Women in Politics

By Esther Griffin White, Republican woman chairman for Wayne County.

What is a poll?

This is a question that is being asked by many women apropos of the poll of women voters now under way in Wayne county.

A poll is merely the process of making a list of all the women of voting age in a certain community. This does not mean that the women who are listed are obligated to vote; but a list of those who are legally entitled to vote if the individual wishes to take advantage of the right she possesses.

Is Political Census.

In other words it is a political census. The object is to find out, as near as it is possible to do, the political affiliations of the women in Wayne County in order to gain some sort of an idea of how the county stands in relation to its women voters.

The questions asked are simple and easily answered and concern the number of women of voting age in each house or apartment, whether or not they expect to vote with any particular party, if married, what party their husbands are affiliated with, if the woman is employed or is engaged in any business or professions, and one or two other inquiries of a kindred character.

To Be Used for Information.

The information, like that acquired when taking a census, will be used for purposes of information only. The poll is being taken under the auspices of the County Republican chairman and the precinct committee-women.

Who will be very glad for the co-operation of all of the women of the city and the county, so the work can be expeditiously and comprehensively completed by the first week in April. In reply to many questions concerning the present voting status of women in Indiana, it may be interesting to know:

First—That women of Indiana are legally entitled to vote for the president of the United States on Nov. 2. No matter if the suffrage amendment to the federal constitution is not ratified by a sufficient number of states to make woman's suffrage universally operative, the women of Indiana can vote for president in November.

Legislature Gives Right.

How did they get this right? Through a law passed by the 1919 legislature.

Second—That because the women can vote for president on Nov. 2, a list of women voters must be taken. Why?

Because if they vote for but one office the machinery of voting at the polls, where every woman casts her ballot, must be arranged so the women can be taken care of.

By being "taken care of" is meant this:

Up to this time only men have voted. The voting places have been arranged to accommodate a certain number of men voters who are known to reside in each precinct.

No voting place can take care of more than a certain number of people. Must Have More Room.

Hence if, through the addition of a number of women voters in one precinct, the polling place originally arranged for cannot accommodate them all within the hours prescribed by law for casting the vote, more room which is being polled, her name must also be listed.

Because if she rooms in the house, she will vote in the precinct in which she lives.

These may seem things that are more or less well known but the women, having never voted before, many questions are being put to them whose answers embody the foregoing information.

The poll of women voters, as has been said, is nothing but a list of women voters.

Registration Different.

The question of registration is another matter.

And will be governed, in a way, by the action of Delaware or some other state which will ratify the federal amendment.

At this writing the federal amendment giving universal suffrage to all the women of the United States lacks just one vote of becoming operative.

If the federal amendment becomes operative before May 4, the date of the nominating election, then the women would vote on May 4.

But this is not at all sure at this writing.

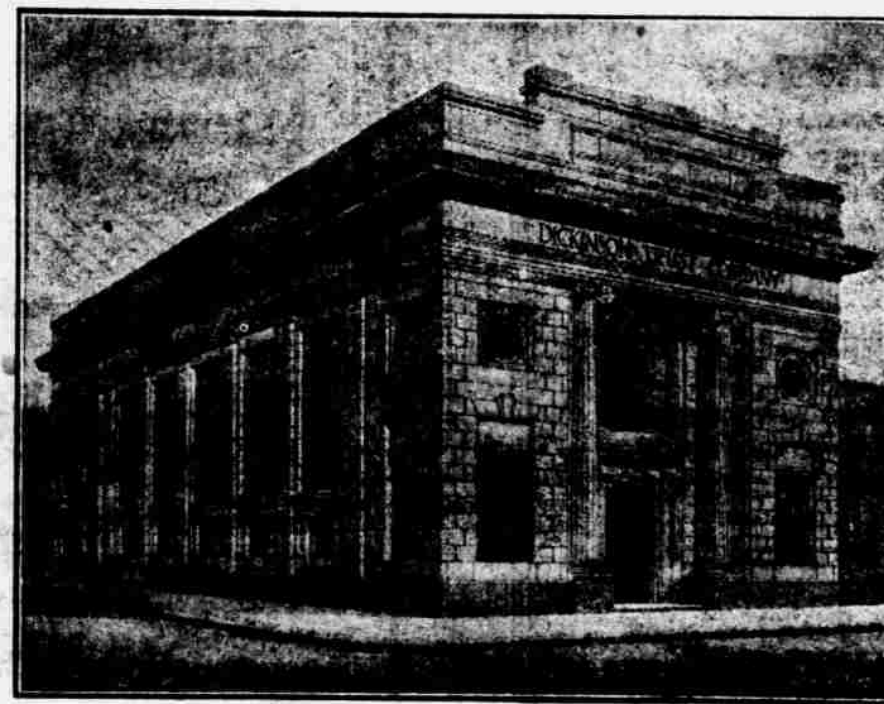

And its consideration will be discussed later.
