Dr. E. K. Heiner Dies Of

Heart Disease in Peru

HAGERSTOWN, July 31.—Dr. E. K. Heiner died Thursday night of heart disease, at his home at Peru, where he had resided only a few weeks. The body was brought here for burial and taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roush, on North Elm street, Friday. Arrangements have not yet been made for the funeral. He is survived by his wife and the following children: Mrs. Olive Hanson, living north of town, and Howard and Frank Heiner. Dr. Heiner and family formerly lived here. He was proprietor of a drug store.

DERAILING OF FREIGHT

CAUSES PASSENGER DELAY

Eastbound passenger traffic was delayed about two hours on the Richmond division of the Pennsylvania railroad Friday afternoon when freight train Number 484 "spilled" six freight cars. The cause of the uncoupling and derailing has not yet been determined.

BANKERS OPTIMISTIC ON MONEY SITUATION; HOPE FOR BIG CROPS

Advices received by Richmond bankers, relative to the credit situation for the past week, show conditions that should effect a decided change in sentiment in business and financial circles.

Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve board, has issued the following statement:

"As far as money and credit for moving crops is concerned it is only fair to say the country has never been in so good a position as it is now. Financial preparations for crop movement are much further advanced than they ever were. This is the general opinion of the banks in the great agricultural centers. There is no shortage of money. There is an extraordinary demand for money and credit and there always is when the crop movements are in anticipation.

"The complaints we hear now we will hear again in 1922 and 1923 and all the time. Again we must take into consideration the fact that all the indications point to bumper crops of every kind and quite naturally an unusual demand for money follows. Factors impeding the credit situation and causing high discount rates must be sought for elsewhere than among the banks of the country.

"There is an immense volume of surplus grain and other food stuffs left over from last season which has been unable to find a way to market from other physical causes; shortage of cars for one thing, scarcity of labor for another.

"These impediments to the resumption of sound business conditions will continue to operate for some time to come, though all our advices show that these obstructions are easing off. We must remember there has been an immense waste of human energy and of the products of production. The people at large are now awake to the necessity of production. They are saving more. With a little relief in the railroad car shortage we should witness a general easing of credit conditions."

The above report covers in every detail the most important phase of the credit strain that is at the present time affecting business men, financiers, and investors.

Private advices to bankers and members of the stock exchange in Chicago are said to not coincide with reports that have been generally circulated during the past week.

Says There's No Cancellation. Reports of cancellations and talk of a general shutting down because of railroad congestion and car shortage have been branded as fabrications in private reports received.

Favorable factors, according to advices received by local bankers, are: More efficient labor than at any time for more than three years; a labor surplus whereas an acute shortage prevailed six months ago; improving transportation situation; diminishing extravagance; great building and construction projects about to be undertaken.

These conditions with assurance of large crops lead the bankers to take an optimistic view upon the security market. This view is particularly well founded when the facts that prices have had a drastic decline and that many securities are selling at levels that present a "bargain counter" situation.

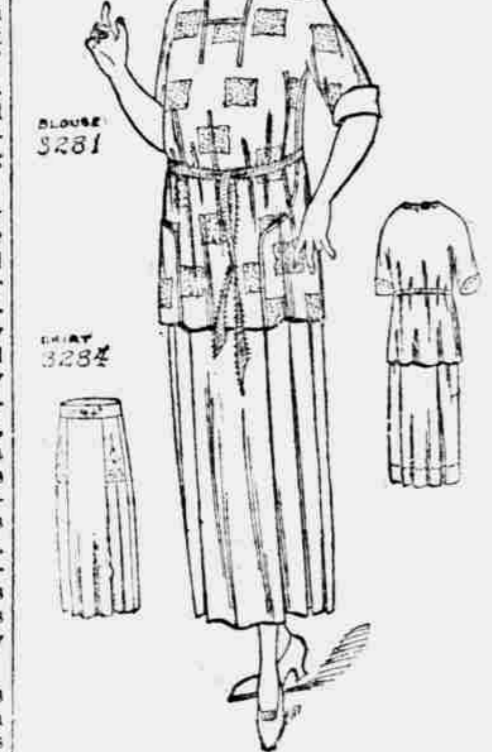

EARNINGS STAND STILL

Ohio Squirrel Season Is

From Sept. 15 to Oct. 20

Ohio sportsmen and those from Indiana who want to hunt squirrels in Ohio this fall, were warned Saturday that the open season for hunting squirrels in the state, is from Sept. 15 to Oct. 20, both dates inclusive, according to advices received by Preble County Clerk V. O. Rookstool, from A. O. Baxter, chief of the state fish and game division.

