PASSENGER TRAINS ARE LATE; FREIGHT SERVICE IMPROVING

Pennsylvania passenger trains running through Richmond from the east are still from two to four hours late, and trains from the west have been from one to two hours behind.

Officials say this is caused by inadequate service in the terminal yards, and to the great amount of congestion at all points. Trains upon the Richmond division are on time per schedule.

Officials of both Richmond freight houses announce that conditions have been greatly improved during the last few days. The Pennsylvania is handling a record shipment on the Richmond division and also on the Grand Rapids & Indiana. C. & O. officials say they delivered more cars Friday than any day this week.

Tickets Subject to Delay.
A notice posted at the Pennsylvania ticket offices notifies patrons that tickets sold are subject to delay. Trains to eastern points are often held in yards for several hours, while other trains ahead are being taken care of. No trains have been taken off any division passing through Richmond, however.

Richmond yard employees said Saturday morning that their organization had definitely decided to remain with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

They say that affiliation with the Yard Men's association would mean the losing of membership in the brotherhood, which promised 90 days ago that the asked for advance in wages would be forthcoming at a later date.

ROBBERS GET NOTHING IN LAW FIRM'S SAFE

Thieves, by means of a jimmed door, entered the law office of Robbins, Keller and Robbins, in the Little Block Friday evening or early Saturday morning. Since only the day lock was in use on the safe the burglars were able to gain easy access to its compartments. According to the usual custom the firm had deposited the cash that the safe contained before the close of banking hours, and the burglars failed to make a haul.

A desk placed in front of the door that was forced open by the thieves was found moved from its usual position. The door of the back room of the suite of law offices had been left open evidently to make a quick getaway in event of a surprise.

The absence of matches and any traces of a light leads to the theory that the attempted robbery must have been committed by the aid of the electric lights, which would indicate that the attempt took place early Saturday morning.
