

CINCINNATI SOCIAL UNIT CEASES WORK; FUND LACK CAUSE

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 30.—One of the most pretentious experiments in social service work in the United States passed into history recently with the announcement of the dissolution of the Social Unit here. After a rather tempestuous career of four years the operations of the unit were curtailed by the paucity of funds and hereafter its work will be subdivided and pass under control of the various branches of the Council of Social Agencies which is financially supported by the public at large and centralizes charitable work.

The crowning blow to the unit was the complete failure to raise funds for the continuance of the work, although $25,000 was contributed by the citizens within the territory of the district in which the unit operated.

In many lines of human endeavor the unit performed splendid services, as in the district where the unit operated it engendered a remarkable community spirit and a neighborly friendliness. Originally the unit was financed to the extent of $135,000 by interested citizens of Cincinnati and New York. The money called for a three-year program. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Phillips, of New York, were the prime movers of the organization. As the basis of the experiment the promoters selected the Mohawk-Brighton district, one of the most congested sections of the city.

Establishes Clinics
The establishment of health clinics was the first step of the unit. This found expression in the weighing and measuring of babies, the distribution of milk, free nursing, etc.

These were to ascertain the most urgent needs of the families in the block in which they lived, and report the various needs to the subsidiary councils having necessary supervision. During the war when driven to numerous the unit conducted the campaign in its district. During the influenza epidemic its nursing and preventative services were instrumental in holding down the death rate in that section of the city.

Mayor Galvin, of this city, however, expressed opposition to the unit. He designated it as a "government within a government" and declared that its tendencies and teachings were socialistic and Bolshevistic. It developed that in war matters Mr. Phillips was a pacifist. Phillips resigned as the titular head of the unit and he and Mrs. Phillips left the city.

An investigation of the operations of the unit was made by the Council of Social Agencies, and the inquiry did not add to the prestige of the unit. Some features of the work were severely criticized by the council. The social unit buildings will be taken over by the Baby Milk Fund association and the infant welfare work will be carried out by The Associated Charities will continue the work, other than the health clinics.

Ladies! Darken Your Gray Hair

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair all disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy. Advertisement.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parment (double strength) and add to it pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial—Advertisement.
