

BRINGING UP FATHER BY McMANUS

SPECIAL BODY WILL CONTINUE PROBE INTO "FIXING" OF GAMES IN BIG LEAGUES

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—The Cook county grand jury which has been conducting the investigation into the alleged "fixing" of the 1919 world's series today was to be made a special body to continue its search of baseball history for evidence of crookedness. The regular sessions of the grand jury were completed yesterday.

There will be no session of the jury today, other than a perfunctory one to dispose of the formalities making it a special body. Testimony will be resumed Monday, however, and on Tuesday John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, Fred Toney, giant pitcher, and Benny Kauff, former outfielder of the New York club, will take the stand to conclude evidence relating to the Zimmerman, Hal Chase and Lee Magee, National League players who are alleged to have conspired to throw ball games during the 1919 season.

Kauff and Toney, it is understood, will testify that Zimmerman offered them $500 and $200 respectively to throw a game. They refused.

Probe Other Reports.
The grand jury will delve into reports of dishonesty in the national pastime stretching back through more than a decade, according to State's Attorney MacLay Hoyne.

In connection with this it was reported that Charles Doolin, former manager of the Philadelphia National League team would be subpoenaed.

Doolin, in Atlantic City, said that in 1908 a man handed him a package containing $8,000 and remarked that was $40,000 more in a bank if Doolin would "throw" the next game to New York.

The present investigation it was said, is hastening a plan which has been under discussion for some time among sporting authorities and others, to put the control of the game under a national tribunal composed of men prominent in the country not now connected with baseball, rather than to have it controlled by private interests.

Students who witnessed the practice were strong in their praise of the team and expect them to make a good name for themselves before the season is closed. The playing of Brown at halfback was one of the sensational parts of the game, the little red-headed lad romping through the scrubs for goal after goal. He was also good on the interference and succeeded in getting his man practically every time.

Backs Pick Holes.
The whole backfield played a ripping game and showed the results of their coaching. They got started good and are able to pick the holes.

The line still needs work. Lots of good material is forming the forward wall but they do not come up to the standard set by the backfield. Considerable time will have to be spent whipping them in shape for the opening game. They are a hard working bunch and are bound to get on to the best style of attack soon, if enough time is given them in coaching.

Several men on the second team look good for the regulars before the season is closed. Nolan, who is playing for the scrubs, would make a splendid end if he had 20 pounds more weight. He may make some one hurry before the season ends, as it is.

The football squad practiced Saturday morning and will attend the Earlham-Hanover game in the afternoon.

SISLER AND HORNSBY, GREAT BAT WIELDERS CINCH CHAMPIONSHIP

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—With the close of the major league season tomorrow, George Sisler, star first baseman of the St. Louis Americans, and Rodger Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals, seem to be certain of the 1920 batting championship of their respective leagues.

Ruth closed the season with a record of 54 home runs. Sisler, according to averages compiled today, is safely in front in the American league race with an average of .465, with Tris Speaker of Cleveland second with .387. Jo Jackson, the suspended Chicagoan is third with .382, and Ruth, the home run monarch, is fourth with .375. The averages include games of Wednesday.

In the National League Nicholson of Pittsburgh is second to Hornsby with an average of .359. Hornsby's average was .370. Young, of New York, pulled up in third place with .354, and Roush, of Cincinnati, fourth with .339.

enemy, who retreated to the country beyond Richmond.

The next two weeks were occupied by the men in building roads and making other preparations for the main advance. An interesting incident was the capture of a camping ground on a plantation four or five miles south of where the men were camped.

For this purpose a large scow which had been used as a ferry was equipped with howitzers, the ends and sides armorplated with heavy planks, and manned by companies A and F of the regiment. The motive power of the craft was a number of side oars like the ancient war galleys.

The craft put up a strange and fearful appearance as it made its way over the flooded fields like a steamboat on stilts. It was successful in capturing lion plantation and the remainder of the regiment came forward the next day. Although rebel artillery shelled this position every day for the following week, the men were not dislodged.

