GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO, April 30.—The grain trade believes corn, oats and rye decline yesterday due to security influence. A rally is due today as stock exchanges close tomorrow and the weather is not ripe. May corn, oats and rye situation is reviewed as strong. Bartlett and Frazier see no chance for anything but temporary grain declines. Logan and Bryan see nothing bearish outside of the stock market influence. Newspapers print very little news about the wheatmen's strike, but the financial newspapers mention locomotive firemen for more wages. Down in the southwest they are talking $4 to $5 dollars for wheat due to big ploughing. Tribune runs an article on wheat outlook and mentions talk of $4 to $5 wheat and very high prices for flour. An 18 cent loaf of bread is predicted.
