CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Grain news is again easy. Too much old corn in sight. Canadian wheat sales are pressing on United States. England coal struggle is weight on all markets. Cash corn 7 cents lower. Corn visible may gain 2 million and oats 1 million. Markets well liquidated but the buying power today has been disappointing. Belgian cables say German oats crop is above requirements and will likely have some to export.

1913, when Republican differences developed and party measures were endangered, demonstrated his ability as a harmonizer by using his persuasive powers in personal interviews with other senators, with whom he was popular, restored peace. On one occasion the fate of an important bill appeared to depend upon the vote of one senator. His colleagues had tried in vain, by many methods, to learn the probable attitude of this man. Crane, who had been talking the matter over with a group of Republican senators, remarked: "I have a plan. I will go to the floor of the senate chamber to the recalcitrant's desk and converse with him in low tones for a few moments. Returning to his friends, he announced with a smile: 'He'll vote for the bill.' "How did you find out?" was Crane's reply. "I asked him," was Crane's reply.

Estimated by Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt held the "silent" Massachusetts man in high esteem. Crane had been unusually successful in averting strikes and disagreements at the Dalton mills. In 1902, when he was governor of Massachusetts, he was instrumental in adjusting by arbitration a serious strike of teamsters and freight handlers in Boston. Later, it is said, he suggested to President Roosevelt the method by which the strike of several hundred thousand coal miners in the anthracite fields was settled.

Three years as lieutenant governor and three years as governor of Massachusetts preceded Crane's entrance into the senate to fill the vacancy in 1904 caused by the death of George F. Hoar. Appointed to the senate on Oct. 13, 1904, he was elected the following year. He served until 1917 and was re-elected for the term ending in 1913. At the expiration of his second term he declined to seek renomination. Mr. Crane had been a member of the Republican National committee from 1892 to 1900 and from 1904 to 1920 had been a delegate-at-large to six National conventions. At the 1920 Republican National convention in Chicago he was one of the group that consolidated the delegates when they appeared hopelessly deadlocked and brought about the nomination of Senator Harding. Mr. Crane was a strong advocate of a League of Nations.

HAGERSTOWN, Ind.—Mr. and Mrs. George L. Tawney, of Losantville, transacted business here Wednesday evening. Mrs. Theodore Sells was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Fox at dinner Friday. The Mothers' club will meet at the school house Friday afternoon, Oct. 8. The Ladies Aid society of the Christian church will meet at the home of Mrs. Sarah Bell on North Perry street, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Ida Lawson and Mrs. Ralph Earley will be hostesses at the home of the latter, on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 5, to the Woman's Home Missionary society of the M. E. church.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sierdsdorfer, of Detroit, Mich., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sierdsdorfer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Knapp and other relatives. Everett Taylor left for Chicago last week. Michael Conniff is visiting relatives at Indianapolis. William Fisher and Edward Benbow of Indianapolis, were recent guests of the latter's father, James Benbow and other relatives. The fire department was called Wednesday and extinguished a small roof fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Stewart. The damage, which was small, was covered by insurance.

KIRLIN'S STOCKS HAVE LOW APPRAISEMENT

A supplemental inventory of the estate of the late Oscar M. Kirlin, who was cashier of the Farmers bank of Milton, Ind., now in the hands of a receiver, reveals holdings in the Standard Oil and Seal corporation with a par value of $10,500 and an appraised value of $2,625.

The revised inventory of the estate gives the total par value of its stock and temporary loan certificate holdings at $23,370 with a total appraised value of only $6,515.

The administrator, Irvin J. L. Harmer, has filed petition in probate court to sell the personal property of the estate, at private sale, including goods, corporation stock, temporary loan certificates and Liberty bonds. The personal goods have an appraised value of $2,256. The receipts from such sale are to be applied to the estate's indebtedness.

The administrator asks the court to appoint an experienced salesman or broker to dispose of the estate's stock holdings. He represents that the stock of the Standard Oil and Seal corporation probably can be sold for $5,250, although it is appraised at $2,625.

Stock in the General Appliance company of a par value of $950 and appraised at $475 can be sold, the administrator believes, for as much as was paid for it.

The administrator also believes stock in the Reliance Refining company, with a par value of $2,000, can be sold for its appraised value, $1,000. Temporary receipts for five year mortgage notes of the Crow-Elkhart Motor corporation which the estate holds with a face value of $7,000, and an appraised value of $4,200, can be sold for more than the appraised value, the administrator believes.