Relief appeared in the shape of gunboats and transports carrying the remainder of the army, which passed the Vicksburg batteries on the night of April 16th.

next six weeks after which it had a part in driving the Confederate army under Johnston back to Jackson and the siege which ended in the surrender of that city July 17.

Off for New Orleans.
July 21, 1863, the 9th division returned to Vicksburg, where it remained until August 8, when it was transferred to Port Hudson. From here the 69th embarked on the steamer St. Thomas for New Orleans, landing at a suburb named Carrollton to join an army which was to make an expedition against Texas.

One of the features of the regiment's stay here was the grand review of the 13th army corps by General Grant, Sept. 2, 1863, in which the 69th took part. The function was one of the most impressive military events of the war.

From New Orleans the regiment took part in two expeditions, one against Texas, one by way of Algiers and the other by way of the Gulf and the Rio Grande. Both were abandoned and the force recalled to New Orleans to be sent out on the Red River expedition.

During this expedition, three companies of the regiment, E, G and K, were subject to a wetting in crossing a river on the line of march. A raft carrying the companies swamped in mid-stream and 21 enlisted men, together with Dr. W. B. Witt, a surgeon and Lieut. Joseph Senor, company K, were drowned.

The local resistance was one of the best drilled in the Union forces is attested by the fact that Company A took first honors in a drill competition held while the division was awaiting orders at Matagorda Island.

The next engagement in which the regiment took part was that at Alexandria, where the 69th was engaged in 1864 the entire First Division of which the 69th was a part, was engaged in keeping the Mississippi open for traffic.

The regiment saw service in Florida during January, 1865 finally settling down in camp at Selma, Alabama, April 28th, where it enjoyed a rest until May 11.

Because of lack of transportation, the 69th which had been ordered to join the Sheridan expedition on the Rio Grande to drive the French out of Mexico was delayed until orders came for it to be mustered out. The ceremony took place July 5, and the organization left for home the next day, going by way of the steamer "White Cloud" to Evansville, thence to Indianapolis by train.

Wednesday, July 19 was occupied in turning in arms and equipment at Camp Carrington, near the state capital. On the following day the men drew their pay and discharges and the organization was dispersed.

During its service, the regiment which numbered 1,000 officers and men, had seen service in 11 states and had lost a total of 331 men in action.

Gubernatorial Candidate Visits Oxford by Mistake

OXFORD, O., Oct. 2.—Harry L. Davis of Cleveland, Republican candidate for governor of Ohio, was in the village a few hours yesterday afternoon. Through a misunderstanding with the central committeemen at Hamilton, Mr. Davis came unannounced. He understood that he was to speak here in the afternoon, but said that, on account of the condition of his throat, he was unable to do so. He met a number of prominent Republicans while here.

Signal practice and possibly a short scrimmage will be held by the American Legion football men at the Playgrounds Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. The Legionnaires are putting in some good looks in preparation for their first game of the season with Shelbyville, Sunday, Oct. 10.

Takes 2,000 Prisoners.
Efforts to take Vicksburg by assault proved unsuccessful, and the 69th was detached from the main force for a time and engaged in the battle of Port Gibson. Later the regiment had the honor of taking 2,000 prisoners at the battle of Champions Hill. This pursuit ended when the enemy took refuge behind the fortifications outside of Vicksburg. The 69th took part in an unsuccessful assault on these fortifications on two occasions, May 19 and May 22.

The "Siege of Vicksburg" started shortly after. The 69th was ordered to Black River to protect the rear and it was engaged in this duty for the next six weeks after which it had a part in driving the Confederate army under Johnston back to Jackson and the siege which ended in the surrender of that city July 17.

QUAKER FOOTBALL LID COMES OFF SATURDAY IN HANOVER BATTLE

Earlham will battle Hanover in the first game of the season on Reid Field Saturday. The old expression that "the lid will be pried off" is not interesting the Quaker followers who are expecting the lid to come off with a bang when the two teams try their mettle.

Neither eleven has participated in a regular game this season, hence does it seem as if their respective abilities, but Earlham is given the slight edge by the dopesters.

