"Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme"

To Be Presented by French Dept't. at Earlham College
Seats were put on sale Friday at the Westcott Pharmacy for "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" by Moliere, which will be presented by the French department at Earlham College, Friday evening, April 23, in Lindley hall, under the direction of John Harnay, instructor in the French department of the college.

Aside from its educational value this presentation offers an opportunity for persons to gain an idea of the customs, costumes, life and humor of the French people during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

Moliere was one of the great French dramatists, and "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" is considered one of his best comedies. The dramatist himself played leading part in his plays during the time of Louis XIV.

The leading part in the college presentation will be played by Jacques Monier, a Frenchman, who is a student at Earlham this year. Other parts will be played by advance students of the college, many of whom have studied the language in France.

The French department of the college extends a cordial invitation to the people of Richmond to avail themselves of this opportunity. Persons wishing to attend are urged to get their reserved seats at the Westcott pharmacy as soon as possible. Admission will be 50 cents.
