

DRIFT TO CITIES IS REVEALED IN CENSUS OF STATE COUNTIES

The movement of population from the farms to the cities was strikingly emphasized in the population returns of 12 Indiana counties, including Henry and other counties near Wayne, announced Tuesday by the United States census bureau. Only three of the 12 counties, practically all of which are largely agricultural, showed an increase in population over 1910 and the other nine showed losses.

The three counties to show gains were Cass, Henry and Huntington, while those that showed losses were Blackford, Decatur, Delaware, Franklin, Jennings, Ohio, Pulaski, Ripley and Rush.

The fact that people are moving from the farms can be realized more fully when it is known that practically all of the Indiana cities, some of them included in the twelve counties, have shown large increases in population.

Henry Has Biggest Gain.

Henry county showed the largest percentage of gain with 16.5 per cent. Blackford county showed the largest loss, with 11 per cent. less population than in 1910.

The figures on the counties reported today follow:

Blackford, 14,084; Cass, 38,532; Decatur, 17,813; Delaware, 56,377; Franklin, 14,758; Henry, 34,682; Huntington, 21,671; Jennings, 13,280; Ohio, 4,024; Pulaski, 12,335; Ripley, 18,694; Rush, 19,241.

Increases Since 1910—Cass, 2,105 or 6.0; Delaware, 4,963 or 9.7; Henry, 4,924 or 14.5; Huntington, 2,659 or 9.3.

Decreases Since 1910—Blackford, 1,736 or 11.00; Decatur, 980 or 5.2; Franklin, 577 or 3.8; Jennings, 923 or 6.5; Ohio, 305 or 7.0; Pulaski, 937 or 7.0; Ripley, 78 or 3.9; Rush, 108 or .06.

President's Pay Is Not Taxable, Court Decision

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Provisions of the war revenue act requiring the president and all federal judges to pay an income tax on their salaries were declared unconstitutional Tuesday by the Supreme court in a 7 to 2 decision.

Under the act the president paid on his salary of $75,000 a year, approximately $16,000 in taxes. Revenue already collected under the invalid provisions will be refunded by the treasury.

The Supreme court's decision was on appeals by Federal District Judge Walter Evans of Louisville, Ky., from lower court decrees dismissing a suit brought by him to recover taxes involuntarily paid. He contended that the Federal court could be gradually increased until the entire salary was taken. The majority opinion held, however, that a federal judge was not exempt from tax on his private income or on his property.

Justice Holmes rendered a dissenting opinion in which Justice Brandeis concurred. He declared that no reason existed why federal judges should be exempt from the income tax.

Active Despite Years

In a recent interview Henry Holt, the well-known author and publisher, accounted for his long life (he is past eighty) to the fact that since youth he has practiced temperance in all things, including smoking, drinking and eating, and that he has made a habit of optimism and good humor.

Henry Holt was born at Baltimore, Md., on Jan. 3, 1840. He secured an A. B. degree at Yale in 1862 and an LL. B. degree at Columbia two years later. He began the publishing business with G. B. Putnam in New York in 1863. Ten years later he established the book publishing firm of Henry Holt & Co., of which he has since been president. He was a member of the first executive committee of the simplified spelling board, and first chairman of the New York University Settlement Society. He has lectured at Yale and Columbia and at the University of Vermont.

Holt is the author of the following books: Calmire—Man and Nature, 1892; Talks on Civics, 1901; Storm—Man and Man, 1905; On the Civic Relations, 1907; On the Cosmic Relations, 1914. He is the editor of The Unpartisan Review, a position he has held for the past six years.
