

CHURCH AS ROCK IS THEME OF NAPIER'S TALK AT MEETING

"Today is a crisis in the world's history. The present hour is fraught with more concern than any other previous time, and many are distrustful of the present social period," said Aaron Napier, superintendent of the evangelistic, pastoral and church extension board, following the reading of the report of this board at the morning session of Indiana Yearly Meeting Friday.

"This is a time of peril both material and moral, but it is also a time of unequalled opportunity for the work of Jesus Christ. There is a lack of confidence between man and man, and we are in a great transitional period, yet there never was a time when such an inviting field for Christ's workers was offered."

"It is the church's providential opportunity, but we must also remember the church's true office and mission. She should never be neutral when there is a question of right or wrong. She must be ready to minister to the needs of all classes, emphasizing character doctrines as well as church doctrines."

The report which preceded this address showed that in the past year 104 series of meetings had been held, which resulted in the conversion and renewals of 973. Money expended in evangelistic effort totaled $6,052.26 for the year, while $50,979.50 was contributed for pastoral support.

Go Back to East Main.

Indiana Yearly Meeting will be held next year at the same time as this one, but the meeting will go back to the old meeting house on East Main street, according to a report by a special committee.

Herbert Hoffman resigned from the evangelistic board as a result of ill health. His place in the field was filled by the appointment of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Smith, of Amboy, Ind.

Levi T. Pennington, director of the Forward movement of Friends in America, presented the work of the movement in the past year. He said that the seven points for which the movement stood were church surveys, intercession, evangelism, propagation of the Quaker message, stewardship of property, united financial campaign, and stewardship of life.

Defines Forward Movement.

He defines the movement as a united co-operative effort on the part of Friends' agencies.

Upon the request of the Forward Movement, the Yearly Meeting voted to have a Yearly Meeting Forward Movement committee appointed, and to select a committee of two to attend the conference of the movement in September.

It was stated that the Indiana Yearly Meeting had sent a cablegram to the London, England, All Friends World Conference, which convened Thursday. The message was one naming several verses of scripture to be read at the London conference.

Conover Gives a Talk

In the afternoon, Frank Conover and wife, just returned from seven years missionary work in Africa, made talks

The report of the Missionary committee of Indiana Yearly Meeting showed that the work in all fields had prospered. This year $18,641.71 has been contributed.

Sylvester Jones, of the foreign missionary field, and Elma Nicholson, of this city, were appointed foreign missionary superintendents from Whitewater quarterly meeting for the coming year. Two such superintendents were appointed from each of the 16 quarterly meetings.

The report of the American Friends Board of Foreign Missions, told of 71 missionaries in the following countries: Africa, 18; Cuba, 21; Jamaica, 11; Mexico, 12; Palestine, 7; and West China, 2. Property owned in these countries total several hundred thousand dollars. It was estimated that a minimum of $250,000 would be needed this year.

Hole Talks Upon Peace

There are many urgent questions touching the peace of the world, said Prof. Allen D. Hole, president of the Peace association of Friends in America, in an address Thursday afternoon following the reading of the annual peace reports, "which are momentous, so complicated in their relations, so far-reaching in their complications, that they call upon us for our best thinking."

Following the address by Prof. Hole, William L. Pearson, of Wichita, Kan., made a talk similar in theme but confined more directly to the church.

A meeting was held Thursday at 7:30 p. m., in charge of the American Friends' Board of Foreign Missions.

The program for Friday evening and Saturday follows:

BUTCHER OR DREAMER?

Leo Kameneff.

Are the Bolshevik leaders butchers or dreamers? Both theories are widely held. Perhaps a study of this man's face will help you decide. Leo Kameneff is the Russian soviet emissary in London, who recently outlined to Lloyd George the terms upon which Russia would make peace with Poland.

WHY IS IT "NORTH RIVER?" (From the Outlook)

How many, even of old New Yorkers know just why the lower part of the Hudson is called the North River. The New York Sun and Herald says: "North River is the historic name of the lower course of the river which flows between Manhattan and the Jersey set. It was north of the Dutch settlements in New Jersey, just as the Delaware was south, and the two rivers were known to them as the North river. And the Sun and Herald comments: "This persistence of the alternate names of the river is one of the local idiosyncrasies of this big town, which is such a curious mixture of oldness and newness, of the ripe fruit and the raw material."

Study of the relation between the total length of life and the time required to reach maturity has brought out an interesting comparison between men and horses, says the New York Evening Post. A horse at five years old is said to be, comparatively, as old as a man at twenty.

PEACE OBJECT

The Polish mark, which has been quoted during the last few days at $70 for $1.00, took a decided turn for the better today, rising to 175.

Every possible effort is being made by the Polish government to support the army facing the Bolsheviks at the gates of the capital. Sleeping cars have been removed from all trains except those running to Vienna, and the telephone system is being devoted exclusively to government requirements. Women are playing a prominent part in all activities, many society leaders supervising side-walk lunch stands at busy corners where soldiers are given food and drink.

Responsibility for continuance of the fighting in Poland was placed upon the Russian soviet government by Prince Eugene Sapieha, Polish foreign minister in a telegram sent to Eric Drummond, general secretary of the League of Nations. The foreign minister's telegram was as follows:

"As a member of the league of nations, the Polish government thinks it is the duty to officially inform the soviet government that the Bolshevik plan to strike the Vistula near Vloujavek and other points.

