

KNIGHTSTOWN DOWNED BY THE RED AND WHITE IN BRILLIANT CONTEST

Uncorking a whirlwind offense in the last few minutes of play, the Richmond high school forged ahead of the Knightstown representatives and annexed the opening basketball game of their season 24 to 16. The playing of the local team was a surprise to its followers, and the predictions, made during the weeks of training which preceded the game, that the high team would be small but fast, was clearly demonstrated.

Team work was specially in evidence and every man on the squad played a hard game. Coach Noll made no substitutions and his judgment was backed up by the rally of the team at the close.

Each Man Valuable. To pick an individual star would be impossible, each man taking care of his job in a creditable fashion. Green, at back guard, kept the Knightstown lads shooting at long distance which explains their low score.

Five minutes before the close of the game the score stood 18 to 16 in Richmond's favor. Harkins came through with two well timed shots and Loehr contributed one. Loehr made his big hit of the night by dropping all his four goals through from long range.

Amick Scores First. Amick chalked up one goal in the opening half to start the ball rolling, and after that he was a marked man being covered most of the time. His size was a little against him, but he scrapped it out. Rost covered the floor in good fashion his inexperience showing at times, but he bids fair to prove a valuable man before the close of the season.

Cox, Knightstown floor guard, and Holland, center, showed up best for the visitors. The Knightstown boys showed good coaching and played a good game. They were not able to work the ball by the Richmond defense for scores.

Prospects Good.

Prospects for a good team at the high school picked up with the game. Although not exceptionally good in their passes, if the men stick to training and are able to set as dizzy a pace in future games as in Friday's encounter, they should be able to make a good record during the season now underway.

BRINGING UP FATHER BY McMANUS

TOOTH PULLERS LOSE TO EARLHAM QUINTET

Earlham defeated the Indiana Dental college in a closely fought and well played basketball game at the coliseum last night, 21-10. The game was marked by fast playing by both teams, the Dentals struggling in vain to overcome the slight advantage which the Quakers were able to maintain. The game was witnessed by a large crowd.

The playing of Roy Johnson, back guard for the Niowemen was one of the features of the contest especially during the first half. Time after time he broke up plays and stopped shots at the goal which might have resulted disastrously for the locals. Hall played a fighting game at the forward position and was the only one of the Quakers to score twice from the field during the first half. Captain Lawler led the scoring for his team with a total of nine points.

Carey is Fast. Carey played his usual fast game and was able to connect up with two baskets. Gear who filled the position of floor guard played a heady game. His long shot during the first half brought the crowd to its feet.

For the losers, Mathew was the key-stone of the defense while McPherson copped the scoring honors of his team with eight points. Reeve was the only other future dentist able to score. The dentals have a fast team and put up a good scrap although they were somewhat baffled by the Quakers' defense.

For the first seven minutes of play neither team was able to score. Lawler then made good at free chance at the hoop and this point was joined a minute and a half later by two more on a field goal by Hall. The first half ended with the Quakers leading by six points.

Strong In Second. The tooth-pullers came back strong in the second half and scored another field goal. Earlham's defense tightened and the Dentals' total for the half was held down to four points. With a minute and a half to play Mow sent in Hadley and Beck for Hall and Gove.

Coach Mow was well satisfied with the showing made by his men. The Dentals were beaten only by small margins by Butler and Indiana University. The Quakers' next game is with the Wabash five at Crawfordsville next Wednesday.

THE GREATEST OLD SPORT IN THE WORLD

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

You may search all the records of sporting events
And his name won't appear, it is true.
From the dashes to baseball and vaulting the fence—
Not one inkling of what he can do.
But our hat's off to him at this time of the year.
He's the king, he deserves the applause.
Why, he proves every year that he hasn't a peer,
This old athlete supreme, Santa Claus.
When he enters his sleigh, gives his reindeer the word.
And is off on his Christmas eve flight,
He makes all distance records read very absurd.

He goes clear 'round the world in a night.
He's a wonder at hurdling, he leaps over walls;
He's a strong man, a juggler as well—
Look at all the pianos he leaves on his calls,
And we never have heard that one fell.
And he plays to the largest fan flock of them all,
For the millions who worship each deed
Are the rosy-checked tots who invite him to call—
And have faith that he'll hear and take heed.
He's the greatest, most blessed, rare sport, honor bright.
And the reason is plain; it's because
He can train all the year for one wonderful night,
This world-beating sport, Santa Claus.

Manager of Giants Leaves For Key West

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Charles A. Stoneman and John J. McGraw, of the New York Giants left today for Key West, enroute to Havana. They expected to make the trip to the Cuban capital from Florida by airplane.
McGraw will return here for the National league schedule meeting in February. He was reticent as to reported trades by which the Giants would take a number of prominent players from other teams. He did deny, however, that he was negotiating for Greasy Neale, of the Cincinnati Reds.
