DECATUR FARMERS WORRY OVER WHEAT

GREENSBURG, Ind., July 31—A loss of many thousands of dollars threatens the farmer of this county who have not thrashed and disposed of their wheat. Owing to the car shortage all the elevators and mills of the county have become full to their capacity and have issued a notice that they will not be able to handle any more grain until they can get cars for transportation. It is almost impossible to get cars, local firms say, and the situation has become serious.

It is estimated that 7 per cent of the threshing in this county is done, and of the wheat that remains to be threshed there are only about half enough farm granaries and bins for storage. Some newly threshed wheat will be left on the ground with a covering of canvas, it is said.

The flour mills of this city are grinding the new wheat into flour at the greatest possible speed, working night and day shifts in an effort to relieve the congestion, but unless they get an immediate outlet their full capacity of flour will demand a shut-down. The mills are using motor trucks to haul their flour to nearby towns, but such means afford but little relief.

The Farm and the Farmer
By William R. Sanborn

Philip Franzen, erstwhile noted for his fine fruit crops, lives at Pershing. He reports that his apples are a failure and that pears are little better. It is reported that fruit has not done well around Pershing this season, with few exceptions.

It is not yet certain that J. L. Dolan, of Mendota, Ill., who was injured by the farm federation at the meeting here on Wednesday evening, will be the new Wayne county agent. He is teacher of agriculture in the Mendota Illinois school, and was recommended by Purdue to Wayne and so came over here on invitation to meet the official board of the federation last Wednesday. County agent salaries are much higher in Illinois than in Indiana, and most of them have assistants, capable assistants being paid as much as $3,000 per year.

Go to Chicago Sunday Night.
E. F. Murphy, whose duties
