

SERIOUS QUESTIONS FACE ASSEMBLY OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

The Assembly of the League of Nations, which will hold its first meeting at Geneva on Monday next, Nov. 15, is the popular or representative branch of the double body designed to guard the affairs of that organization as created under the Treaty of Versailles.

While the representative character of the gathering will be impaired by the absence of the United States, Germany, Austria and Russia, yet with these exceptions it will come near to representing the greater part of the civilized world. The session has additional interest as marking the complete organization of the league as provided by the Versailles peace treaty.

Forty-two nations, ranging in importance from the British empire to the Republic of Haiti, are expected to send delegates. Of the 45 states mentioned in the covenant, only three will be unrepresented, the United States, Honduras and Ecuador. Fifteen more nations have applied for admission, and the question of granting them access to the session as new members will be one of the first items of business to be considered. Among the applicants are Austria and Bulgaria of the former enemy states and a number of smaller nations just emerged into statehood.

May Admit Germany.

The question of admitting Germany to membership will also come under discussion, as it is likely to be raised by several of the former European neutrals, and it seems likely that the admission of Mexico may also come before the session.

The acting president of the Assembly, M. Hymans, of Belgium, will open the first meeting, as the Assembly has not yet had a chance to elect a president of its own.

Enough names of delegates are known to show that the absence of monarchy will not detract from the importance of the gathering, although it may reduce its picturesque quality somewhat. Among the more noted figures may be mentioned Dr. Edouard Benes, foreign minister of Czecho-Slovakia and creator of the "Little Entente"; M. Paderewski, first prime minister of the new Poland; Hjalmar Branting, prime minister of Sweden until a few weeks ago; President Motta of Switzerland, and his predecessor, ex-President Ador, who recently acted as chairman at the international financial conference at Brussels. Many of the non-European states will be represented by diplomats, but it will not be the rule even in their case. Thus Argentina will send its foreign minister, Senor Pueyrredon, as one of its delegates, while Chile will be represented by Don Antonio Hupeus, former foreign minister, and Don Manuel Rivas Viscuna, deputy and former minister of finance. Each member nation is entitled to three officially accredited delegates, but may send substitutes and experts as well. Sweden has availed itself of this privilege and one its three substitute delegates is a woman, Mrs. Anna Bugg-Wickell, widely known as an expert on international law.

Organize First.

Much of the early work of the session will be devoted to organization, the appointment of committees being one of the most troublesome items. The likelihood is that some 12 or 15 committees will be formed, and that the various items on the agenda will be divided into related groups and distributed among those committees. Among the duties of the Assembly will be the final and formal establishment of a number of permanent subordinate organizations like the Court of International Justice, the Health Organization, the Commission on Communications and Transit, and the special tribunal that is to deal with all disputes connected with international communications.

Incidentally certain questions will be considered concerning the relationship between the Council and the Assembly as well as between those bodies and the various technical organizations created by them.

Other important subjects to come before the assembly will be action on the recommendations of the recent international financial conference at Brussels; formulation of policy and methods for the employment of the League's weapon, the economic boycott; and preparations for concerted action looking toward the suppression of all traffic in women and children.

Other questions of equal importance may be broached, as the Assembly is absolute master of its own procedure and can vote leave to advance an entirely new proposition at 48 hours notice.

Subjects to come before the Assembly at the instance of individual member-nations are several proposed amendments to the covenant, some of which aim at improving the position of the smaller nations within the League, while one submitted by Holland, deals with the covenant provision for suppression of the opium traffic in the Far East.

It is, of course, impossible to foretell how long the session will last, but information received from reliable sources indicates three or four weeks.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 12.—A state convention of auxiliary units of the American Legion of Indiana, at which a separate state organization for the auxiliary will be formed, will be held in Indianapolis on January 18, 1921, according to an announcement made today by L. Russell Newgent, department adjutant of the Legion.

Plans for the formation of a separate state organization for the auxiliary already laid by state executive officers, were approved by a conference of Legion post commanders and adjutants at Culver last week-end. With the formation of this organization, Indiana will be one of the first states to carry out the policy of expansion and development of the auxiliary, which was outlined recently by F. W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the Legion.

Between now and the time for the auxiliary convention, thirteen organizers, recently appointed, will be engaged in the formation of auxiliary units for every post of the Legion in the state. There are now 52 units, 314 posts of the Legion. An effort is to be made to add all mothers, sisters, daughters and wives of Legionnaires to the membership of the auxiliary.

At the organization convention, committees will be ready to report on a constitution. State officers will be elected, and the Legion state officers will turn over all books and credentials of the auxiliary to the new organization.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Work was started today by the 9700 posts of the American Legion in this country on a census of all veterans of the World War who are still inmates of government and private hospitals. The census is the first step of the Legion in a campaign to make life more worth living for the sick and disabled.

A card will be made out for every man in hospital, giving information on his name, home address and organization with which he served.

The data will be obtained by committees from all legion posts and the cards filed at national headquarters in Indianapolis. The index will be accessible to anyone wishing to locate a sick or wounded man.

Under the Legion plan, every man in hospital will be visited at least once a week. Outings and entertainments will be organized, delicacies and reading matter will be supplied and every man will be made to feel that a personal interest is being taken in his case. The spirit of the plan is to humanize hospitalization work. Every one in the community will be asked to help but the Legion will lead the way.

There are still more than 20,000 disabled and sick veterans confined in about 1200 government and private hospitals.

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do is get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful with four teaspoonsfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be taunted for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.—Advertisement
