AMERICA RECEIVES 34,000,000 ALIENS IN PAST CENTURY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Thirty-four million immigrants have entered the United States in the last century. In the same time the population of the country has increased 97,000,000.

Until the world war the effect of immigration on population increase was very marked, amounting to more than 50 per cent in the decade ending in 1910. It exceeded 40 per cent in the ten years ending with the present year and immigration bureau officials are of the opinion that had not the war intervened the percentage for this decade would have been greater than of the last.

During the first ten years of the century, or from 1820 to 1830, the number of immigrants arriving in the United States was less than one per cent of the increase in population, the figures being 143,439 immigrants, and 3,227,567 increase. The next ten years this one per cent had grown to 12 per cent, while during the same period 599,125 immigrants entered the country.

In the next decade, ended in 1850, the population increased 6,122,423, while immigration totaled 1,713,251, or slightly more than 16 per cent.

In the ten years ended in 1860, the population increase was 8,251,445, while immigrants entering the country numbered 2,598,214, or more than 25 per cent of the population increase.

The next decade saw the population increase 7,115,050, or slightly more than 28 per cent. The percentage decreased with the ten years ending with 1880, owing to an unusually large increase in population. This increase was 11,597,412, while the total of immigration was 2,812,191, or about 19 per cent.

In the decade ended in 1890 the population increased 12,791,331, while 5,246,613 immigrants entered the country, making the percentage about 42 per cent.

In the succeeding decade ended in 1900 there was a sharp decrease in immigration, with the result that persons coming into the country represented only about 23 per cent of the population increase. This was 13,046,861, while the number of immigrants arriving was 3,844,420.

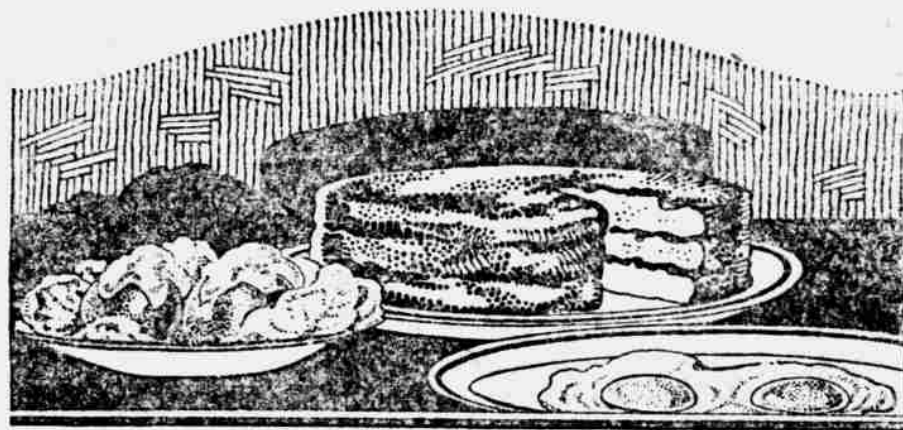

Heart Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married eight years. My husband seems so indifferent toward me. I can't go near him but what he tells me to go away and not bother him, as he is tired. I know he is, but talking to him ten minutes or so of an evening will not hurt him.

I know he loves me in his own selfish way. He very seldom caresses me of his own accord. I know there is no other woman because he never goes any place at night or any other time. He does not care about going any place. He would rather stay at home and read. If I go any place I have to go alone and people talk so.
