

GAS MASKS, USELESS IN PEACE, ENDANGER INDUSTRIAL WORKERS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10.—Implicit faith in an instrument that saved the lives of thousands of American soldiers in France is daily endangering the lives of scores of men in industrial life in the United States, Dr. F. G. Cottrell, director of the Bureau of Mines said today, in another warning against the use of army gas masks in mine explosion and mine fires. Despite repeated warning from the department, miners and persons engaged in mine rescue work persist in using army gas masks, Dr. Cottrell said, although the devices are of practical no use in the average mine disaster.

Reviewing number of cases recently where men attempting mine-rescue work with any type gas masks had been overcome and had died, Dr. Cottrell said:

Useful Only in War.

These fatalities illustrate the futility of the belief quite prevalent throughout the country that this army type of gas mask will protect the wearer against any type of gases under all conditions. The fact is that the army gas mask was a very excellent device for the purpose intended, that of protecting our soldiers from the diphtherial infection used in warfare. The mask gave the men such absolute protection that when they returned from France they were so enthusiastic over its performance they were willing to endorse the gas mask for all purposes of protection against poisonous gases. These men, it would seem, do not realize that out in the open air of the battlefield the percentage of gas in the air would not be nearly so large as in the confined spaces of a mine or factory fire."

The army mask affords absolutely no protection against carbon monoxide gas, which is most prevalent in mine fires and factory disasters, Dr. Cottrell said, adding that the masks will actually be a menace because of the false feeling of security they give the wearer.

The bureau of mines endorses the use of the self-contained oxygen mine-rescue breathing apparatus and is prepared to furnish information regarding its use.

WOMEN READY

Schortemeyer of the Republican state committee but it was not believed that he would push it.

One new phase of the developments today was the talk among the pro-primary men that in any compromise that may be considered the Aldredge bill which is pending in the senate should be considered along with other measures or proposed measures as a basis of compromise. The Aldredge bill which has been in the senate since before the Beardisley bill was killed represents the idea of the pro-primary people as to the manner in which the present primary law should be strengthened.

One Compromised Hope.

This talk it is supposed had origin because of the introduction in the house of the Willis bill. The talk at the time the Willis bill was presented was that that bill was brought forth in order to make the real anti-primary bill look bad by comparison. If the Aldredge bill brought into the compromise proposal it is possible that the compromise reached will be for leaving the present primary law intact. This solution or the plan to eliminate the presidential primary, which the pro-primary men said today they would not consider, seem to offer the only hope of a compromise.

It was evident last night when a number of new faces showed up around the Claypool hotel that the friends of the primary out in the state were aroused. The talk of these men was along a different line from that which has been heard recently. They were saying that an attempt to tamper with the primary law would split the party and that already irreparable harm has been done. Most of them were laying great stress on the attitude of the women.

Takes Poll On Car.

"I come from Senator Duncan's district," said one of the pro-primary men "and I will say that the attitude Senator Duncan is taking is not in line with the sentiment that is held by 90 percent of the people in his district. Coming to Indianapolis I polled a traction car containing passengers that had boarded the car on its way from Terre Haute. There were 18 women and 21 men in the car. In the poll every woman voted in favor of the primary law and 20 of the 21 men voted the same way."

"Down in my county the primary has stirred the people as no other question has stirred them recently. The girls in the stores are talking about it and you may not believe me but they have a list of the senators who voted against the primary when the Beardisley bill was up in the senate. Any time you think the women are not interested in this question you are mistaken and any time you think they will not remember it when it comes to an election or a primary you are mistaken again."

"Many references were being made today by those who are here for defense of the primary to a statement made by Representative Coaspies of Frankfort in which he said he would follow the advice of his wife and vote to retain the primary. On all sides the women were being counted on as the big and important element that would save the law."

MAINE GOVERNOR TO FOLLOW PLANS OF PREDECESSOR

Percival Proctor Baxter.

Percival Proctor Baxter, of Portland, Me., is the new governor of Maine. As president of the state he succeeds Gov. Parkhurst, who died of diphtherial infection. Gov. Parkhurst was governor only twenty-five days when he died and Baxter automatically fills the office. Baxter has announced that he will carry out his predecessor's program for the industrial development of the state. The election of Parkhurst last September was hailed as an indication of a Republican landslide over the country.

Cured His Piles

Now 88 Years Old, but Works at Trade of Blacksmith and Feels Younger Since Piles Are Gone.

The oldest active blacksmith in Michigan is still pounding his anvil in the little town of Homer—thanks to my internal method for treating piles

Mr. Jacob Lyon, Homer, Mich.

I wish that you could hear him tell of his many experiences with ointments, salves, dilators, etc., before he tried my method. Here is a letter just received from him:

Mr. E. R. Page, Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir: I want you to know what you treatment has done for me. I had suffered with piles for many years and used suppositories of all kinds and treatment, but never got relief until I tried yours. Am now completely cured. Although I am 88 years old, and the oldest active blacksmith in Michigan, I feel years younger since the piles have left me. I will surely recommend it to all I know who suffer this way. You can use my letter any way you wish and I hope it will lead others to try this wonderful remedy. Yours truly,

J. L. LYON.

There are thousands of afflicted people suffering with piles who have never yet tried this one sensible way of treating them.

Don't be put off. Don't waste money on foolish salves, ointments, dilators, etc., but send today for a Free Trial of my internal method for the healing of Piles.
