HARDING'S WELCOME AT STOP IN CHICAGO ROUSING RECEPTION

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican presidential nominee, arriving in Chicago at 7:40 o'clock last night for a few hours between trains, was given a rousing welcome by throngs that gathered to see him. At the Dearborn station, where his train arrived an hour late, and again at the Congress hotel where he stopped for the evening, he was cheered by hundreds who had gathered in hope of getting a glimpse of the nominee. Railroad employees at the station and police detailed as guards joined in the continuous cries of "Hurrah for Harding."

At the station the senator, who was accompanied by his wife, was greeted by Senator Harry S. New of Indiana, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the national committee. After the nominee had obligingly posed for photographers he was whirled down Dearborn street to Jackson boulevard and then south to the Congress. All along the line the procession evoked enthusiasm.

Go to Des Moines.

After dinner at the hotel Senator Harding rested until shortly before 11 o'clock, when he caught a train for Des Moines.

While there was some talk of politics between Senator Harding, former Senator George Sutherland of Utah, and Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio, who accompanied the senator and Senator New, everything in the way of formal political conferences was taboo while the senator was in the city.

There were two reasons for this. The first was that the senator really needed a rest after a strenuous day, the second was that the complications of Illinois politics made it inadvisable for him to talk with Illinoisans. The arrangements were made with an eye to prevent the senator from becoming involved in any way in the Illinois fight.

Makes Back Platform Talks.

Before he reached Chicago Senator Harding made several unscheduled speeches from the back platform of his train. His first talk was at Lima, O.; his second at Huntington, Ind., and his two last at Crown Point and Hammon, Ind.

The most characteristic talk was at Huntington. Here, noting that a sign boasted the Huntington section of the Erie as the prize one of the road the candidate remarked to the crowd that gathered around his train:

"I want to make the United States the best section on the highway of human civilization."

This sentiment was roundly cheered and the senator discussed business.

Government "Big Business."

"Government is a very big business," he said. "It is the biggest business in the world. It is your business, I am delighted to see you interested, for just as long as the American people are alertly interested in their government so long it will continue the most popular government on the face of the earth. When the people are interested connivance on the one side and intimidation on the other hand can never undermine our great American institutions."

"I have a notion you are interested in bringing about a change in your government," this was greeted by a roar of cheers—"I promise you that if the Republican party is returned to power in November we will get down to real business methods in the conduct of this, the biggest business in the world. More than that I promise you that when we take the reins once more we are going to be thinking of America first. We are going to treasure ideals, yet we are going to cling to American ideals rather than the ideals of the old world."

Mexican Envoy Tried In Vain to See Wilson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Iglesias Calderon, Mexican high commissioner to the United States, with rank of ambassador, in an interview today explained the reasons for his decision, approved by President Coolidge, to return to Mexico with the other members of his mission. The embassy will not be closed, Manuel C. Tellez, secretary, having been nominated chargé d'affaires.

Senor Calderon declared it was useless to prolong the present situation, which he attributed to the failure of the state department to resume relations with the Mexican government. He denied that the question keeping the two countries officially apart was one of recognition, but merely the resumption of diplomatic relations.

He said he informed the state department he had been dispatched this in the first instance on a visit of courtesy, to inform President Wilson, through a letter he brought from Mexico, of De la Huerta's election to the presidency. He was unable to deliver the letter, however, on account of the attitude taken by this government.

Italian Despairs of Big Socialist Revolt

ROME, Oct. 7.—Organization of a world-wide Socialist revolution, from which would be excluded the white Anglo-Saxon proletariat, is declared to be an impossibility by Deputy Treves, Socialist, in an article written for the Critica Social de Milan.

He declares the people of Anglo-Saxon countries will never assent to the twenty-one points of the Third Internationale of Moscow, and adds:

"The same may be said of the proletarians of France and Germany with almost equal truth, although those countries have minorities that are more active in communist propaganda.

It would be impossible to intrust responsibility for such a revolution to limited groups, from which the most capitalistic countries would be excluded."

Chiropractic the Golden Gate to Health

Chiropractic is the knowledge, not theory or belief, of philosophy of the cause of disease, the science of knowing how, and the art and ability to adjust it.

The human brain is where the life currents are concentrated. The spinal cord and nerves are the purveyors of this mental force.

If brain emits, spinal cord conveys, nerves transmit, and tissues, organs and viscera receive this life current, health is the product.

Obstruct the transmission and disease is the product. Body, plus life, equals health. Body minus life equals death. Disease is the abnormal fluctuation between these quantities, caused by varying degrees of pressure upon nerves, interfering with transmission.

We know why, where and how to remove the pressure which again permits the normal transmission of life currents, which in turn results in the renewal of strength to the tissues and the eradication of disease.

• Health is the restoration of currents, not the stimulation or diminution of how little does exist.

If you are sick, no matter what or where your ailment, mild or severe, investigate. We can prove that Chiropractic is right and applicable to your case.

Our record of successful achievements stands as a safeguard to you.

You can place your case in my hands with perfect confidence. Consultations will cost you nothing.
