The male of the species passes through seven ages of vanity, say Richmond barbers.

First when the infant comes into the world. Fond mothers will clip the short baby hairs so that the loved one will learn to be proud of his appearance. After the ministrations, she will give the baby a mirror and tell him in cute baby talk "To look at Mumsey's darling pretty little boy." That is his first lesson in personal vanity.

Then the age when barbers first induce the boy to climb into a barber chair to have the hair bobbed. Then comes the day when mother is forced to have the hair cut for the boy now starts to school and he will have to wear his hair style. Mother compromises, however, by having the hair started for a pompadour.

Fuzz Stiffens Up; H. S. Then comes the high school age, when the youth dons long trousers and begins to take an interest in the opposite sex. Also the fuzz that covers the face begins to stiffen. Then comes the college age, when the youth demands that he hair be parted in the exact center and wants ointments to give it a glossy appearance.

He also comes into the barber shop at least four times a week for a shave, massage and, all other facial treatments.

The business or sensible age now appears, when the man has his hair parted on the side and falls ready victim to hair restorers prescribed by bald headed barbers. Along about this time the man has a fondness for sweet smelling hair tonics—more so than in college days.

Going, Going, Gone. Then comes the final age, when the hair departs forever, or else is spoken of as "silvery locks." Gray headed men like their hair cut short and to the best advantage but only come into the barber shop once in 15 days.

This man still retains his vanity, however, as judged by the expression on his face, when the barber first musses up the silvery hair and lets the man see the disheveled appearance in the mirror.

Then he works the hair in to a becoming state combs it, and turns the victim towards the mirror for inspection. The man usually preens and perhaps thinks to himself "Not so bad for an old codger."

Healthiest Job They Say.

Both Mr. Dickinson and Mr. Donlin were strong on the health side of mail carrying. Mr. Dickinson hasn't missed a day from work from personal illness since 1890, he says. Suitable dress and constant exercise in the open air are responsible.

"You are not expected to go into homes, nor to wait any length of time on door steps, thus we never come in contact with people suffering with colds or other disease except in the open air, and have no chance to catch cold 'standing around.' Few of our carriers suffer from common contagious illnesses," said Carrier Dickinson.

One thousand to 2,200 pieces of mail are handled on an average by carriers in the local postoffice today. All mails are relayed to substations, while two or three years ago scarcely half that amount was handled and no relays were necessary.

All Mails Increased. C. O. D. packages have piled up the mails, taking space, strength and time to deliver. More statements are sent out by business houses and advertising material has more than doubled. Church notices, and other formal announcements add.

Mr. Dickinson said that though his route has not changed much in number of squares, his "stops" has increased vastly through the conversion of single houses into duplex apartments; because many private families rent rooms; and because numerous new houses have gone up.

Homes Now Apartments. "One home on my route used to house one family of four people; now it has been turned into an apartment house housing seven families," said Mr. Dickinson.

If residents with house guests who are apt to receive mail would only notify the post office directory clerks or their carrier of the addition to their household, much trouble would be avoided, carriers say.

SENSATIONAL TRIAL OPENS.

RUSHVILLE, Ind., March 23.—Highly sensational evidence was introduced in the trial of Ora Cline, which opened in the circuit court here Monday, with Freeman Miller, of Franklin, acting as special judge. The case started this afternoon, after the morning was spent in securing a jury. Cline, who is a farmer and a married man with a family, is charged by Walter Smith, with encouraging delinquency of his 13-year-old daughter. Among those summoned as witnesses Tuesday are officers of the Good Faith hospital of Indianapolis and physicians of Shelbyville. The girl, it is said, will protect Cline in the case, laying the blame on her father.

