CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 22.—Boston Braves are to open a four game series at Redland Field, Saturday afternoon. The first game will be marked by the raising of the world championship flag.

BRINGING UP FATHER BY McMANUS

STARRING
VEAN GREGG
SPORTS

The open season for baseball stars in retirement to come out is about closed. And it has gone by with Vean Gregg, great southpaw, still resisting the call. Vean, this spring, has turned down several tempting offers from Seattle of the Pacific Coast league to pitch. "No, thanks; I finally got out of the game and I stay out," replied Gregg to every invitation.

When the Cleveland club signed Vean Gregg several years ago, after his record-breaking hurling on the Pacific coast, he was justly heralded as the best southpaw "find" in years. And for a couple of seasons in the big show he earned the title of "the best southpaw in the big show today." But he did not last. And the main reason, it is generally conceded, was the lack of heart for the limelight. All the while Vean was in the minors and the majors he would rather have been back home in Oregon, working daily at his trade of plastering. "The tall plasterer," as the fans of course dubbed him, couldn't see hotel life and traveling. The home life, and the farm—appealed to him more.

He liked to be, also, where he could pick up a rifle at any time and blaze away at some mark—game or target. I recall the day that Vean was practicing in the Cleveland ball yard when a vaudeville sharpshooter entered the grounds.

Gregg was born in Chehalis, Ore., in 1886. He first played pro ball with Spokane in the Northwestern league in 1909. His sensational showing caused Portland to buy his release that fall. The next year he set the baseball world on fire. For one thing he hung up a world's strikeout record of 367 strikeouts in 335 innings. He averaged 8.34 strikeouts a game for 44 contests.

The Cleveland club at that time had business relations with the Portland club and purchased the tall plasterer for $4,000. For two or three seasons he shown in Cleveland, ranking as the best southpaw in the game at one time. Then his arm grew sore. In July, 1914, he was traded to the Red Sox. The change failed to revive his arm, however, and he was sent to the International League. He tried a come back with the Sox later and then drifted back to the coast.

NEW ATHLETIC LEAGUE IS
To meet the need of new athletic league, since the withdrawal of Washash, Michigan, Aggies, Knox, Butler, DePauw and Valparaiso, have been drawn up by the athletic authorities in these institutions, Earlham authorities heard Saturday. All of these institutions have shown that they were anxious to become members of the proposed circuit, and although nothing definite has been done yet, a meeting of representatives from all these schools, and possibly one or two more, will be held at Ann Arbor, Mich., on June 4, the day before the conference track and field meet.

In selecting these schools for tentative members of the new circuit particular attention was paid to the question of whether or not the towns in which these schools are located will support college athletics. The indications that the league will be well enough supported to be successful are very bright.

Earlham Track Men Ready For Meet at Terre Haute

State critics have picked Earlham to cop the I. C. A. L. track meet at Terre Haute Saturday afternoon. The performance of Earlham in winning three track meets and losing one by only two points is the reason for the dope.

Coach Mowe, of Earlham, is not as enthusiastic, however. His team's weakness in the dash events, coupled with competition from Butler and Franklin in distance runs, leads Mowe to believe a close meet is forthcoming.

The Quaker monitor took 13 men to Terre Haute Friday afternoon. A light workout was held there late Friday to accustom the Quakers to all angles of the Rose Poly field. Those making the trip are: Ivey, Lawler, Johnson, Carey, Dalton, Tomlinson, Chambers, Carter, Teal, Delph, Grafis, Whiteley and Fauquher.

Quakers Are Off For Muncie
The Earlham baseball aggregation left for Muncie Saturday morning for the return scrap with the Normal school of that city Saturday afternoon. Muncie won an early 3 to 8 game from the Quakers. Coach Echols of high school accompanied the squad as Coaches Mowe and Higgins accompanied the track team to Terre Haute.

WALLACE TO BOX OLSEN
Bud Wallace, Richmond welterweight scrapper, will box ten rounds to a decision with Kid Olsen, of the Superior Shows of the Moose Carnival at the carnival grounds Saturday night. The winner of the scrap will take all the gate receipts. Wallace will weigh in at 150 pounds, while Olsen fights at 158 pounds.

DRULEY KNOCKED OUT
Yank Druley, Centerville welterweight, received his first setback since leaving the army when knocked out by Young Webb in the last round of an eight round bout at Dayton Friday night. The main fight of the evening between Battling Levinsky and Chuck Wiggins, resulted in a draw.

A. S. M. Baseball
Ollie Otten made his debut as pitcher for the Wheat Drills of the A. S. M. league and pitched a good game. His team lost by a 6 to 5 count to the league-leading Corn Drills, however. Shoemaker, Fye and White led in hitting for the losers, each getting two hits out of three. Burke led the Corn Drills with the stick.