This is true, notwithstanding the fact that the Polish government's declaration to the supreme council on July 6 emphasized its desire for peace, and notwithstanding reiterated efforts to obtain an armistice and a just and lasting treaty.

"Under tortuous pretexts the soviet government has up to the present refused to enter peace negotiations or fix armistice conditions. Nevertheless the Polish government has not and will not cease to do everything possible to conclude an honorable peace, but declines all responsibility for prolongation of the war, which entirely falls on the Soviet government."

Wlawa, an important city on the Warsaw-Danzig railroad, about 50 miles northwest of this city, has been taken by the Russian Bolsheviks, according to reports in military circles here tonight.

Soviet forces are creeping along the Prussian frontier, and are gradually working their way westward toward the Vistula river. This stream appears to be the immediate objective of the Bolshevik offensive at present as the soviet armies are also making an effort to reach it just west of Warsaw from Ciechanow.

The advance along the northern frontier has suggested to observers that the Bolshevik plan to strike the Vistula near Vloujavek and other points.

Observers believe the Bolshevik plan to bring up artillery to the battle line, in the event they fall to cross the Vistula in force.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—American relief workers will continue to care for Polish children they have been assisting for some time, even if through the fortunes of war these children fall into the hands of the Russian Bolsheviks.

M. Kameneff, one of the heads of the Bolshevik trade mission here, has conferred with W. L. Brown, director of the American relief administration, and, according to reports from Russian sources, will use all efforts to induce his government to afford protection for relief workers.

George Tchitcherine, Bolshevik foreign minister, also is represented as favorably inclined toward allowing the Americans to continue their work.

Soviet forces are creeping along the Prussian frontier, and are gradually working their way westward toward the Vistula river. This stream appears to be the immediate objective of the Bolshevik offensive at present as the soviet armies are also making an effort to reach it just west of Warsaw from Ciechanow.

Owing to wide divergences of opinion between the several governments regarding Russia, the relief workers are reticent regarding their unofficial dealings with the Bolsheviks.

Believed to be brain fever. The horse had been grazing in an apple orchard and, evidently, had gorged the apples. In the pasture the hot sun is believed to have precipitated the ailment. The horse is still sick and seems partly crazed, but may recover.

"LOVE NEST"

In our back page music topics you have been reading about this little song every day this week.

Here's the chorus:

Just a love nest
Like a dove nest
Cozy and warm
Down on a farm
A veranda with some sort of clinging vine
Then a kitchen where some rambler roses twine
Then a small room
Tea set of blue
Best of all room
Dream room for two
Better than a palace with a gilded dome
Is a love nest
You can call it
You can call it
You can call it

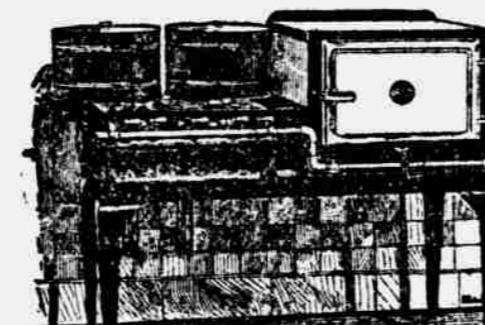

Art Hickman's Orchestra has made a captivating record of the song and its also here in sheet music. We wish we could sing it to you—but just come in and hear it for yourself tomorrow.

Chambers Fireless Ranges

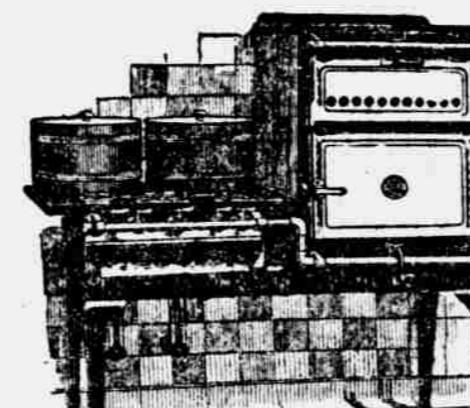

Simplicity of the Operation of a Chambers Fireless Gas Range

The first thing to be assured of, in operating a Chambers Range, is that fireless cooking as it is applied to the operation of a gas range, is the simplest form of cooking. There is nothing complicated about the fireless oven. It is, after all, an ordinary gas range oven, thoroughly insulated and built to give the very best results with the least possible amount of fuel. The Chambers range will save just that much fuel and time that is consistent with best results in cooking.

Save Food
Save Time

Save Fuel
Save Money

ECONOMY—You can know by reading the meter

The first principle upon which the Chambers range is based is ECONOMY. To get the most out of your Chambers range, use it as a fireless cooker as much as possible.

If you wish a fast oven, you have it as a gas range.

If you wish an economical range, you have it as a fireless cooker. When the gas is burning, it is practically the same as an ordinary gas range and is operated as such.

The Chambers range is not a gas range with only a little insulation to distinguish it from the ordinary type. It not only has a scientifically constructed oven, but also a positive fireless unit on the cooking top of the range—the hood.
