DELEGATES FROM DISTRICT ARE NAMED FOR M. E. CONFERENCE

A partial list of laymen who are going from this district to the M. E. general conference in Des Moines, Ia., which convenes May 1, was given out by the Rev. Somerville Light, district superintendent, Monday.

They include: C. F. Ward, of this city; Oris L. Burr, Newcastle; Mrs. W. H. Chandler, Pennville; Elwood Starbuck, W. W. Martin, A. G. Neal, Fort Wayne; W. B. Freeman, Washburn; Freeman Hall, Kokomo; Charles Knapp, Anderson; President George R. Grose, of DePauw university, Greencastle.

It was the opinion of Dr. Light that because of difference of opinions in the various conferences, Indiana would not be made a separate episcopacy.

No session of the general conference in recent years has held as much interest for Indiana Methodists. The general conference of the Methodist church is regarded as one of the foremost deliberative and legislative church bodies in the world and its program of activity commands wide attention outside the realm of Methodism. The assemblage will be composed of 850 delegates, divided equally between the clergy and the lay members. Indiana will be represented by 42 delegates, 21 having been selected by the ministers from their own group and an equal number by laymen.

Two matters which are of paramount importance to Indiana Methodists will be presented before the general conference. The first is a proposal that the state of Indiana be designated as a separate Episcopal area with the establishment of a residence and office for a bishop in Indianapolis. The other is the election of from six to 10 bishops and the probability that one or more Indiana clergymen will be elevated to the bishopric, the highest honor within the gift of the Methodist church.

Plan Considered Several Years

The plan of making Indiana a separate episcopacy has been under consideration in various parts of the state for a number of years. Under this plan Indiana Methodism would be brought under single control. At the present time the three conferences are divided between two areas, the Northern being included in the Chicago area and Indiana under the Cincinnati jurisdiction.

The Methodist educational system is one of the dominant features of the extension work. The rapid growth of DePauw university at Greencastle makes the institution one of the most outstanding among Methodist universities in the middle West. Last year Moore's Hill college was moved to Evansville and was reorganized with substantial equipment under the name of Evansville university. The third Methodist institution of higher training is Taylor university, at Upland, which meets particular requirements to which it directs its special attention.

Other States May Follow.

Because of the diversified activities of the Methodist church in this state, many are of the opinion that Indiana should become a separate unit. Should an episcopal residence be located at Indianapolis an expenditure of approximately $250,000 for the construction of buildings and equipment for the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of the denomination would be required.

The establishment of an episcopacy in Indiana is not overshadowed by the interest in the election of new bishops. The number to be chosen will be fixed later. Several prominent Indiana Methodists are in the foreground for the bishopric.

Those who are in favor of a separate Indiana episcopacy point out that the expense would be no greater than under the present plan. The three conferences in this state contribute $14,770 for the support of the general episcopacy. It is said that a bishop for Indiana as a separate area could be maintained for approximately $10,000 a year.

The argument in favor of a separate episcopacy for this state arises from an increasing demand for closer supervision on the part of bishops.

Besides the maintenance of its churches and lands, Indiana Methodism has built up an elaborate organization including hospitals and educational institutions. Methodist realty holdings in Indiana have an estimated value of $8,247,770, and it is contended that the church organization has reached the proportion where it requires its own control.

The hospital system has been extended to various parts of the state. Some years ago Indiana Methodists built the Methodist hospital in Indianapolis, which has since been greatly enlarged. Recently a hospital at Princeton came under the control of the church as stations have been established at Ft. Wayne, South Bend and Gary.

Dr. George R. Grose, president of DePauw university for the last eight years, is being widely mentioned as a possibility. His record at DePauw is pointed to with pride by those who favor his election.

Another Indiana minister mentioned for a vacancy is the Rev. Dr. R. J. Wade, of Goshen. He is the district superintendent of the Goshen district of the North Indiana conference. During the last two years he has been at the head of the Chicago area conference forces and has made an enviable record as an administrator in the history of the government.

Publisher May Be Selected.

A third man, whose name has been associated with the bishopric not only in Indiana, his home state, but in other states, is the Rev. Dr. Ernest C. Wareing, editor of the Western Christian Advocate. He is a member of one of the north Indiana conferences and the successful manner in which he handled the affairs of the church publication has placed him in a prominent place throughout American Methodism. His ability as a lecturer and platform speaker is nation-wide and his executive qualities have been repeatedly proved. It is the belief of his friends in his home state, as well as those where his paper circulates, that he would select him for one of the vacancies.

The Rev. Dr. Fred B. Fisher, associate secretary of the board of foreign missions with headquarters in Chicago, is also in line for the bishopric. He holds his Indiana residence in the north Indiana conference.

A proposed change in the church law, which is of interest to Indiana laymen, is that they be given equal representation and vote in the annual conferences. At this time only ordained ministers are permitted to decide questions in the annual conferences, but a proposal has been made that the general conference amend its law so that this privilege may be shared equally with laymen.

Friends Preparing For Transportation To All-World Meeting in August Next

Preparation for transportation of the American delegation to the All-World Conference of Friends in London next August is proceeding at the central offices of Friends in Richmond. A large majority of the 400 American Friends who are going over will sail on the "Baltic" July 31.

Direct work of obtaining passage is being done in Philadelphia through the committee on arrangements, of which Dr. W. C. Woodward, of this city, is a member.

Richmond and Earlham College will be well represented not only by Young Friends, all of whom have not been appointed, but by the official appointees of Indiana Yearly Meeting and the Five Years Meeting, who include Dr. W. C. Woodward, Dr. Allen D. Hole and Robert E. Pretlow, of Seattle, Wash., a graduate of Earlham, representing the latter body, and the following delegates of Indiana Yearly Meeting: Harlow Lindley, S. E. Nicholson, J. Herschel Coffin, of this city; Alexander C. Purdy, an alternate, and Millard E. Pearson, Amboy, Ind.; Edith E. Wildman, Selma, O.; Emerson Cloyd Winchester, Chester, L. Reagan, Spiceland, all former Earlham students.

Men's Noon Classes Will Play Volley Ball at "Y"

Two sides are to be chosen from the Men's noon class at the "Y", and a series of volleyball games will be played. A senior captain for each side will be chosen and a captain for each week. This same arrangement was maintained for 10 weeks last fall with good results and much enthusiasm.

The class is composed of business men, including R. E. Brewer, Fred H. Lemon, Forrest J. Gartside, A. C. Allen, Fred R. Borton, James Hornaday, W. L. Stump, R. J. Buck, A. D. Gayle, Dell Davis, John Longstreth, Allen Jay, Ben Bartel, William Schobler, Walter Doan, Dr. Williams, Ray K. Shively, F. D. Henderson, Ray Marshall, Dr. Busche and M. E. Coulter.

CUTE JUNGLE BABIES WITH HAGENBACK-WALLACE CIRCUS

The children who visit the Hagenback-Wallace circus here on May 5, will be delighted when they see the two cutest little jungle babies that ever rolled out of the thicket. To be precise, however, they never saw a jungle, being captive-born lions and used to city ways. They are little balls of soft fur with bright, blinking eyes and playful paws.

Their mother, and a proud beast she is, watches over her offspring zealously. Voe be to the venturesome keeper who seeks to pet those babies through the bars of the cage. Mamma is a jealous beast and will brook no interference in her domestic affairs.
