GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO, July 22.—Buying side of grains stirred up a little more today on large wheat sales. Too dry in Canada. More rust reports from Minnesota and South Dakota. Talk of reduced corn receipts and cash stuff one to two cents higher. The rust reports may be repeats, but some of them claim that the damage is spreading. New York reports two million wheat taken yesterday by it and claims about ten million taken in the past week. A few dry spots in the corn belt are reported, but corn and oats crop news mainly very good. There is more definite leaning to the break buying side.

CELEBRATOR OF MAINE CENTENARY

Susan Neptune.

Susan Neptune, mother of Gov. William Neptune, of the Passamaquoddy tribe of Indians, camped in Portland in connection with Maine's centennial celebration, which recently came to an end. The old lady separated herself from the throng frequently to pull away in long time form on a new-style pipe.

"I think that we have been buying a lot of things that are not necessary, and this labor cost at the municipal plant has got to be reduced," Gilbert declared. He remarked that included among the bills due against the municipal plant, was one received from a coal company which had been waiting for its money since May 28.

"We have just got so much money to apply to these bills and we will have to make it go as far as possible," the board president declared. "I think the oldest bills should be taken care of first."

When the board president instructed Superintendent Dillon to reduce the labor cost at the plant Dillon asked that he be instructed to stop all unnecessary work at the plant and reduce the working force to a minimum. Before the board adjourned, Dillon called attention to the fact that a wall and the roof of the boiler house of the plant were in a hazardous condition and asked the board to submit to council an ordinance appropriating $12,500 for a new wall and new roof. The board passed a resolution to that effect.

President Gilbert entered a protest against a submitted bill of $74 for houses at Glen Miller park. Gilbert declared that this was no time for the city to spend money for wall paper. Park Superintendent Hollarn declared that he had to make the improvements to keep help at the park. He said two men recently quit the park service because of the condition of two tenant houses.

"This city is in a mighty bad shape, financially," remarked the board president. Hollarn then reported that lack of funds prevented badly needed repairs to roads at the park.

While discussing the purchase of a new supply for the city building, Gilbert and Peltz engaged in a tilt. "This work has been done by Peltz," Gilbert said. "If you want to look after the buying go ahead and do so. I wash my hands of the whole thing," Peltz said to Gilbert.

Considerable comment was caused by the resignation of Mr. Gilbert. It is generally understood that Mr. Gilbert is considerably displeased over the way municipal affairs have been conducted of late. He informed friends that the city had no one to supervise its administration and he called attention to the fact that before Mayor Zimmerman became incapacitated he showed a general lack of interest in the affairs of his office, seldom attending the board meetings.

The action of the city council in delaying action on necessary improvements at the municipal plant, as proposed by the board of public works, is also believed to have entered into the decision of the board president to tender his resignation.

Believes Changes Necessary.
As he left the city building Thursday morning Mr. Gilbert remarked to a newspaper man that he believed the only solution for an efficient and efficient administration of municipal affairs was to have the legislature pass a law permitting cities to establish some form of the commission system of government. "If this question comes up before the legislature I will be willing to devote considerable of my time in attending sessions as an advocate of the commission plan of city government," he added.

One hundred and fifty thousand members is the goal which the Indiana Federation of Farmers' Associations expects to attain by the membership campaign which will begin the middle of August and continue until the annual convention of the association in the fall. The campaign will be under the direction of H. C. Reid, state organizer for the federation. The present membership is 75,000.

MINE MANAGER KILLED
STEARNs, Ky., July 22.—C. D. Proctor, manager of the Dry Mac Coal company at Sileraville, was waylaid by three miners and murdered early today. Proctor's widow and three children live in Louisville, where the body will be taken for burial.

GILBERT AND
The controller pointed out that if all this coal should actually be delivered within the periods specified it would be impossible for the city to meet the bills, as the total cost would be approximately $397,500, or $122,335 more than the plant's gross receipts in 1919.

President Gilbert supplemented the criticism of the controller with the statement that B. C. Robbins, city attorney, had advised that the board had no legal authority for accepting a bid for coal to be delivered within one year, as this constituted a partial expenditure of funds not due until next year, and that the advertising for bids for coal to be delivered within six months was invalid because there was no appropriation for the amount involved.

The board, on motion of Mr. Peltz, adopted a resolution to reject the previously accepted bid for coal, to withdraw the advertisement for additional coal bids, and that the plant superintendent be instructed to go on the open market for coal and keep the board informed on all propositions received.

Mr. Gilbert stated that, inasmuch as the board had ordered the advertising for coal bids without authority, he was prepared to pay his share of the cost of advertising. The same sentiment was expressed by board members Peltz and Taylor.

President Gilbert in addressing the board, declared that the financial condition of the municipal plant, as indicated by the controller's report, was a great surprise to him, and he presumed, was equally surprising to the other board members.

Board Receives No Report.
He called attention to the fact that it has been customary for the controller to keep the mayor advised on financial affairs, the mayor, in turn, to report such facts to the board. Mr. Gilbert then added that the board had been receiving no reports from the mayor on municipal finances. Controller Bescher, however, has been submitting regular financial reports to the mayor until the mayor left the city.

Roof in Bad Condition.
When the board president instructed Superintendent Dillon to reduce the labor cost at the plant Dillon asked that he be instructed to stop all unnecessary work at the plant and reduce the working force to a minimum. Before the board adjourned, Dillon called attention to the fact that a wall and the roof of the boiler house of the plant were in a hazardous condition and asked the board to submit to council an ordinance appropriating $12,500 for a new wall and new roof. 35 HAPPY ORPHANS GUESTS OF ST. PAUL'S

Thirty-five happy children arrived in Richmond at 5 p. m. Wednesday, for a vacation of ten days to two weeks, as guests of members of the St. Paul's Lutheran church. They were accompanied by the Oesterlin Orphans' Home, Springfield, Ohio, by Mr. and Mrs. Fry.

Not for one moment are they to be allowed to consider themselves as other than members of families, said the Rev. J. P. Miller. They will go to Sunday school next Sunday with their hosts and hostesses.

Thursday afternoon the Sunday school of St. Paul's will hold its annual picnic in Glen Miller park. Here the children will receive one of the best treats of their visit.

Upon arriving in Richmond Wednesday, the children and those that had come to meet them, enjoyed a most agreeable surprise when H. W. Hullinger, of Chicago, a traveling salesman, opened his heart and purse and treated the children to refreshments in a confectionery.

British Quaker Tells Of Starvation in Russia
Terrible conditions prevalent in Russia are depicted in a report received by Clarence E. Pickett, secretary of the Young Friends Conference, describing the trip of Hinman Baker, English Friend, to Moscow.

In Petrograd and Moscow lack of fuel kept the temperature of most of the houses near the freezing point through the long Russian winter. The population herd day and night in the same clothes, including overcoats. This made a high death rate from typhus. The breakdown of transportation has cut off Petrograd and Moscow from food supplies. The population is insufficiently rationed on black bread, cabbage soup and a cereal.

In brief the report said: "There is almost no industry owing to the shortage of fuel and raw material. Under the communal law all surplus stock, crops, and goods must be rendered to the state, which gives in exchange nominal sums of worthless paper money. The peasantry are opposed to this, and so long as the government cannot exchange for their produce clothing, machinery and a thousand other things they need, the majority of Russia will be opposed to Bolshevism."
