

ENGLISH LORDS FAME FAILS TO SUPPRESS EARLY EXPERIENCE

Among other things of which the "lives of great men all remind us" is the fact that they never allowed anything to happen to them to become public.

Such, however, was the sad fate of Lord Sydney Buxton not to have been able to avoid, or to have let slip. Now, Lord Buxton really is a notable man. As postmaster general he aided in bringing about penny postage between the United States and Great Britain. He served as president of the London Board of Trade. In the war he was British governor general of South Africa, and recently he has been advanced by King George to an earldom. In spite of it all, Lord Buxton's name recalls first this farcical adventure.

Lord Buxton's low comedy experience was with a pair of disappearing nether garments. While seated one day on an embankment near his country estate waiting for the train into town, a large and formidable colony of ants swarmed into his trousers. They made known their presence.

A great impatience for the arrival of the train and an intolerance of the presence of nearby women is said to have seized upon his lordship. When the train finally pulled in the noble lord sought the seclusion of his private compartment with undignified haste. There he disrobed and shook all his garments with their unwelcome denizens out of the window.

By a savvy trick of fate, it was just when he, with a relieved feeling, had unfurled his trousers to the breeze that another train whizzed by on the next track. The essential articles of attire were plucked rudely from the peer's hands by the gusts and when last seen were settling gently on the downs.

A porter provided an incongruous pair of green corduroy trousers and immediate embarrassment was avoided, but upon Lord Buxton's statesman-like record henceforth was attached for all posterity a loud guffaw.

Women Cast First Votes In Vancouver Election

(By Associated Press) VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 1.—Women voted today for the first time in general legislative election throughout British Columbia. The largest poll ever cast was predicted. Besides the woman vote another factor that was expected to swell the electorate was a new law requiring all citizens to vote, if possible under penalty of losing their vote in future elections.

INDIANA MAN WINS HONORS IN HOG SHOW

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Another one of the big six prizes of the International Live Stock Exposition went to Indiana today, when a carload of fat Hampshire hogs, entered by J. M. Ballard, of Marion, won grand championship honors. Mr. Ballard's winning was the third of the six grand prizes offered at the show which went to the Hoosier state, the other two were won by Purdue university, with the champion fat steer Black Ruler, and J. C. Andrew of West Point, Ind., in the fat wether classes. Purdue's prize winner also was made champion of the college classes.

Mr. Ballard's hogs, which the judges picked as the best of the show, were spring pigs but because of their 275 pounds weight had to be entered in the heavy class instead of light class. They won over much older hogs and defeated the champions of the younger class.

Iowa College Wins
One of the features of the show was the big winning of Iowa State college in the hog classes. Iowa gathered a number of prizes and then showed the grand champion barrow, a Chester White. The South also forced to the front again when Dr. J. I. Huggins, of Tennessee, with his bull, Perinthian, won the grand championship of the Angus class royalty entered in the show.

Judging of the corn show continued in section other than those which include Indiana. The Hoosiers are waiting for placing of sweepstakes and the national honor today. The judges were unable to complete their task yesterday, as they had expected, because of the large number of entries.

MEXICO MUST CHANGE SAYS NEW PRESIDENT ADVOCATES NORMALCY

(By Associated Press) MEXICO CITY, Dec. 1.—General Alvaro Obregon who is to be inaugurated tomorrow as president of Mexico has perforce his induction into office with promises of the immediate institution of a program of social and civil reform that was said to be the basis for the revolution, last summer which ultimately swept him into power.

He has stated not only to the press but in several joint conferences with congress that Mexico must open its doors to foreigners of good intent, must protect foreign capital, must settle its international obligations—in other words must get in tune with the world.

As the fundamental basis for this adjustment, he has asserted that Mexico must return to a normal mode of living in which petty ambitions of individuals must be submerged and vital policies of social reform put into practice.

Recommends Education.
He recognizes that the real first need and, if his plans are carried out, schools long neglected will be opened and school teachers, long underpaid and in many cases not paid at all, will be given employment.

The new president was born in 1880 in the state of Sonora. From early childhood he was forced to work for a living but he has become one of the country's biggest industrial men. He is said to possess considerable wealth.

Revolutions in Mexico within the past few years made him first a military power in the north, then a staunch adherent of Carranza whose succession to the presidency is said to have been largely due to the military genius and energy of Obregon. It was General Obregon who at Celaya inflicted what is said to be the only decisive military defeat Francisco Villa, the bandit, ever suffered. With Carranza in power, General Obregon was entrusted with many difficult tasks of Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache, no hacking, snuffing, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night. Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly. It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuff-up and miserable.—Advertisement.

reconstruction, occupying numerous official posts, including that of minister of war.

