Tugs Unable to Move Stranded Fruit Liner
(By Associated Press.)

HAVANA, Dec. 18.—Reports from the steamer San Pablo, a United Fruit company liner which went aground at the entrance of Havana harbor last Tuesday evening, show the vessel is in a precarious position. It is said her hull has been pierced and she is slowly filling. The crew of the San Pablo is still on board, but a launch from the Cuban cruiser Cuba is standing by to render assistance should a severe storm begin.

A peculiar coincidence as been seen in connection with the stranding of the San Pablo. Several vessels have been wrecked on the jagged rocks where the San Pablo is believed to be pounding to pieces and it is declared that all these vessels have borne the names of saints. One of them the San Antonio, was sunk some years ago, and her wreckage may still be seen on clear days.
