Some women are good bread bakers. Others aren't. Under identical conditions one makes light bread, the other heavy. Even if the materials used by different bakers were the same, Betsy Ross would be better bread.

Our superior facilities, our modern equipment, our skilled bakers, our efficient methods—would result in better bread. But bakers don't all use the same quality of materials. There is perhaps more skimping now than ever before, due to high prices. Don't take chances. You can be sure of full nourishment value in Betsy Ross. It's a saving loaf. Its size represents a big saving in materials and labor over the smaller loaf. Keeps better too. Be sure to use Betsy Ross.
