

COMMISSIONER'S CASE AGAINST GAS COMPANY DISMISSED AT EATON

EATON, O., Dec. 20.—Holding that the facts stated in their petitions were not sufficient to entitle them to the relief sought, Judge A. C. Risinger, of common pleas court, dismissed a suit filed by the board of county commissioners against the Ohio Gas & Electric company, with main offices at 333 South Main street, Middletown, O., and dissolved a temporary injunction granted the board some time ago.

The commissioners sought a permanent injunction against the gas and electrical company digging holes, placing poles and stringing wires on the West Elkton and Winchester road from the south county line to the village of West Elkton for the purpose of supplying electric current in the village. The commissioners claimed the company had no franchise from Preble county for building and maintaining the line. They also claimed the company was digging holes and placing poles in such manner as would obstruct the highway. Costs of the suit were taxed against the commissioners.

The recorder's office and the sheriff's office also will turn in reports. Figures for the annual report of the recorder's office already are being compiled.

A number of reports regarding the schools of the township will come in after Jan. 1, at the township trustee's office, it was said Friday.

Clergy May Become Practicing Physicians

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 20.—A controversy is among the poorly paid section of clergymen who find themselves hard hit by the high cost of living over a novel suggestion put forward by Dr. Robert Rentoul, a prominent Liverpool practitioner, that the clergymen could augment their incomes by acting as doctors as well as parsons.

Dr. Rentoul advises young clergymen to study medicine, take their degree and combine body-curing with soul-saving work.

Many clergymen do not look with favor on the idea. They argue that they have plenty to do already and that local practitioners would bitterly resent competition from them. One wants to know where a poor curate is to raise the £250 necessary to qualify for a medical degree and others hold that "within a month the clericomedico's sermons would be thin, and that the soul would suffer at the expense of the body."

The newspaper, which says its information is obtained from the most reliable sources, adds that the postponement was because of the increasing gravity of the situation in the district, where Korean insurgents and bandits have been active.

XMAS TREES ARRIVE TO DELIGHT KIDDIES

Stacks of Christmas trees have arrived in the city and are being placed in position for the buying public by merchants. From all indications the supply will be up to standard and dealers state that they expect a larger sale than during the past few years.

The United States uses annually between four and five million Christmas trees, according to estimates of the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture. This equals approximately the combined consumption of England, Scotland and Wales, and is about 25 per cent greater than that of Germany.

Christmas trees bear practically the same fruit of the country over, but the variety of the tree itself varies according to the locality. The fir is undoubtedly the Christmas tree par excellence, especially in the northeastern and lake states on account of its long, horizontal spreading, springy branches, and deep green, fragrant foliage which persists longer than that of any evergreen.

Many Varieties Arrive.

On the Great Lakes "the Christmas tree ship" bringing green stuff from the upper peninsula of Michigan to Chicago or Detroit, is usually one of the latest events in navigation each winter. In the northeastern and lake states, Balsam fir furnishes the bulk of the Christmas tree trade. In the south the Fraser fir is the favorite. In Colorado and other Rocky Mountain states, fir, though abundant, is difficult of access, and the Lodge Pole pine and occasionally the Douglas fir and Engleman spruce are used. On the Pacific coast the Christmas tree is often the white fir. Spruce vies with fir in popularity as Christmas trees.
