DETROIT, July 22.—Demanding development of the upper St. Lawrence river to provide an open waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic, fifteen hundred delegates, representing every section of the country, assembled here today for the opening session of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence tidewater congress.

During the congress, which will continue through Saturday, speakers from the states will urge development of a tidewater route as a means of relieving congestion in eastern ports and developing the middle west. The object of the congress, as outlined by officials, is to bring before the people and ultimately the congress of the United States the advantages they believe would result through providing a deep waterway from the sea to the great lakes. Supporters of the movement declare the middle west would be benefited because each great lakes city would become an ocean port and that the commercial and industrial life of the east would be enhanced by cheaper transportation of its markets from the interior.

Sick Nellie Scratches

Keeper Offering Relief
Nellie is just as cross as a sick bear. Why shouldn't she be? Nellie is a bear, residing at Glen Miller, and she is so sick that when her old pal, Ed. Hollan, park superintendent, tried to give her a second dose of bad-tasting medicine, she started to wrestle with him. Before Hollan could dispose of her he received quite a few scratches from Nellie's claws.

"Nellie is the smaller of our two bears and she has had a bad case of summer gripe," Hollan informed the board of public works Thursday. "She took the first dose of medicine I gave her without any trouble but she absolutely refused to take the second dose and we had quite a wrestling match. I have arranged with a veterinary to assist me in giving Nellie medical treatment. We will tie and muzzle her."

Nellie was feeling so mean Thursday that Hollan could not even tempt her appetite with honey.

HARTLEY LOSES LIFE IN EAST END YARD

Inquest by Acting Coroner J. C. Blossom late Friday will determine the cause of the death of John Hartley, found beneath a box car at the Pennsylvania east yards Wednesday.

Coroner Blossom said that death of the man apparently was caused when his head was struck by brake beams and axles of passing box cars. Fellow employees believe Hartley crawled beneath a box car to rest, and fell asleep. The string of cars was moved and two passed over the body, at which time the wheels did not touch him.

The head was badly cut, although the skull was not pierced. His arms were cut from being pressed and drug across cinders and ties. The body will be kept for 10 days. If not claimed then, the body will be buried in Earlham cemetery.

"Our recent election," declared the president, "means practically socialization, or what some people call nationalization. It means state control of industries and public utilities. The working man will decide how they shall be conducted. For example, working men will be among the trustees of banks and will have bonds in factories, etc. They will share in the earnings. That is the tendency now. They necessarily will be a great variety of the economic development because of the work men are now ready for the change, while others are not."
