

PEOPLE OF LIBERTY ENJOY CHAUTAUQUA; DR. PARKER SPEAKS

LIBERTY, Ind., July 29.—The Red-path chautauqua opened in Liberty Tuesday afternoon with an unusually large attendance, for the first day. C. A. Gile, of Chicago, is acting as platform superintendent, and Miss Ora Harris, of the Chicago School of Expression, has charge of the Junior Chautauqua. Miss Harris is coaching the children of the community for a pageant "The Good Fairy Thrift" which will be given on Sunday afternoon. For the opening performance the Premier singers and players gave a most enjoyable program, which was divided into three parts. The first part the company composed of four ladies, appeared in Irish costumes and gave a group of Irish songs and readings. The closing number of the first part of the program, was a cello solo "To An Evening Star". The second part was a salvation army scene, and the members of the company wore the army costume, first giving the well known regular army bugle calls which are well known to the greater part of the people, and the calls and signals used by the Salvation army, which were new to the people of the community. These were followed by a group of Salvation Army songs and ended with an appeal to the people: "Don't Forget the Salvation Army."

Miscellaneous Numbers Enjoyed. Miscellaneous numbers made up the last part of the program, which were composed of vocal and instrumental numbers and the company's reader gave a most enjoyable number in Swedish dialect, which was enjoyable. A closing number "The Jewel Song" from the opera Faust was given.

The Premier singers and players gave a short concert in the evening during which several enjoyable vocal and instrumental numbers were given. Dr. George L. Parker, who is widely known inspirational speaker, gave the address of the evening, using as his subject, "The Man Of A New Age". Dr. Parker has been with the Red-path for a total of seven years, however he has spent the past three years as pastor of an American Church in Petrograd, Russia. He presented a whole hearted appeal for the people of Russia, as a contrast to the people of the United States in every form.

Wednesday afternoon the Hippie Concert company gave a most enjoyable musical program, using delightful combinations of piano, drums, violin, trombone, saxophone, xylophone, and flute. They were unusual in their original productions.

You Can Make Cider and Vinegar, Without Violating Law, Rules State Head

Because a number of letters have recently been received at the office of the Federal prohibition director, asking that the laws regarding the manufacture of cider and vinegar be explained, the office has requested publication of the following interpretation of the law:

Any person may, without permit, and without giving bond, manufacture non-intoxicating cider and fruit juices, and in so doing he may take his apples or fruits to a custom mill and have them made into cider and fruit juices. After such non-intoxicating cider and fruit juices are made, they must be used exclusively in the home, and when so used, the phrase "non-intoxicating" means non-intoxicating in fact and not necessarily less than one-half of 1 per cent alcohol.

Or if the person making such cider and fruit juices desires to do so, he may (1) Sell such cider and fruit juices at any time to persons having permits to make vinegar; (2) If he preserves such cider and fruit juices at the time they are made, he may sell same to the public in general; (3) Or he may sell said cider and other fruit juices so long as they contain less than one-half of one per cent of alcohol, but the purchasers thereof cannot use or possess the same after they contain more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol.

The cider in the home may be allowed to turn to vinegar if the owner desires, provided he adds no sugar or other fermentable substance to the cider or fruit juices to increase the alcoholic content thereof, inasmuch as such practice is held to constitute a mash fit for distillation. He may sell said vinegar to any one who may desire to purchase it.

This regulation is not intended to cover the commercial use of cider and fruit juices, but merely the use of the same as applied to the home.

Fernando Calderon

CALDERON

Don Fernando Iglesias-Calderon, Mexican high commissioner to the United States, with the rank of ambassador, typifies the old and new in Mexico. He is a most pleasing personality, with all the grace and none of the persiflage of the old Spanish grandees. Of pure Spanish descent, his family has been long in Mexico.

A man of vast learning, culture and refinement, Mr. Iglesias (Calderon) was his mother's (name) reminds one for all the world of the southern gentleman of the old school. Yet the Mexican high commissioner is anything but a mere ornament. He is a strong man in the best sense of the term, and does not hesitate to call a spade a spade, although he does so in such a manner as to express positive conviction without giving offense.

Mr. Iglesias largely held aloof from the reign of Porfirio Diaz, foreseeing just such a mess as followed the overthrow of that strong character after thirty years as Mexico's president. He condemned not so much the things which Don Porfirio did as those things which he left undone.

Following the assassination of Francisco I. Madero, the present Mexican high commissioner did not hesitate to speak his mind, although he knew full well the danger of doing so with a man like Victoriano Huerta in power. As a result he was thrown into prison, but escaped with the assistance of persons who recognized his worth as a man and a citizen of the republic.

This was the real occasion of his visit to the United States in 1914, when he spent a month in Washington, and was received by President Wilson as a distinguished citizen of Mexico, at a time when Mr. Wilson was not receiving Mexicans. The president went over the Mexican situation at length with Mr. Iglesias, who took great pleasure in telling newspaper men the day after he arrived here as high commissioner, that his own views coincided exactly with those of the American chief executive.

The Mexican high commissioner has made a distinctly favorable impression on the few government officials he has met. He is a man of seventy years, extremely well preserved, and quite active for a man of his age.