The Miller-Kempers Will Play
The Miller-Kemper baseball team will play in Boston, Sunday, May 23. Truck will leave Seventh and South G streets at 1:30 prompt, and all players are requested to be there by that time, announced Manager Feasel Saturday.

UNION COUNTY BEE MEN
HOLD A FIELD MEETING
A field meeting of a small group of Union county bee men was held Wednesday, at the apiary of Horace Lamar, Harmony township. S. H. Burton, of Washington, Indiana, discussed the bee industry generally. Mr. Lamar's lives were inspected by the experts for "foulbrood," but no disease was discovered. Modern hives, modern methods and equipment were studied and a very valuable meeting resulted.

The Farm and The Farmer

By William R. Sanborn

"Comparing the present prices of whole milk and butterfat," said Robert E. Whiteman, living on the Chester pike, "I lost about $5 on my milk in the past two weeks. Have been selling the milk instead of the cream, as a tryout. For example, the milk from three cows brought me $20.05 for the past two weeks, which was 60 cents less than the cream alone was worth at current prices. On top of that I lost 700 pounds of skim milk. Even at 60 cents per hundred, a low figure this would have been worth $4.20. Some have estimated that 100 pounds of skim milk, fed to young hogs, is equal to one-half bushel of corn in food value, though I haven't figured that out for myself."

Mr. Whiteman says he can't afford to sell his milk at present prices; bran and middlings being entirely too high. He says that middlings advanced $5 per ton the day that Richmond milk distributors cut the price of milk.

A Lucky Breakdown.
C. D. Thomason, who owns a farm near Whitewater, says he owes the splendid condition of his 30-acre wheat field to the breaking of his grain drill last fall, delaying the seeding for about 10 days. The fly didn't get his wheat, while those who planted early lost out, at least part. Harry Robertson, who is running the Thomason farm, said he was to plant better than 30 acres of corn and up to Friday morning none had been put in. He said that oats and rape are showing up well.

Got $14 For His Hogs.
Charles F. Williams, living south on the Liberty pike, says that he sold 33 hogs in Richmond on Monday, averaging 223 pounds, at $14. Mr. Williams says that 25 acres of the 50 sown to wheat on the last of September is looking very fair and that part

General Wool Meeting Is Postponed to Next

The wool pool meeting which was set for this Saturday night has been postponed until May 29. The meeting was deferred because of the fact that bids are to be submitted by eastern wool buyers to the wool pools in the sixth district at Muncie tonight, and County Agent Murphy will attend the meeting, in order to represent Wayne county growers and to insure their inclusion in the pool.

These bids will be presented for consideration of Wayne farmers at the coming meeting. After reaching a decision as to the bids from eastern buyers, details covering the place where wool deliveries are to be made, etc., will be worked out.

Heavy Rains and Frost
Are Week's Curriculum
The following summary of weather and crop conditions in Indiana for the week ending May 18 is issued from the weather bureau, Indianapolis, department of agriculture, J. H. Armstrong, Meteorologist:
Heavy rains marked the beginning and closing days of the week, while frosts or freezing temperatures occurred in most sections on Friday and Saturday. The mean temperature showed a deficiency of 9 degrees, while rainfall average nearly 2 inches of the normal for the week. Although at the beginning of the week moisture was needed in many places to soften the surface soil, which had become crusted, the precipitation was so heavy as to further delay plowing and planting of corn, potatoes, truck, etc., which made only slow progress at best.

On the other hand, while vegetation made only slow growth under the cool weather, oats, rye, clover, meadows and pastures continued to improve in condition. Wheat showed considerable improvement in most localities, and the crop is reported as fair in the majority of places in the central and adjoining counties but the conditions are still poor in most places in the extreme northern and extreme southern section.

The frost of Friday and Saturday caused only slight damage.

CORN MEN PROVIDE FOR BETTER SUPPLY OF SEED
Provision for better supplies of high-quality seeds is the object of the Indiana Corn Growers' association in offering to inspect and certify seeds produced and offered for sale by Hoosier farmers, is the statement of the committee on seed certification.

Investigation shows that Indiana is behind other states in this respect and it is hoped that the plan of inspection and certification will eventually bring improved seeds to every farmer. It is not expected that a large number of farmers will go into the business of pure seed production, but it is hoped that at least one source of high grade seed will be established in every community.

Thirty-one general conditions have been incorporated in the plan to stabilize the certification and inspection.

Farm Federation
Detailed information concerning the supply of live stock on Indiana farms and the probable number of animals which will be marketed up to July 1, is being prepared by the Indiana Federation of Farmers' associations for distribution among its members. The report will be the first made under a system worked out by the federation and George C. Bryant, field agent for the co-operative crop reporting service, department of agriculture.

Under this system Indiana farmers are asked to fill out blanks giving information regarding their stock.
