

CONSUMERS REFUSE TO BUY; DRY GOODS MARKET UNCERTAIN

NEW YORK, July 2.—The close of the fiscal year and the half year finds the dry goods trade in an unsettled and an uncertain state. Liquidation of a severe character has occurred in the silk industry, and in a less drastic way, it is proceeding in the wool industry.

Hesitation in buying at high prices has been so plain that most merchants are agreed that whatever the course of costs may be in the immediate future consumers will not pay on the highest levels for the possible output of the mills.

Although cotton and flax are relatively scarce, buyers of linens and cottons are resisting high prices.

In some aspects the trade is in a critical position. The mills have so little confidence in the prices they ask that as soon as orders expire they give notice of a curtailment of production. They will not accumulate goods.

Many Orders Held Up

There are still millions of dollars' worth of goods due on order, and most of these goods were purchased at prices that mills cannot duplicate and guarantee delivery at this time, nor for some time to come.

In the silk and wool goods trades, where the raw materials underwent a sharp decline, and where finished goods prices were offered for spring and fall at ridiculously high levels, many orders were canceled. Yet those who booked many of these orders doubted whether they could hold in the event of any minor unsettlement.

Most merchants in the trade believe that the underlying cause of the hesitation is the condition of the money market or the capital required for financing the high prices that have come about. The bank pressure has been persistent, and the money rates are abnormally high. To the heads of houses there two things are controlling.

Think Market Will Come Back
Among sales, department managers and so on there is a strange insistence that the market will soon come back and even still higher prices will prevail. They are moved by the condition of supply and the feeling that the purchase power of the mass of people has undergone no vital change in the past three months.

ANDOVER, Mass., July 2.—The principal mills of the American Woolen company, now operating only three days a week, will be shut down completely for an indefinite period on July 10, President William M. Wood announced Thursday.

Cancellation of orders filled or ready to be filled, and curtailment of orders for next season's goods, he said, made the stoppage necessary. He said it was impossible to forecast how long the mills would have to be kept closed.

Humor Helps Along in Dull Convention Hours

CHICAGO, Ill., July 2.—The long hours of oratory that mark every national political convention may bore the tired delegates and spectators nearly to the point of exhaustion, but never kill their sense of humor. Occasionally witty sentence or a quick rejoinder has been credited with having had a greater effect on the final result than all the oratory of the picked spell-binders.

At the recent Republican gathering at Chicago, Frank B. Wills, former governor of Ohio, was nominating Senator Warren G. Harding for the presidency.

Ohio was far down in the list. The 13,000 sweltering persons, who crowded the big Coliseum had listened with only half-interest to more than five hours of fervid oratory when Wills, closing his speech, said: "Well, boys and girls, let's nominate Harding."

The friendly humor brought a ready response.

The next day, when the landslide toward Harding began, an Ohio admirer of the senator who had inscribed the sentence on a huge sheet of cardboard dropped it from the gallery. It made an instantaneous hit.

Earlier in the contest, a negro delegate from Oklahoma, appearing before the credentials committee at 3 o'clock in the morning to press his claim for a seat, put new life into that body and won his point by a remark. Having told how the "lily white" side had held its convention in a hotel from which negroes were barred by the proprietor, he said:

"Why, gentlemen, in Oklahoma there's Jim Crowism' from the house to the hotel."

In the laugh that followed a motion to seat the contestant was carried unanimously.

PENNSYLVANIA TOWN IS INTERESTED IN HARDING

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 2.—If Warren G. Harding is elected president of the United States, this pretty little university city in the hills of western Pennsylvania will be bound up closer than ever with the White House, for not only did Senator Harding's ancestor live here but the father of President Wilson also was a resident of Washington.

Senator Harding's great-grandfather, William Van Kirk, was one of the early settlers of Franklin township, and he and his wife are buried in the family graveyard on the Charles Van Kirk farm near Point Lookout. Senator Harding is honorary president of the Van Kirk family society and frequently has attended the annual reunion here.

President Wilson's father, Rev. Joseph Ruggles Wilson, was born at Steubenville, O., not far from here and in 1848 became pastor of the Hills Presbyterian church at Canonsburg, near Washington. Here the family remained until their removal to Virginia where the president was born a short time afterward.

SUFFRAGE LEADER IN TENNESSEE

Sue S. White.

Miss Sue S. White of Nashville, Tenn., chairman of the National Woman's party, has been placed in charge of the campaign for ratification of the suffrage amendment by Tennessee in the special session of that state's legislature. Governor Roberts is said to have called the special session in response to the president's request largely upon the insistence of the opinion gained by Miss White in spite of a provision in the Tennessee constitution which requires an election to intervene between the submission and ratification of an amendment.

Miss White's Washington assignment has been until recently as national research chairman of the party. She was formerly executive secretary of the Tennessee commission for the blind, and is now the youngest head of a state suffrage organization.

Rural Carriers of 6th Will Meet on July 4

An all day meeting of the rural carriers of the Sixth congressional district will be held at Rushville court house, Sunday, July 4, beginning at 10 a.m. Among the most important subjects to be brought up at this meeting will be an effort to bring about the repeal of the 50 mile motor routes law and the withdrawal of the present 50 mile routes, and the enactment of a law preventing any route being more than 30 miles in length, with increased salaries for standard routes of 24 miles, and the same rate of pay over that as paid for the first 24 miles. Another subject of importance is the insurance feature, whereby $300 will be paid to a carrier's family upon his death.

J. Cletus Stambaugh, a rural carrier of York, Pa., who has appeared before the senate postoffice committee and the joint commission on postal salaries will make the principal address.

EVERY WORD WAS FROM BOTTOM OF HIS HEART

Richmond citizen very earnest in his praise of the great herbal tonic, Dreco, which has done so much for him.

Pain in back, rheumatism—nerves shot to pieces, could not sleep, limbs stiff and muscles sore. Now well as ever.

"One day I read about what a man said about Dreco taking a load off his back which felt like a ton of brick and I laughed at it but now know that every word he said came from the bottom of his heart," declared Mr. H. E. Pleck, who is a car inspector and lives at 2006 N. F St., Richmond, Ind. "I want to tell everyone what Dreco has done for me. I was so bad from suffering I was afraid I would be permanently deformed as the rheumatism had such a hold on me. My back and limbs were sore and stiff; muscles were drawn, and the joints seemed to be dried; my nerves were shot to pieces so that I could not sleep; I had shooting pains in my back and side. Really I was in bad shape but Dreco has certainly proven a blessing to me as I know more relief from pain now than in years; I can bend about and stoop over without the slightest pain; sleep sound at night; getting stronger day by day. I strongly advise sufferers to try Dreco and they won't be disappointed."

No medicine introduced here has sprung into such favor as Dreco. Hardly a day passes but what some person drops in and tells of the excellent results Dreco has produced for them. It cleanses the system of impurities, increases the appetite and sends new energy bounding through every nerve; it restores the kidneys to healthy action and makes the sluggish liver waken; relieves indigestion, gastritis and constipation; quietes the nerves and promotes sound, refreshing sleep. It acts on the blood and banishes catarrh and rheumatism from the system.

All good druggists now sell Dreco and it is highly recommended in Richmond by Clem Thistlethwaite's seven drug stores.—Advertisement.
