

HUMAN RACE MUST CONTROL VENEREL DISEASES—DR. SMITH

Dr. Smith, of Easthaven, has the following to say of the present campaign here against venereal diseases:

"While the diseases of the human body are many and assume a variety of forms, medical men have learned that the causes are few. The same infection may produce several diseases and disorders, depending upon the organs attacked, the age, sex, and habits of the individual, and, not the least, the modifying factor of prompt and proper treatment in the effort to control it. Harmful organisms, regardless of the place of entrance, are picked up and carried by the blood stream and lymphatic system to any and all organs of the body, and may be deposited to begin their mischief, work anywhere.

"Of all the vicious organisms which thrive in the human body none produces so many disorders as that of syphilis; none is the cause of disease so insidious, so prolonged, so loathsome, and so certain of fatal outcome; none is so hurtful to the offspring of its victims; and, on the other hand, none yields more readily to prompt and systematic treatment.

"In spite of the fact that the medical profession has known for many years that this disease could be prevented and controlled by treatment, and has warned the public of its dangers, this disease has steadily become more widespread and is now found everywhere in all classes of society.

Must Be Controlled

"The time has come when this disease must be controlled or the entire human family will suffer from it and its degenerative processes.

"If it were limited in its effects to the victim who carelessly or wilfully exposes himself to it, that would be one thing; but it is not so limited, and it touches and affects the innocent in greater proportion and, therefore, it becomes another and a bigger thing. The innocent must be protected, both as a matter of humanity and race welfare, and if the guilty victim will not do it, then we must be restrained and controlled by some form of public opinion.

"The hospital for the insane and institutions for the feeble-minded house many end-products of syphilitic infection. Mental and nervous diseases are not the immediate results of syphilitic infection. They come after, five to 20 years after the first infection, and usually when all other signs and symptoms have long since disappeared. Then, too, the off-springs of syphilitics are prone to develop mental and nervous diseases in different forms but equally disastrous.

"In the hospital for the insane approximately one-fifth of the population react to syphilitic tests. It is so prevalent, that all new cases are subjected to such examinations. It is a grievous fact that the outcome of mental and nervous diseases caused by syphilis is unfavorable. Such are never restored to health, and only temporary benefit, and that rarely, can ever be expected from the best treatment.

Gonorrhea, the other venereal disease, and equally prevalent, is harmful in a different way. The symptoms are more active in the first stage, very infectious and brings untold suffering and torture to the innocent victims. It is responsible for many cases of blindness in infants and many surgical disorders, especially in women.

This disease, also, must be controlled and prevented.

"The necessity for prevention of syphilis and gonorrhea should be apparent to everyone. The facts and methods of the disease are well established, methods of treatment are well worked out, and are available to everyone, and the laws both federal and state are ample. There remains only the need of some public opinion to control them, and a campaign of publicity, and nothing else, will develop it.

The public must know the facts about these diseases, they must be called by their proper names—syphilis and gonorrhea; it must be known that many victims are innocent of wrongdoing, the carriers of the disease must be located and subjected willingly or unwillingly to treatment and restricted activity.

The victims of these diseases must understand that they must place themselves under the treatment of a physician and fully co-operate with him in all things. For the poor, the Free Venereal Clinic at Easthaven is open. All must have medical advice, and if it is refused the law is sufficient to compel it.

This is an hygienic and economic problem, and as such it will be solved.

S. E. SMITH,
Medical Superintendent.

Easthaven, Richmond, Indiana.

Hueing, Home Distiller, Fined $100; Still Seized

Lawrence Hueing, alleged manufacturer of "home-made" whiskey, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail in police court Wednesday morning. The jail sentence was suspended.

The still operated by Hueing was seized by federal officers at 10 a. m. Tuesday morning. Fifty gallons of corn mash and a small quantity of home-brewed whiskey were seized in connection with the still.

Hueing lives at 742 South Sixth street and it is not known how long he has been carrying on the illicit manufacture of liquor. The mash confiscated at his home was made of two tin cans soldered together to form an evaporator. A 100-pound lard can was used to conceal the coils, in which the steam was condensed by a water cooling process.

The arrest was made by Federal Officers White and Hoover.

LANDLORDLESS TOWN OF NEW HOPE, O., IS UTOPIA OF AMERICA

There is a town that the rent professor doesn't know is on the map.

Every family in New Hope, Ohio, ten miles east of Richmond, owns a home.

About 100 people proudly call this town "home." And where there is a home there's a garage and at least one automobile.

New Hope has no police force, no mayor and no politicians.

"We don't need a police force," says John Hower, retired farmer, who tells travelers which way to go to reach Richmond or Dayton.

Ever body here knows how to behave—we all go to the same church—the United Brethren—and folks minds their own business."

Hower pointed to a pile of bricks and plaster. "See that wreckage?" he said. "That used to be a saloon—the only one New Hope ever had. The folks didn't like the idea 'round here, and the day after it opened we went down in a body and egged the place out of business. Ain't had a saloon since."

Store Sells Everything.

"And do you see that store? Some place, eh? It's the only one we've got, but it's a plenty. You kin git anything from a piece of court plaster to a plow in there—and Lem's prices is right."

New Hopers have made their fortunes out of tobacco, wheat, corn, oats, hogs and cattle. Preble county, Jackson township, are, it is claimed, the richest county and township, per capita, in the United States.

"We've all been to the cities 'round here," they say. "And we don't want New Hope to get like a city. We've got back yards, plenty o' air, ain't bothered by policemen or a mayor—what more do we want?"

STATE MAY ADD 250
ACRES TO ITS FORESTS

The state conservation commission will consider buying 200 to 250 acres of land to be added to the state forest preserve near Henryville, in Henry county. Richard Lieber, director of conservation; W. A. Guthrie, chairman of the state conservation commission, and Charles C. Dean, state forester, were in Henryville Tuesday to inspect the land.

News of Railroad and Industrial Workers

An end is in sight to trouble of the car repair department of the east yards in obtaining labor. With the return of warm weather, men working in factories become discontented and long for outdoor work. Employment agencies say numbers of unskilled laborers are leaving the factory for outdoor work. A large per cent of these will apply for work at the yards.

Although hurting other departments, the shortage of freight cars caused by the strike of switchmen has aided the car repair department. The smaller the amount of rolling stock, the less the car repair department has to do.

Previous to the switchmen's trouble, the department was considerably behind in the number of cars repaired. Today the car repair department is in the best condition of several months.

Several men on the Richmond division have made application to the heads of their respective departments for transfer to the yards at Columbus or Cincinnati. This action has resulted from notices being sent out from Cincinnati and Columbus for men to fill the large number of vacancies caused by the discharge of switchmen. No Richmond men are known to have applied but several from Newcastle and other points have.

Six veteran members of the Logansport shops of the Pennsylvania railroads, well known to Richmond veterans, will be placed on the pension list on May 1. These men are: John J. Sheerin, foreman of the Logansport paint shop; Henry Warnke, Logansport paint shop laborer; William Veale, lamp man; Frank Kline, laborer; Mark M. Henry, carpenter; and John Thran, laborer.

proved the most popular of 15 candidates voted for, both Democratic and Republican, at an election held at Purdue university Thursday. President Woodrow Wilson was among the most unpopular on the Democratic ticket, while his son-in-law, William G. McAdoo, received the greatest number of votes cast by the Democrats. William Howard Taft was the most unpopular candidate considered by the Republicans, receiving but one vote.
