

CROWDED CONDITIONS OF LOCAL SCHOOLS EVIDENT TO PUBLIC

Demonstration of high school work will be featured next Thursday evening when a night session of the high school is run for the Richmond public. Many persons who have not seen a school in action since they attended will have the opportunity to see the forward strides taken in equipment and method of teaching. The school session will run from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. In addition to this special celebration for Better Schools week, the exhibit of 47 lithographs by Howard Leigh, will open in the public art gallery, which is on the third floor of the high school.

Visitors to the school Thursday evening probably will see the need of the new buildings to be erected soon. The present high school building, equipped to accommodate 750 students, has an enrollment of 951 and with 130 students coming from Garfield in February the school will have 1,081 students instead of 750 as originally intended. Some of the rooms have been divided by 10-foot partitions and the domestic science rooms have to be used as class rooms to accommodate all the pupils.

All Schools Crowded
The same conditions are found in other schools of the city. Finley has 50 instead of 36 children, which is supposed to be its capacity; Vaile, capacity, 36; enrollment, 55; Whitewater, capacity, 35; enrollment, 70.

There are 12 buildings in use by the Board of Education, 11 which they own, and one, Garfield annex, for shops, which they rent. It has been 52 years since the oldest, Finley school, was built, and seven years since the newest, Joseph Moore. In the 45 years covered by the span a school building has been erected about every three and three-quarters years. Half of the 11 buildings used now were built 25 years ago. All the buildings were typical of the best in school house construction at the time of their erection and Richmond at several times has attracted attention by its splendid school buildings.

Buildings Are Old.
Considering the constant use, the school buildings of the city are said to be in fairly good condition but because of the great advance that has been made in school house construction and the increasing demands made upon the schools by the widening range of school activities and use for the school the buildings are, with the exception of the new part of the Senior High school and the Joseph Moore building, behind the times.

Some of the buildings need remodeling and others, like Garfield, need to be rebuilt. Garfield is very crowded at present. The third floor has been condemned and cannot be used for more than 100 people at one time. The boys who have courses in shop work have to travel three blocks to the annex on Twelfth and North B streets, and to the playgrounds it is 16 blocks.

The purpose of the Better Schools work is to inform the public of conditions in the schools. Indiana has been ranked 17th with her schools and a movement is now on foot to hoist the state above 17th place.

EXHIBITION SCHOOL SHOWS MACHINERY OF RICHMOND HIGH

"Better schools for Richmond" has been adopted as the slogan to be carried out in the exhibition school that will be held Thursday night at the high school. Parents of students are urged to visit the high school on this night. Special efforts will be made to show the patrons of the school just what facilities are, on hand, how they are used and what is needed for the future.

Three periods of classes will be held of 30-minute length. The Friday night classes will be moved up. The school will open at 7:30 p. m. and be out by 9:30 or 10 p. m. There will be no supervised study periods.

A chapel program with the orchestra, a few entertaining features and a number of slides showing the work of the school will be given. The entire evening's program will be normal insofar as possible.

Boys and girls of the high school will act as guides to direct those interested in certain features to the right place without a congested wandering around the building. Those interested will be able to see the school paper being printed by the boys in that department, and other departments will exhibit their work.

The art gallery will be open to the public and the Leigh Lithographs will be on display.

REFEREE COMES BACK.
CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 13.—After being out of the ring sport for two years, due to serious illness, Matt Hinkel, the noted Cleveland referee and boxing promoter, is again taking active interest in the sport. Hinkel has matched Carl Tremaine, the Cleveland bantamweight, and Joe Burman of Chicago, for a ten-round contest here Dec. 17.

Better Schools For Richmond

The school population of our city will naturally increase; it would be a sad reflection if it did not. If building and equipment do not increase proportionately, our facilities soon become inadequate. Inadequate facilities retard the growth of our school population, because many drop out of a crowded class, discouraged by the lack of individual attention; those who remain are cramped and partially neglected.