ANDERSON CIDER HAS KICK

ANDERSON, Ind., July 29.—As the result of frequent stories, related in police court by intoxicated persons, that they were affected by cider purchased at local drink emporiums, J. M. Montgomery, Federal prohibition officer, gathered a number of samples of cider sold here and sent them to the state chemist. Analysis showed that in all but one of the cases the cider contained more than one-half of one per cent alcohol.

SHRINERS UNDER WAY TOWARD BIG ACTIVITIES

The "Council of Seven" of the Shriners of Richmond met in executive session Wednesday evening and formally organized the "Zem Zem Shrine club" of Richmond. Officers, details of organization, committees on finances, amusements, etc., will be decided upon at a mass meeting of all Shriners of the city and vicinity, to be held at the K. of P. Temple at 7:30 p. m., August 6th.

A tentative plan to be offered the mass meeting for financing the club, was soon disposed of, and the name decided on. Zem Zem is a spot historically dear to all those who disport the red fez, and proved acceptable likewise because of its short snappy sound.

Other matters out of the way and the date for the mass meeting and smoker decided on, the matter of greatest import, the coming "big show" which is contemplated for September was brought to the attention of the council.

Sheik Raggedwhiskers, Frank Holland, aided by Doc Duffin then put the big proposition of the evening before the council. The plan calls for a display never attempted before, in Richmond, with caravan, and all the paraphernalia used in the larger ceremonies in larger cities. It is planned, if this attraction is brought to Richmond, to have a corps of doctors inspect all who wish to view this show, no one showing the slightest evidence of weak heart or inclined to hysterics to be permitted to attend.

The illustrious Scribe was instructed to write the manager of one of the largest bodies of performers, who never appear except for Shriners, to obtain terms for their act here. Future action at the mass meeting will depend on the terms offered.

All Shriners, no matter where they hold their membership, who live in Richmond or vicinity, and who are desirous of participating in the fun, are urged to be present at the mass meeting and smoker August 6. A special invitation is accorded those in nearby smaller cities who are not members of any Shrine clubs, but who could attend the festivities here.

The Council of Seven, Sheik Raggedwhiskers, Abdul Duffin, including the other celebrities, George Gause, J. W. Morris, Roy Fry, W. D. Scoble, H. Clyde McGriff, will have charge of the plots for the stunts to be given in the near future. All who have fertile imaginations will be given an opportunity to offer suggestions along this line at the next meeting.

New Song Hit That Stirs the Heart

The Musical extract below is taken from a new song, said to be the latest New York sensation entitled, "FOR EVERY BOY WHO'S ON THE LEVEL (THERE'S A GIRL WHO'S ON THE SQUARE)". It is a ballad of the high class popular order, and has a story which touches the heart together with a pretty melody which is well blended and makes a decided impression on the hearer and once heard is never forgotten.

For Every Boy Who's On The Level
(There's A Girl Who's On The Square)

For every boy who's on the level
There's a girl who's on the square
There's a girl who's just the same
When you gamble with a heart
Remember from the start
It starts, it always pays to play an honest card
Copyright Joe Morris, From Louis Scholten

The song will no doubt win great fame throughout the country owing to the wonderful lyric which tells a story that has a moral. It is splendidly recorded for your Phonograph or player piano.

KEEP UP TO THE MARK
Good health is impossible when the kidneys are weak, overworked or diseased. When they fail to filter out of the blood the poisons and impurities that cause sore, swollen muscles and joints, backache or rheumatic pains, prompt steps should be taken to give the kidneys and bladder the help these symptoms indicate they need. James

Carmen, Mayfield, Ky., writes: "I am in good shape and can say I found Foley Kidney Pills certainly fine. I can't say enough for them." For sale by A. G. Luken & Co., 630 Main St.—Advertisement.

THE early French and English trappers and explorers travelled from the Atlantic Ocean to the Mississippi without crossing a single running stream. To do this they used the lakes and the twelve Portages between them.

Light, smoothly gliding birch bark canoes furnished a comfortable mode of travel upon the lakes. But, on the Portages the travellers had to face an ordeal that tried and tested the mettle and muscle of the stoutest.

Over those twelve Portages have toiled such men as La Salle, with his band of white men, the first to see the Ohio, and first to explore the Mississippi; Celeron, the courier of the French King, carrying his wooden plates to annex the new country to France; Marquette, in his journey to the Mississippi, and the zealous missionaries in their quest of new people to win for the faith.

"These places are called Portages," wrote an old Jesuit three centuries ago, "inasmuch as one is compelled to transport on his shoulders all the baggage and even the boat in order to find some other river, or make one's way around these rapids and torrents; and it is often necessary to go for several leagues loaded down like pack-mules, climbing mountains and descending valleys, amid a thousand difficulties and a thousand fears, and among rocks or amid thickets known only to unclean animals."

THE modern tourist journeys from coast to coast on cushions of air. The properly designed pneumatic tire gives to present day travellers the same easy-riding-comfort on land that the canoe gave our ancestors on the water. But very often the tire designer—in his zeal to produce a sturdy tire—gains strength at the expense of riding-comfort. Rough riding tires take the joy out of motoring.

PORTAGE TIRES are big comfortable tires, scientifically designed to absorb jolts and jars and to keep shocks from reaching the passengers. At the same time PORTAGE TIRES easily withstand the terrific impacts that every tire receives in the day's journey over uneven pavements.

Perfectly balanced construction—is the reason: that is no great secret—but it is a most difficult perfection to achieve.