Removes the Roots Of Superfluous Hair

(Entirely New Method)

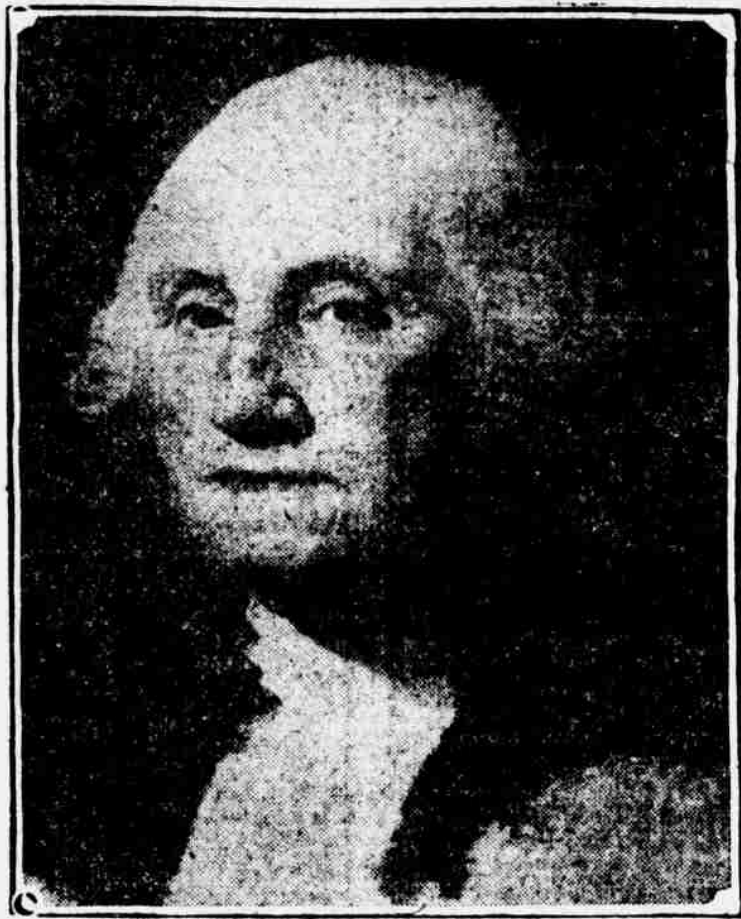

"Seeing is believing!" When your own eyes see the roots come out, you know the entire hair is gone, not merely the surface hair. You know that hair can never return.

Yes, it is really true that the new phelactine method removes superfluous hair completely—roots and all—without the least injury, leaving the skin soft, smooth, hairless. You do the work in a jiffy, in your own home, without assistance. It does away with numerous and expensive visits to the electrolysis expert. Does away with depilatories or shaving at frequent intervals. Nothing like it ever known before. Perfectly harmless, odorless, non-irritating. Get a stick of phelactine, follow the easy instructions, and have the surprise of your life.—Advertisement.

Five Minutes with Our Presidents

By JAMES MORGAN

V.—FIRST IN THE HEARTS OF HIS COUNTRYMEN

FROM STUART'S PORTRAIT OF WASHINGTON.

THE welcoming shouts of his slaves and the baying of his dogs at Mt. Vernon, no doubt, were more pleasing to Washington on his retirement from the Presidency, than any public applause. For the second time he had come home with an empty wallet from an eight-year absence in the service of his country.

When he died Washington was worth five hundred thirty thousand dollars, above the value of Mt. Vernon and apart from Mrs. Washington's estate. But he was always land poor. When called to the Presidency he was behind in his taxes; even with his doctor's bill, and had to borrow the money to pay his way to the inauguration. As President his steward and fourteen servants at the capital cost him six hundred dollars a month for their food and wages, and he gave away more money than his later-day successors. Besides providing that his usual charities at Mt. Vernon should be continued, liberal charities in the Presidency were a serious drain on his official pay.

Without a child of his own, Washington always had a large family to support. He adopted and brought up nine children belonging to his and Mrs. Washington's relatives, and forty-one relatives received bequests at his death.