He explains that the original dates, Aug. 20 to Sept. 20, were changed by the legislature after it met after the holidays recess.

BANDITS SPOIL FUN FOR BOOTLEGGERS BY TAKING IT FROM 'EM

The bottom has dropped out of the Indiana bootleg market as the result of a price-cutting campaign instituted by gangs of midnight riding bandits.

Following the epidemic of fatalities in many localities growing out of the sale of supposed whiskey that contained wood alcohol, the demand for bottled-in-bond liquor soared, the price finally reaching $25 to $27 a quart. Then ensued the tumble in price, suddenly and swiftly. It dropped to $24, then to $20, then to $18, until now, according to common report, the prevailing price for good bottled-in-bond whiskey is $14 to $16 to the consumer.

Bandits Cause Slump.

The legitimate bootlegger (according to their definition, this is one who pays out cold cash for the goods by the case and brings it back) is being victimized by bandits. Men with quantities of whiskey, it is reported, have been held up along the road by bands that blockade the road, hang up a red lantern, and when the automobile comes to a stop, jump on the running board, and at the point of a revolver order the occupants from the car.

These bandits are not in the auto-stealing game. They do not have to worry, either, about the owner of the car because he only gets into more trouble if he tries to recover the stolen loot.

"It is h—l," said one. "If you even look like you are going to resist, you are in for a good thumping. I know several of the boys who are nursing cracked heads from blackjacks. And then you can't complain to the police—you know."

Price Being Ruined.

"And still worse," commented the other, "it is ruining the price on all bonded goods. The bunch of stickup boys, nothing for their wet goods, has to regard for standard prices. They get it easy, and unload it quick, at low prices. That's the reason for the slump in the present prices. It is a bunch of this bootleg that is not 'legitimate' stuff, that has been dumped on the market."

It was further explained that a system of telephoning is used by the whiskey hold-ups. The bootlegger is watched by a tip-off man who gets in touch with his confederates, telling them when and along what route to expect the swag.

QUAKER UNITS HAD TO GET OUT BEFORE BOLSHEVIKI DRIVE

Quaker units have found it necessary to withdraw from Tarnopol and Werbkowice, Poland, because of military operations between the Polish and Russian armies, according to a report received by Miss Gertrude Simms, acting editor of the American Friend. It was not stated when they were forced to evacuate, and with the recent announcement of an armistice, it is supposed that the work has been resumed.

Great work is being accomplished by the Polish reconstruction forces, and according to a report from Frederick J. Libby, International unit commissioner for the European Quaker fields, the achievements may even surpass the splendid work in France.

Plans are being made to start feeding centers in the fall for students in Warsaw similar to those now maintained in Austria and Germany. Clothing will also be sold and student hospitals provided with bed linen.

There are 58 workers, English and American, now on duty in the Polish districts, and a call has been sent out requesting 30 more to be sent as soon as possible.

Necessary to Move Station. Because of road and transportation conditions it will soon be necessary to move a relief sub-station from Zawiercie, Poland, to another place where the energies of the unit can be better concentrated in districts more readily reached with supplies. Several of the most important centers are Werbkowice, Nadworna and Tarnopol.

The report states that Tarnopol, the center for a new field of relief work, is 80 miles east of Lemberg. Here the Mayor has allotted a large bank building for headquarters where Russell Lantz, of Topeka, Ind., is helping to adapt the building to the needs of the unit.

It is said that the destruction at Tarnopol is similar to that in the Verdun area in France.

Sow Late Stuff Now

E. E. RICE, GARDEN SUPERVISOR.

Sow hollyhock seed as soon as you can gather it, in drills. By fall the seedlings can be transplanted and later mulched well to set out now and well cared for will produce a good crop next season. Strawberries delight in a very rich soil.

Fall spinach can be sown now. Make successive plantings until October. That which matures now can be used, the rest can be protected over winter, and will be extremely early.

Make two sowings of lettuce this month, which will keep up the supply until Christmas if properly grown and protected later on.

Of late years we have had very fine fall weather; take advantage of this condition by sowing several rows of peas in the garden this month.

Make two sowings of beans also. Keep the rows about 15 inches apart so they can be easily protected from early frosts.

Keep sweet peas and nasturtiums picked every day, if you would enjoy your flowering season extend over a long time.

Cover crops may be sown in the orchard now to hold the snow until winter. These will add needed humus to the soil.

Spray rose bushes with arsenate of lead for rose beetles and other eating insects. "Black Leaf 40" or other tobacco preparations will usually get the sucking insects.
