Perspiration stains rot your silk stockings

After every wearing, toss them into these cleansing suds

HOW often you have been annoyed at the stains that perspiration left on a delicately colored silk stocking! They were so unsightly! Worse than that, they are harmful! The chemical action of perspiration rots the fine silk fibres. Your expensive stockings are actually being eaten up!

But you can save them! After every wearing, dip them in a bowl of foamy Lux suds. Don't let them wait, even over night. The pure Lux suds will freshen them in a minute, cleanse away every trace of perspiration and dust. It means twice the life for your silk stockings!

Get Lux today from your grocer, druggist or department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

There's nothing like Lux for silk stockings

A few helps for silk stockings
Never rub or wring silk stockings. Squeeze the water out gently.

Always use a warm iron, never a hot one.
Spread soaked stockings on a towel and roll immediately to dry. Iron while still damp.

Furs and Mystery

BY PALAIS ROYAL

At this time, when "tempting" prices are being offered here and there on "genuine" furs of many kinds, it may be well to review a few of the numerous substitutes previously mentioned in this series of exposures.

To begin with, we found that "Hudson Seal" is not seal at all, but in reality seal-dyed muskrat, nutria or otter.

Then, too, we learned that muskrat is often not muskrat at all, but merely dyed rabbit. Next we discovered that out busy little muskrat frequently masquerades as various kinds of mink, and, when sheared, as the tiny mole.

Then there's raccoon bringing the price of lynx; marmot, mink, fitch and hare as American sable; American sable as Russian sable; opossum as marten; weasel as ermine; numerous inferior species of fox as black fox; nutria as beaver; rabbit as ermine and French seal—and so on without end.

Now ask yourself one fair question—How under the sun can you expect to distinguish the genuine from the imitation when in many cases the salesman who is trying to sell you the fur does not know the difference himself?

It takes men who have devoted their lives to the study of furs to detect some of the substitutes that are perpetrated, and it is not unusual for the average department store buyer to be fooled on what he purchases as completely as his customers.

It must therefore be said for the salespeople in such departments that they frequently mislead you unknowingly, for they are often told by a buyer who is not a real furrier that an article is genuine, and so they pass the word on to you, not realizing it to be a falsehood.

This, however, does not help you in any way when the fur goes to pieces and you'll therefore find it profitable in the long run to play safe, disregard price "bait," and buy your furs of a reliable furrier who really knows the fur business.

Whether innocent because of not knowing, or as a disguise for protection when the revelation comes—Beware of the Wolf in Sheep's Clothing.

Chimpanzee Actress of N. Y. Zoo is Proud Parent Today

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 15.—Susette, formerly star chimpanzee actress, now an inmate in her Bronx Zoological Gardens, today is the fond mother of the first infant of the species ever born in the United States, and the second ever born in captivity. After Boma, the proud father of the private household, was induced late last night to cease his hysterical yelpings in celebration of the event, physicians in charge reported today that both mother and child were resting peacefully. Susette was in a secluded cage with her offspring tightly clasped in her arms. Susette has spent several years on the stage.

KEEP UP TO THE MARK

Good health is impossible when the kidneys are weak, overworked or diseased. When they fail to filter out of the blood the poisons and impurities that cause sore, swollen muscles and joints, backache or rheumatic pains, prompt steps should be taken to give the kidneys and bladder the help those symptoms indicate they need. James Carmichael, Mayfield, Ky., writes: "I am in good shape and can say I found Foley Kidney Pills certainly fine. I can't say enough for them." For sale by A. G.
