CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Legislation attempts to help the farmer, steady large export sales and talk of U. S. being near domestic wheat basis, has firmed the markets. At 72c May corn, the recent 7c decline helps out the idea of a liquidated situation. Financial conditions in part of the south-west are reported as threatening, and any special legislation would help. Movement to revise the war finance corporation and clasp a 50c tariff on wheat looks temporary. What can score a further upturn but the question is how much will the public stand. Grain feeling at the moment is somewhat bullish. Feeding is increasing and it is the fashion to talk financial help to the farmer.

BUSINESS SUSPENDS AT COLLEGE CORNER

COLLEGE CORNER, O., Dec. 14.—Business was virtually at a standstill here today as merchants, whose stores and stocks were wiped out by the fire which destroyed eight business houses here early Monday morning, tried to approximate their losses and make plans for rebuilding the business section of the city. Damage for the destruction was estimated at $150,000 by compiling the estimates of each merchant.

Two people were injured painfully during the fire. Murray Earhart, a volunteer fireman, had his right arm broken in two places when a building on which he was fighting the fire collapsed. He was taken to the Hamilton hospital where his injuries were treated.

Dr. Mosbaugh, a prominent physician, was burned severely while fighting the fire. He was in a very serious condition Tuesday, it was said, but not fatally injured.

Clear Ruins.
The owners of the stores had not begun the cleaning up of the ruins late Tuesday. The telephone company, whose wires and cables were torn down by the fire and falling walls, began the work of repairing communications early Tuesday.

The cause of the fire had not been ascertained Tuesday. None of the merchants were able to state their new plans, but say the business district will be rebuilt.

FRANKLIN FEDERATION
MEMBERS BRAVE GALE
TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

By WILLIAM R. SANBORN.

Despite the drifting rain and gale of wind, about 50 members of the Franklin township federation attended the meeting at Whitewater on Monday night. It was a mighty good time to hug the stove, or to toast one's feet in front of the grate, but federation business must be attended to, and so the farmers fared forth to the meeting.

A. J. Swift, formerly county agent in Preble county, but now living in Wayne and doing dairy farming with J. E. Miller, was the speaker of the evening. Mr. Swift emphasized the need for organization and urged the farmers to back the federation loyally. Mistakes might be made but the purpose was the highest. The officers were endeavoring to work out the salvation of the tiller of the soil, and doing the best possible under all circumstances.

Paul Harris, a Franklin township man who had attended the Indiana federation, at Indianapolis, gave his impression of that gathering and his ideas of what the state officers were aiming to accomplish. J. L. Dolan, county agent, gave a short and appropriate talk, after which refreshments were served.

Jackson Township Meeting.
The members of the Jackson township federation are to meet in Odd Fellow's hall at Cambridge City on Tuesday evening. County agent Dolan is billed to talk on the National Farm Bureau convention at Indianapolis last week, the largest gathering of farmers ever held in this country. More than this, it was a mighty brainy and well informed lot of men who were present to wrestle with the grave problems now confronting the farmer. A large attendance is expected and an interesting program is anticipated. All farmers are invited. Hagerstown Meeting Friday Night.

The farmers of the Hagerstown district are to meet on Friday night. If you know what a "lap social" is, and enjoy such occasions, and you are a farmer in that vicinity, you will of course attend. A good program has been arranged, one which will interest the whole family. All farmers are welcome.

No Safe For Hides.
It would seem that hides, like wool, have fallen into the discard. There seems to be no sale for them right now; no bids at any price from the usual run of buyers. It is claimed that one local butcher has upward of $6,000 worth of hides on hand and that he recently phoned and wrote to a number of men who deal or speculate in hides without getting a single offer for them.

This reminds us of what Ogden Armour said in a public statement last Saturday. He stated that one of the reasons for the maintenance of beef prices, at recent levels, was the fact that by-products, notably hides had fallen so low. But even so, all beef cuts were down to the lowest prices since April, 1917, at Chicago, last week, and would have been still lower.

GERMANS SELL FAKE
FOREIGN TRADE GOODS

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—German manufacturers have flooded the markets here with imitations of American, English and French wares, some so cleverly made it is difficult to detect them, but others of an almost ludicrous clumsiness.

A purchaser who goes into a tobacco shop and asks for a standard English or American cigarette probably will be handed a package with a label closely resembling the trade mark of the original. The price will be much less and frequently, pleased with the bargain, the customer puts the box in his pocket without closely examining it. Afterwards he discovers he has a German cigarette. The new imported tobacco on sale are very expensive, and those which have not been smuggled in bear the import tax stamp.

Dealers Are Tricky.
Street vendors of tobaccos, candies and other articles display imported tobaccos and German imitations side by side, so that eventually purchasers learn the difference and become wary, although the German tobaccos are not inferior to some imported brands.

In some high-class restaurants only imitation cigarettes are sold. The drug stores are perhaps the chief dispensers of the German imitations. Imported toilet articles, and particularly soap, shaving cream, tooth paste and face cream are very scarce. But all well-known American brands have been imitated.

The Farm and Farmer

By WILLIAM R. SANBORN.

The shredding of fodder has been a long drawn-out operation this year, so much rain having fallen since corn matured, which was late at best, in most cases. In a quiz of the farmers met during past two weeks, very many of them report that work still is awaiting dry fields and shocks. One ring in Center township consisting of 16 farmers has been more than five weeks at the job and still have four lots to shred for as many farmers.

An Indiana farmer says that while rice may seem to be an expensive feed for little pigs that it is a real economy to use it in case of scours. He buys broken rice, the cheapest grade, and serves it in the water in which it is boiled. He says the trouble is checked on the first day and on the second day the pigs are back to normal.

Simple Cure for Roup.
For the benefit of owners of backyard flocks, also of the farm wife who has a lot of chickens, we present the following recipe as one of the best known cures for roup. The long wet spells has caused considerable roup this fall.

Roup is one of the most dangerous of all the diseases of poultry. It requires quick and effective action. If the disease has reached a violent stage it is best to kill and burn the victims. At the first indication of roup, separate the sick from the rest of the flock, and watch closely to be assured you are dealing with roup. It is always safest to rid the chicken house of all ailing birds, and especially so in the case of roup, a most contagious disease.

The simple formula to use in treatment of roup, follows: Equal parts of powdered sulphur, magnesia and alum. These are applied to the mouth and throat by a "puff" or "gun", a little bellows-like arrangement which druggists furnish for a trifle, and with which you spray the throat, with the powder. Grease the head and bill with mentholatum or other healing salve.

Kerosene oil is also good in roup, and may be used the same as the ointment or in place of it if you have none of the latter handy. The kerosene may also be used in the drinking water. It will float on the water and in getting below it to drink the bill will be coated with the oil. Birds usually have to be pretty thirsty before they will drink this mixture.

It is reasonable in cost and possesses more than the ordinary leavening strength. You pay less and use less. You get the most in purity, dependability and wholesomeness.

In every way — it is the best way to keep down baking costs. That's what has made it the world's biggest selling baking powder — has kept it the favorite of millions of housewives for more than thirty years.

Found can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.