The game is not figured as a cinch, however, as it is known that Hanover, although losing most of her games last season, did so with low scores in practically all cases. Toward the end of the season they picked up and were able to hold Butler to a 0 to 0 tie. They have a veteran crew and are said to work well together under their new coach.

Earlham Has Edge.
The thing that gives Earlham the edge is the fact that, taking the team man for man they are figured to be a factor and better than last year's eleven which made a fair record in state football circles.

Anyone doping football knows that it is as uncertain as the bounce of a pigskin and many teams who are doped easy winners fail utterly against a much inferior team. Coach Ray Mowe is taking no chances with his moleskin proteges and has impressed on them the fact that the game is an uncertainty until the last whistle blows.

The Quakers dispensed with an active outdoor workout Friday evening in preparation for the game. Mowe gave a blackboard talk on the styles of defense that he wishes to put against the Presbyterian bunch. A few limbering up exercises completed the days work.

College Football Crazy.
The college and Richmond are football crazy. The talk of the town is the possibility of Earlham turning out a record breaking team for the season. Coach Mowe states that his team will be in the game fighting at all times, and with an even break he expects to start the season off with a neat victory.

A parade of all the men of the college took the downtown street shortly after noon today and from the pep and enthusiasm expressed by the jazzin' band and its followers it appears a likely omen for the game.

Cleveland Will Clinch Flag by Win Saturday

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 2.—The Cleveland Indians, American League leaders, went into the third game of the final series against Detroit today, requiring but one more victory to clinch the pennant. Yesterday's evenbreak in a double header with the Tigers, while Chicago lost to St. Louis widened the gap between the Indians and Sox to two full games and assured Cleveland of a tie and a post-season series, even though they lose the remaining games to Detroit and Chicago wins the two remaining on its schedule.

If you could make a silk purse out of a sow's ear you'd probably complain because it wasn't a good purse.

TOP NOTCH RECORD FOR WORLD'S SERIES CROWD IS SECURE

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Notwithstanding the general increase in baseball throughout the country it is unlikely that in the coming series to decide the world's championship that new records will be made in attendance for a single game or for the series.

The reason for this is that the capacity of the parks where the games are to be played is insufficient to erase from the record books the top notch figures that have been established in previous years.

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a single game in a world's series was 42,620, which was the announced official attendance for the final contest of the 1916 series between the Boston Red Sox of the American League and Brooklyn of the National League, played at Boston.

Capacity Tested.
Ebbers Field, the home grounds of the Brooklyn club, of the National League, has been tested to its capacity in one world's series, that of 1916, and while it is possible for between 22,000 and 23,000 to crowd into the stands and pavilions, the largest of official attendance there in the 1916 series was 21,662. The seating capacity of the park at Cleveland is approximately 20,740, while that of the Chicago White Sox is in the neighborhood of 35,000.

DETROIT, Oct. 2.—Cleveland made sure of at least a tie in the American League pennant race yesterday when they split a double bill with Detroit while Chicago was being downed by St. Louis.

Detroit, copped the first game 5 to 4 when Sewell, shortstop, heaved Flagstead's grounder into the Cleveland dugout in the tenth inning. Pinelli followed with a clean single scoring the winning run. Indians came back in the second game and piled up a decisive score, winning 10 to 3. Fifteen hits by the Indians, six for extra bases, and four Detroit errors, contributed to the result.

Sit on Mails.
Detroit's victory in the first game broke the sensational winning streak of Mails, Cleveland recruit hurler, who had won seven straight games since his entrance into the big leagues. He had a four run lead up until the ninth inning, when he weakened and was forced out.

Cleveland and Chicago each have two games to play. If Cleveland should lose both and Chicago win both, the result would be a tie. A win by Cleveland or a loss by Chicago today will settle the argument. The scores:

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Leading eastern colleges and universities today plunged into the football season in earnest, most of them meeting teams that promise to reveal something of their gridiron calibre. Although the season opened last Saturday, many of the teams on which eyes will be focused made their debut today.

These include Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Colgate, Army, Navy, Columbia and Pittsburgh.
