden was planted while neighboring apartment dwellers looked on from their windows, doubt written on every face, but the garden grew and flourished, and many were the smiles of appreciation of the good things that were handed them by the owner of the garden.

If the land is not shaded too great a part of the time, almost any vacant lot can be turned into a food garden, but it is often necessary, pretty nearly, to "make" the soil.

Free booklets that tell how to garden will be sent on application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

GAS PRODUCER OF CONCRETE

Owing to the high price and scarcity of steel during the war, a gas company in Syracuse found it necessary to build the shells of a 200-horse power gas producer and scrubber out of concrete staves. The shells are eight feet in diameter and the staves measure 24 by 10 by 3 1/2 inches. They are connected by tongue and groove joints. Between the concrete and the fire brick lining there is a three-inch space filled with a heat resisting material.

"WHITE COLLAR" WORKERS AVOID WEDDED STATE

NEWARK, N. J.—Clerical workers and "white collar" men in general are not getting married these days, according to City Clerk Egan, in charge of the marriage bureau. The proportion is about one out of a hundred licenses granted. Of the last 20 applicants for licenses not one was a clerk. This showed the need of the "middle class" for an increase in income, Egan believes.

The Theatres

WASHINGTON

Any time that Clara Kimball Young requires children for a scene in one of her productions, the supply is always tenfold greater than the demand. The secret of this is that Miss Young is one of the most delightful storytellers in the business and the children dote upon the wonderful fairy stories with which Miss Young regales them between scenes.

During the filming of "Eyes of Youth," in which a number of children were used in the school room scene, Miss Young made it a daily habit to entertain the children with stories during the noon hour, and her audience was always augmented by at least a score or more children from the neighboring school who gave up their lunch hour to be with Miss Young.

Miss Young is starring in "Eyes of Youth" at the Washington theatre.

William Fox will present the popular star, George Walsh, at the Murrette theatre beginning today. "A Manhattan Knight" is the title of the photoplay, which is founded on the well-known novel of Gelett Burgess entitled "Find the Woman." It is a story of New York life and takes in the life of the big city in various phases.

As usual, William Fox has surrounded the star with an excellent and well-balanced supporting cast.

MURRAY

The method by which a woman can decide on the husband she wants, without his knowledge, and work to make him without his own conscious effort was her, are brought to light interestingly by Vitagraph's new feature, "The Tower of Jewels." Corinne Griffith is the star of this picture, which will be the feature attraction at the Murrette theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Griffith plays the role of Emily Cottrell, known as "The Princess of Diamonds," beautiful member of a crook band. She is caught redhanded in the act of looting the safe of D. D. Parrish, a millionaire banker. Parrish, who discovers the girl, guesses from her air of refinement a hidden story, and decides to take her into his household and reform her.

Adelle Warren, niece and ward, comes into the story shortly afterwards, and it is seen that she has decided on making Wayne Parrish, son of the millionaire, her husband. The interesting wiles and devices employed by a woman under such circumstances, provides dramatic interest of a high order.

After a meshing of complications full of suspense and surprise, it develops that Wayne and Emily love each other. The erstwhile crook is threatened with exposure of her past, but fate brings the characters to a smashing fine climax.

The Cold That Hangs On

This is No. 5 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages—such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vick's Vapo-Rub may be of value in this condition.

A cold is simply an inflammation of some part of the air passages—throat, larynx or bronchial tubes—just like a sore is an inflammation of the skin. A long continued cold means constant inflammation and this constant inflammation frequently weakens the air passages so that they become an easy point of attack for invading germs of more serious diseases. A "cold that hangs on," therefore, is simply nature's "red flag," indicating that there is "trouble below," and this warning should never be neglected.

Nightly applications of Vick's Vapo-Rub will aid nature to clear up that inflammation. Because Vick's acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition, the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying, swallow a small bit of Vicks the size of a pea.

Samples to new users will be sent free on request to The Vick Chemical Company, 235 Broad Street, Greensboro, N. C.