Obregon First Candidate.
When, in the fall of 1919, President Carranza, announced definitely that he would retire from office at the expiration of his term on Dec. 1, 1920, and that elections would be held in a regular and legal manner, General Obregon was the first to announce his candidacy. From his hacienda home in Sonora early this year he issued a manifesto which proclaimed him the leader of the Liberal constitutional party and announced a platform of reform upon which he proposed to make his campaign. He immediately began a tour of the republic.

Meanwhile politics was fermenting in the national capital. General Pablo Gonzalez, at first reputed to hold the official favor of President Carranza as his successor, began an active campaign and within a few weeks Ignacio Bonillas, at that time Mexican ambassador to the United States, announced his candidacy as a civilian, charging that Obregon and Gonzalez both represented the military classes. Refuting the latter assertion, Obregon requested congress to withdraw his rank as general but this was refused.

Early in April, General Obregon retired to his home in Sonora following published charges that the Carranza regime was attempting to embarrass his candidacy. Almost coincident with this retirement came the defection of Adolfo de la Huerta who, as governor of Sonora, refused to recognize the sovereignty of President Carranza in certain state affairs. This disagreement culminated early in May in open revolution with which General Obregon and numerous of his political aids and large numbers of followers became affiliated.

Followed then in quick succession the march of the army of the north on Mexico City and its subsequent bloodless capture, the flight of President Carranza and his cabinet and the death of the executive in a lonely mountain hut.

PLAN TO REORGANIZE CAMP SHERMAN; WILL MAKE IT PERMANENT

CHILLICOTHE, O., Dec. 1.—Under tentative plans for the re-organization of Camp Sherman into a permanent camp, provision is made for the housing of 20,000 men, according to Brigadier General Samuel Sturgis, commandant of the camp.

It is planned to raze and salvage a great many of Camp Sherman's buildings and the retention of many more as semi-permanent structures, later to be replaced with permanent buildings, the general said.

The plans which have been submitted to the war department at Washington have virtually been approved, he said. The appropriation is all that is lacking.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 1.—Mayor W. S. Fitzgerald has officially set aside the week of July 22, 1921, for an elaborate celebration of Cleveland's 125th birthday. The mayor has appointed a committee of 50 men and women prominent in civic affairs, to assume direction of the anniversary exercises. Work is now being rushed on the new public auditorium with a view to completing the structure in time for a formal opening during the week's celebration.

DIFFICULT TO LEARN

The Chinese pocket dictionary contains no less than 10,000 characters, which one must learn in order to claim any real familiarity with the language. However, an acquaintance with three of four thousand symbols is all that the average native has, and is said to be possible to get along with a vocabulary of 1,000.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 559 G. Marcellus Avenue, Manassas, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Nervous Breakdown

"I am so nervous it seems as though I should fly"—"My nerves are all on edge"—"I wish I were dead." How often have we heard these expressions or others quite as extravagant from some loved one who has been brought to this state by some female trouble which has slowly developed until the nerves can no longer stand up under it. No woman should allow herself to drift into this condition without giving that good old-fashioned root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

Read the Letters of These Two Women.

North East, Md.—"I was in ill health four or five years and doctored with one doctor after another but none helped me. I was irregular and had such terrible pain in my back, lower part of my body and down each side that I had to go to bed three or four days every month. I was very nervous, tired, could not sleep and could not eat without getting sick. A friend asked me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am sorry I did not take it sooner for it has helped me wonderfully. I don't have to go to bed with the pain, can eat without being sick and have more strength. I recommend your medicine and you are at liberty to publish my testimonial."

ELIZABETH WEAVER, R. R. 2, North East, Md.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was run down and nervous, could not rest at night and was more tired in the morning than when I went to bed. I have two children, the youngest three months old and it was drudgery to care for them as I felt so irritable and generally worn out. From lack of rest and appetite my baby did not get enough nourishment from my milk so I started to give him two bottle feedings a day. After taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman, full of life and energy. It is a pleasure to care for my children, and I am very happy with them and feel fine. I nurse my baby exclusively again, and can't say too much for your medicine."—Mrs. A. L. MILLER, 2633 E. 24th St., Minneapolis, Minn.
