

GREAT DEMONSTRATION HONORS ANNIVERSARY OF ITALIAN VICTORY

(By Associated Press)
FIUME, Dec. 24.—The anniversary of the Italian victory on the Piave was celebrated here by a great demonstration, in which the whole population of Fiume, both military and civilian, participated. It began at the "Monument of the Anchor," a marble base, like an altar, supporting the anchor which belonged to the first Italian warship to put into the port of Fiume after the war. All Fiume's manifestations center there, as an ancient Rome they centered at the capitol and in modern Rome at the altar on the monument to Victor Emmanuel. Every man, woman and child in Fiume seemed to be gathered around the monument, which was soon completely covered in flowers while officers, soldiers, sailors, arditi climbed up all over it, waving their caps and singing. There are any number of these songs written for the volunteers of D'Annunzio's expedition, such as: "Noi siamo i disertori, ma non di Caporetto." ("We are the deserters, but not the ones of Caporetto," referring to Nitti's speech in the chamber when the news of the expedition to Fiume reached Rome, on which occasion he branded all D'Annunzio's men as deserters.)
 Hundreds of flags were grouped artistically round the monument and about them gathered in a picturesque spectacle the different battalions of the arditi, wearing their red blue and black fezzes, the officers with caps tilted at a rakish angle, reminiscent in their appearance of the "musceteers" of the times of "D'Artagnan."
 After several persons had spoken amid a constantly growing enthusiasm, a procession was formed, which, with flags and banners at the head, defiled through the main thoroughfares of the city. Arriving at a bridge obstructed by thick barbed wire entanglements, the arditi delivered a sham attack upon it and on the run, the procession entered Susak, the Slav suburb of Fiume which lies at the other side of the bridge, and rushed through its streets, shouting and singing, waving their flags, caps and weapons, while the Slav population looked on with placid and unmoved stare.
 D'Annunzio's men are all young and self-confident, strong and fit, enthusiastic and patriotic, devoted to their leaders, proud of Fiume, of Italy of D'Annunzio, ready to fight and, if need be, to die for their cause. The majority are seasoned war veterans, having fought throughout the whole of the world war and among their leaders are some of the most brilliant generals and officers of the Italian army.