Hating slavery, yet he had more than three hundred slaves; but he seldom sold one, his negroes growing old and helpless on his farm. Nor did this just mean leaving them to the mercy of another master after he was gone. In his will he freed them all, with a thoughtful provision for those who, because of age or infancy, could not shift for themselves.

Many a man does not look to the welfare of his brother as closely as Washington cared for his old body servant in the Revolution (purchase price three hundred forty-three dollars), and in his will he remembered faithful "Billy" with an annuity. His

COAL DUST LODGED IN MINER'S LUNGS

Tells how his cough was conquered and health restored.

"In November, 1916, I was working in a coal mine and the doctors said I had dust lodged in my lungs. I couldn't lie down on my right side, coughed so I couldn't sleep and had constant pain in my right lung and under my shoulder blades. I coughed so hard the blood would spurt out of my nose. Finally the doctors had me change climate and live outdoors, but didn't improve.

"Then I came home and started on Milks Emulsion. Thank God, I did, as it did me a lot of good right from the start, loosening up the coal dust in my right lung. In a few weeks my lungs were free from dust and my cough left me entirely. I gained back 20 pounds in weight and went back to work in the mine, completely restored to health."—G. H. Dunn, 6th Ave. & No. 13th St., Terre Haute, Ind.

Thousands of victims of dust filled air, develop the same trouble that Mr. Dunn had. Milks Emulsion costs nothing to try. Milks Emulsion is a pleasant nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physies. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened and is a powerful aid in restoring and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day. This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Truly wonderful for weak, sickly children.

war horse, "Nelson," fared as well. The war over, he pensioned this veteran of his campaigns, who never again wore a saddle.

Albert Gallatin said that Lafayette was the only man Washington loved. But Washington himself expressed his love for General Knox and in his loyal devotion to General Green, he offered at the latter's death to educate his fatherless son.

His devotion to his wife through forty years of married life was illustrated in his dying day. Although he awoke in the night with a chill, scarcely able to speak and breathing with difficulty, for fear that Mrs. Washington might take cold he would not let her get up to call a servant.

Sure Way To Get Rid Of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Adv.

Can't Make Vinegar in Homes Without Violating Dry Law, Warns Orhison

The Wayne county housewife who makes vinegar in her home without first obtaining a federal permit is a violator of the prohibition law and liable to prosecution, according to an announcement made by the federal prohibition department of Indiana.

The permit to make vinegar is issued without cost to the applicant by Judge Charles J. Orhison of Indianapolis, who is federal prohibition director of Indiana. The reason given by the officers that the making of vinegar without a permit is a violation of the law is that ingredients of vinegar go through the process of fermentation and form alcohol that is in excess of the deadline fixed in the law.

The state prohibition officers are starting an educational campaign through Indiana to teach the people just what must be classed as the violation of the prohibition law. Warnings have been sent against the sale of Jamaica ginger, lemon extract and other substances to people known to be purchasing it for the purpose of drinking. All druggists, groceries and stores handling the Jamaica ginger have been ordered to get rid of the stock on hand at once.

Born in 1839 Dr. Caldwell Still in His Office Daily

Wonderful vigor of the founder of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.
Millions now use his famous prescription

Physicians know that good health depends largely upon proper digestion and elimination and that much sickness results from constipation. No one knows this better than the "family" doctor, the general practitioner.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL of Monticello, Illinois, was and is a family doctor. The whole human body, not any small part of it, was his practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headache, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

Dr. Caldwell in the course of 40 years' practice, for he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875, had found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year the preparation was first placed on the market. The picture of Dr. Caldwell that appears on the package was taken in that year.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in the doctor's private practice. Today the third generation is using it.

Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it, for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is selling at the rate of over 6 million bottles a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Syrup Pepsin, and the formula of that prescription is fortunately living to see its wonderful success.

Women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. While it is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases, it is mild and gentle in its action and does not cause griping and strain. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby and children like it and take it willingly.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home. Where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.
