

ENUMERATION OF SCHOOL CHILDREN STARTS SATURDAY

The annual school enumeration begins Saturday, April 10, and ends Friday, April 30. The taking of this enumeration is a task dreaded by the school officials, because year after year it has resolved itself into a 20-day battle of wits between enumerators and parents.

The explanation of this is that many parents think the enumeration a scheme to force all children into the schools. Such is not the case, however, for the school city only wishes to get money due it from the state.

The enumeration differs in that it deals with the same people each year as individuals. What the school enumerator wants is the name of each member of the family who is of school age—from six to 21 years. It is for each of the persons of school age that the city receives $5 annually from the state.

The money is pro-rated to the various school cities from the state school tax and the interest on the state school fund.

"Lady of the House" is Miffed.

The members of some families are all employed, and so the enumerator has little else to do but sit on the doorstep and wait till the 6 o'clock whistle blows. When father and mother arrive home they may tell all about their children and again they may not.

Some folks just can't be fooled into letting their children have an education, and so the poor enumerator has only to leave in chagrin if his duplicity is discovered and he is checkmated.

Heretofore enumerators have reported some difficulty in homes where domestic labor is employed. "Why indeed no," says the lady of the house. "I most certainly shall not tell you who I employ here. It surely is no one's business. The idea!"

Now if the enumerator has learned that Sally Rafferty has moved from her alley and is employed up north somewhere he doesn't like to have the "lady of the house" so distant and terminated.

His job is to account for every person of school age who lived in his district last year, as well as to account for all who have moved in since last year. He is ready to handle the job, but he does wish the law would grant him "search and seizure" authority.

South Bend Paper Must Cut to Four Pages

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 9.—For the first time in 40 years the South Bend Tribune today issued a four-page paper. Due to an acute shortage of newsprint, it was found necessary to eliminate all advertising and run a straight news folio.

CHURCH DIVIDES STATE FOR FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN

In preparation for the financial and educational campaign to be conducted by the church of the Brethren denomination in Indiana, April 25 to May 2, the state has been divided into three districts, and a financial director appointed to conduct the campaign in each district. Leo H. Miller of Eaton will have charge of the southern district; Ira E. Long of Andrews, middle district, and David Metzler of Nappanee, northern district. D. O. Cottrell of North Manchester is the regional financial campaign director of the Forward Movement in Indiana and Michigan.

OLD WASHTUB AS BATH, HAS VANISHED FROM CITY REPORT

England's order of the bath hasn't anything on Richmond. Sanitary engineers estimate that 40 per cent of the homes have modern bathrooms and fixtures. Ninety per cent have sewers and running water.

This has all come about during the last 25 years, however. Before that, after the dishes were washed on Saturday night, mother and the girls would retire to the kitchen, whence would come squeals and sundry splashings.

their chance, only the squeals were changed to howls, for the boys could stay for hours in the "old" swimming hole, yet when Dad poured cold water down their backs to rinse the suds they would set up howls of woe, start to "shimmie" and to gnash through chattering teeth.

Also in the days of yore, Mother would call the household for breakfast. After partially dressing, the boys would make a rush for the kitchen sink—or else the bench outside the back door—and proceed to dig dirt from their ears.

Today the "wash" is taken in bathrooms, with hot and cold water, and luxuries.

Despite the large number of modern bathrooms in Richmond, the kind you read about, or see in the movies, do not exist here. Such luxuries as splashing around beneath a shower of rose water or plunging into a Roman bath—the kind you use a ladder or steps to get out of—there isn't any such thing here.

The high cost of keeping clean, however, holds good here. Bathroom fixtures have made a general 125 per cent increase during the last two years. Also, plumbers receive double the wages of two years ago.

BELIUM RUN AT PROFIT.

A profit of more than ten million francs has been realized, over and above expenses, by the Belgian government in 1919. The budget estimated the expenditures and made tax returns to fit. At the end of the year, however, it was found that the actual returns were higher than was needed. Economists say that it shows an unusual recovery from the devastation of the war.