The children who most need education are those who are least able to work alone—who need most individual attention. How much individual attention does your child have in a class of 50? The only remedy is more and better buildings. Parental and civic duty demands that school space be increased as the number of pupils increases.

Local Teachers Ask Convention Change

A resolution that the annual state convention of the State Federation of Teachers be discontinued, and that instead, three conventions be held in the central, southern and northern part of the state was passed at the assembly of the Wayne County Teachers' Institute, held in the high school auditorium Saturday afternoon. This resolution, as well as others passed by the assembly are a forerunner of the constitutional convention of the state federation which will be held in Indianapolis.

The thousands of teachers who convene for the annual convention and the lack of accommodations for so many, even in Indianapolis, has made the convention impracticable, it is said. This is considered one of the most important questions to come before the constitutional convention.

There are many who advocate the abolishment of the state meeting and almost as many who oppose its discontinuance. W. O. Wissler, superintendent of the Hagerstown schools and Principal N. C. Heironimus of Garfield presided at the assembly when the resolutions were discussed Saturday.

Three delegates to the constitutional convention were elected by the Wayne county institute. They are superintendent of county schools, C. O. Williams, president of the city teachers' federation, E. E. Rice, and a teacher of Cambridge City, Miss Eleanor Newman. Miss Martha Whitacre is a member of the legislative committee of the state federation.

It is the plan of the Sunday school society to present the membership to one of its members.

LOCAL COLORED BOYS ORGANIZE HI-Y CLUB; IS FIRST IN INDIANA

The first colored HI-Y club in Indiana was formed in the chemistry room of the high school Monday morning. Permission from the state headquarters to issue a charter to the colored boys of Richmond for the formation of the club was granted last week and the movement reached its climax with the election of officers and appointment of sponsors Monday.

This club comes as a direct outgrowth of the meeting of colored high school boys in a state conference last spring. It was decided at that meeting that these clubs should be formed all over the state. Richmond has taken the lead.

Professor Cantwell was appointed high school sponsor by Mr. Bate, principal of the high school. E. E. Haas, president of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A., named Walter Dennis as the colored sponsor for the association.

Meets Every Monday
The club will meet Monday morning at the regular activities hour in the chemistry room. The purpose of the club is the promotion and development of a high standard of morals and school room standards. The program of the club will be along the line of all HI-Y organizations.

The officers as elected at Monday's meeting were Elmer Clapp, president; Audrie Ross, vice-president; Carlos Walker, secretary-treasurer; Grant Spears, advisory member. The governing body of the club will be the officers and sponsors. The chief committees are the Bible, service and program. Special emphasis will be laid on the real phase of HI-Y work, the development of spirit, mind and body, with the social phase as secondary.

Bigness Necessary for Service

IN SOME farm operations, in many manufacturing lines, and, more particularly, in refining and distribution of petroleum products, large scale operations are essential to insure maximum economy and service.

The production of crude oil varies but little on account of seasonal changes, and the refining processes are continuous operations.

The consumption of petroleum products, however, varies widely with the season. In summer, consumption far outstrips production, while during the winter months the reverse is true.

To prepare himself for the summer rush, the oil refiner, who is ambitious to render a maximum service, must operate his refineries at full capacity throughout the year, and must provide adequate storage to take care of his surplus output during the winter months, and store it against a day of maximum demand when the country roads and city boulevards are crowded with machines, and the farmer has his tractor in the field.

To perform this service requires the investment of huge sums of money, and the maintenance of a complete organization at all times.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is ambitious to be a leader in the petroleum industry. It is ambitious to render to the people of the Middle West as near a perfect service as care, thought, and adequate resources can devise.

In carrying on its business, the Company has invested more than 185 million dollars; it operates four large refineries in which it manufactures the many varieties of petroleum products needed by the consuming public.

It operates 3215 bulk stations, more than 1000 filling stations, and a fleet of nearly 4000 tank delivery trucks.

Its permanent organization consists of about 23,000 efficient, loyal men and women, working under one head, to render a service which makes it possible for you to get a gallon of gasoline, or a quart of oil, or a pound of grease, when you want it, and wherever you may be.
