

SAFE ANAESTHETIC INVENTION CLAIMED BY SOVIET HOSPITALS

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, Dec. 3.—An anaesthetic with relatively no danger and "pleasant to take," is said to have been produced and used in the hospitals of Soviet Russia. Dr. Marcou, once an interne of the Paris hospitals, describes the process in an article written for L'Information. He asserted that he watched the new method used in Petergrad hospitals. He attributes its experimental use on animals to Professor Kravkoff and its application to operations on persons to Professor Fedovoff, formerly surgeon to the emperor.

Dr. Marcou says the patient awakes from the sleep produced by it a little heavy in the head but without nausea or ill effects.

It is methylpropylcarbinol in the proportion of one to 100 parts of warm, salty water that does the business, he says. This is injected directly into a large vein in the elbow and the hollow tube is left in the vein so more may be pumped in as needed.

When from 100 to 200 grams of the liquid have been put in the blood the patient sleeps but there still remains reflex action in the eyes, which is taken as the standard of anaesthesia.

Patient Sleeps.

As more of the sleep-producer is used, sensitiveness leaves the eyes and the surgeon operates, testing the eyes from time to time so as to keep the blood-system supplied with the fluid. The patient sleeps several hours after the completion of the operation.

"Hundreds of operations," says Dr. Marcou, "were performed in Russia during my stay. I watched some of them. Not one case of death has yet been reported."

The anaesthetic is said to be particularly valuable for head and neck operations where the use of ether or chloroform mask interferes with the surgeon's work. In such diseases as make the introduction of salty solutions into the blood undesirable or dangerous, says Dr. Marcou, salt may be replaced by glucose or bicarbonate of soda.

"SIMPLY GETTING ALONG FINE NOW"

Richmond Man Was Badly Rundown and Very Nervous—Tells How Dreco Built His Body and Health

Mr. Robert Cressman, living at 41 West Sixth street, Richmond, Ind., has a message for every man and woman who suffers from stomach disorders, nervousness, constipation, dizzy spells, and general run-down condition of the system. It is interesting reading. Here it is:

"Stomach trouble was undoubtedly the cause of my suffering. I suffered all the pains of indigestion after every meal. I also was constipated and had bad dizzy spells. I couldn't sleep at night and was always very nervous. Of course I became greatly rundown, and things looked pretty black for me, but I heard so many people speak highly of the new herb remedy, Dreco, and I saw so much about it in the newspapers, that I decided to give it a trial. I took just one bottle of Dreco, and it did wonders for me. I have never seen its equal. One dose of it buoyed me up wonderfully. I am taking it right along, and am simply getting along fine, now. You can add my recommendation to the hundreds of others."

Dreco has time and time again proved its worth in all human ailments, which had their inception in the digestive tract. It seems to be just the right thing for such ailments as indigestion, gastritis, dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, sleeplessness, headaches, rheumatism and similar ills. Dreco is not a new fangled patented medicine. It is simply a combination of roots and herbs put up according to an old fashioned recipe, in a modern, scientific way. It contains no dangerous mineral salts, or acids, and is safe and sure in its action.

Dreco is now sold by all good druggists and is highly recommended in Richmond by Clem Thistlethwaite's seven drug stores.—Advertisement.