David M. Edwards, of Earlham, admitted Friday that the financial returns from the canvass had not been nearly as large as they had been led to expect from Richmond and surrounding districts.

President Edwards explained the exact status of the college and stated that the institution needed money now just as badly as before the campaign started.

"The college needs a rescue," he stated. "This proposition should be thought over from the city's standpoint as well as the college standpoint. I am willing to have a committee of business men look over the books of Earlham college, and see if they would not consider the college in need of a much larger endowment. They will also be welcome to investigate to see that the expenditures of the college in the past have been made so that full value has been received for every dollar expended."

Explains Campaign.

He discussed why the campaign had failed. He stated that two things seemed to him as paramount: First, that people had failed to realize that the amount they were subscribing was to be distributed over three yearly payments; and secondly, it was not yet realized that his was a big proposition. Edwards commended the spirit of the workers and of the community, and stated that the spirit of the workers had been exceptional, practically all having stuck to their posts in spite of the discouraging returns.

Several expressed themselves as dissatisfied with the returns and several said their opinion that something should be done to bring the amount over $100,000.

It was finally decided that the campaign as it had been conducted would be ended Saturday as scheduled and that Monday night a meeting of interested men would be held to determine the best method to be pursued in making up this deficit.

City dwellers won't feel at home in Heaven unless they can look out and see somebody digging up the golden streets.

The Farm and Farmer

By WILLIAM R. SANBORN

The manager of the elevator at Castine, Ohio, remarks that a farmer who doesn't like the present price of oats, figures that it will now take 20 bushels of oats to buy a pair of shoes. The farmer is correct, and at 45c per bushel he won't get a very nifty pair at that.

They have received but one car of hard coal at Castine so far, but have some soft coal in the bins. Farmers have not been marketing grain since the last slump set in and it will take some time to reconcile them to present lower prices. Most of them think that another advance is due, and very shortly.

In the opinion of the Liberty flour mill folks, practically all corn in Union county is safe from a light frost, and the bulk of it is entirely out of danger. A little of the late planted is now at the silo stage and would be hurt by heavy frost at this time. The mill paid $2.20 for a little wheat on Friday but were only offering $2.15 on Saturday. They consider all grain now too low and hope for some reaction to a higher level.

June Corn in Danger

Ben Richards, of the Glen Karn elevator, says that no one is selling any kind of grain, and are mostly amazed at the sudden drop in prices. Had the prices of two weeks ago been maintained there would still be fair returns, as it is farmers are likely to hold, "as they all have money."

They have been lucky enough to get in 10 cars of hard coal at Glen Karn this season, every pound of which has been sold, some coming for it from almost as far north as Winchester. It sold at $15 per ton. Coal is hard to get, in fact it has been difficult to get any kind of soft coal of late, and a recent car costing $11.15, sold for $12, was found two tons short.

Some late corn is still in danger from frost around Glen Karn. "The drop in wheat will prevent many from sowing intended acreage, now that the fly-tire date has come."

Has Volunteer Wheat.

Clark Ammerman, of Jacksonburg, tells the county agent that he has a field of volunteer wheat, which looks as if regularly sown, and fears fly infestation. He was advised to work this field all the while the crop is developing and then to sow. He says that he has done a great deal of discing but the wheat continued to grow.

Lack of hulling facilities to go around leaves a lot of clover seed still unhulled in Harrison township. It is also said that less wheat has been, or will be sown this fall, on account of the recent slump in price. A number of men interviewed at the federation meeting at Jacksonburg say they have not near as many hogs on feed as they had a year ago. Corn has ripened well in that district and is practically free from frost danger. A light frost would benefit much of it.

No Grain Offered.

Earl Adamson, of the Lynn mill and elevator states that very little grain is offered, but that trade was fair up to the time the break set in. Farmers are inclined to hold everything, hoping for a higher market. They consider corn mostly out of danger, except some June planted fields. Their idea is, too, that grain had too much of a break in the windup of the September deliveries, and should be dragging bottom.

Very Quiet at Straughn.

The manager of the elevator at Straughn says that it is mighty quiet and that farmers cannot understand the speculative break. "They are not inclined to sell a bushel of anything, and no one can blame them," said John Jackson. "Some of our corn was planted at various June dates and most of this needs more sunshine to mature, but a little frost will not hurt them at all. We are expecting a couple of cars of soft coal in next week. Anthracite has been hard to get."
