"Building for Richmond"

The Romey Building is the last word in fire-proof construction. Built of reinforced concrete, tile and brick, producing a structure free of deterioration.

The planning of this building came after an extended investigation and study of modern methods of merchandizing furnishings for the home.

We join many others of the community in congratulating Mr. William Romey upon his achievement in "Building for Richmond" this modern structure.

As the Architects, we also desire to express our appreciation for the co-operation received from the contractors and their men engaged on the construction.
