

HIGH SCHOOL YOUTH GREENVILLE, LOST, SEARCH IS STARTED

GREENVILLE, March 2.—Local authorities were yesterday asked to assist in the search for John McEowen, the 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McEowen, who reside east of Greenville. Nothing has been seen of the youth since he left home last Wednesday to come to high school here, where he is a sophomore. A lad answering young McEowen's description was seen on an early car on the Ohio Electric Wednesday, and it is thought he may have gone to Dayton or Cincinnati and enlisted in the navy. His father made a trip to Cincinnati yesterday to conduct an investigation. At the time he left home, he had but a few dollars in his pocket, and it is presumed he has either enlisted or secured a position somewhere.

Robbery in Rossburg.

Rossburg, a little village north of Greenville, was the scene of a small robbery Saturday night, which local authorities were asked to help solve. The garage of Walter Smith, at that place, was broken into sometime Saturday night, and the sum of $50 stolen from the cash register, and some auto supplies taken.

Tracy Mitchell Dies.

Tracy Lee Mitchell, a young farmer, residing near Beamsville, Richland township, died Sunday of pulmonary tuberculosis. Mr. Mitchell was 34 years and six months of age at the time of his death, and had been a sufferer from the disease for some time.

Auto Strikes Pole.

Thomas Irwin Miller, residing on the McCartney farm, near Nashville, this county, was injured Monday morning when a Chevrolet touring pike near this city became unmanageable and struck a telephone pole, near the Reichard farm. In some manner the steering gear got out of order and the car plunged into the ditch, striking a pole. After medical assistance had been rendered, Mr. Miller was removed to her home.

Stack Funeral Wednesday.

Thomas Stack, 65, prominent farmer of Liberty township, died at his home Monday, after an illness of short duration. He had been in failing health for a number of years. Mr. Stack was a member of the St. Mary's parish in this city, and a member of Greenville Council, Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his widow and three sons, Martin, Charles and Emmett. Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic church at Richmond, Ind., with interment in St. Mary's cemetery, at that place.

The Theatres

WASHINGTON
Although the Marcus Show of 1920, which will appear at the Washington theater Thursday, is famed in the main for its feminine contingent the comedy element has in no wise been neglected. Headed by Mike Sacks the fun cohorts make the performance a never ending succession of ludicrous episodes. Mr. Sacks is ably aided by a troupe consisting in "The Abbotts". For genuine wholesome laughter it is doubtful whether anything could be more potent than the travesty band number in which Messrs. Sacks and Abbott are the leading figures. It is buffoonery in the extreme but such rare art is displayed by these funny fellows that high and low brows alike must guffaw.

Mr. Sacks has the double distinction of being at one and the same time a low and a light comedian. He is equally at home as a humorist in the guise of a grotesque, with big pants and a red nose or in well tailored evening dress and his proper person.

All of the comic episodes which occur during the present edition of the Marcus Show are of recent vintage.

Along with Sacks and his crew of Merry Andrews will come the famous Marcus Peaches, whose fame as stage beauties is renowned the country over.

MURRETTE.

No longer is the charge true that producers for the screen resort to cheap subterfuge in depicting certain scenes. The producer has reached the point where he no longer imitates. He duplicates.

Photographs of the chambers of District Attorney Swann were obtained by the research department of Realart for the court scenes in "Out of the Chorus". The court set in which the late action of the piece takes place, was made after a careful study of these photographs.

No difficulty was experienced in obtaining the photographs of the district attorney's rooms, but when the same request was made concerning the grand jury room it was refused. A photograph has never been made of the grand jury room of the New York criminal court building and the authorities refused to break a precedent even for an Alice Brady picture.

However, sketches revealing the general nature of the latter room were taken and care was taken to follow the outline of the scene in the studio.

"Out of the Chorus," in which Miss Brady is supported by Vernon Steele, Charles Gerard, Emily Fitzroy, Edith Stockton, Richard Carlyle and other screen favorites, comes to the Murrette theater Wednesday for a two day run. Herbert Blache directed the production.

MURRAY.
Having run up bills amounting to $5,000, which his father had to pay, besides spending his allowance of $200 a month, Bob Bellamy found himself called sharply to account. He was ever to receive any further consideration or aid from his father, he was told, he must take a position as supercargo on one of Bellamy's steamers at $50 a month and repay the $5,000.

It seemed a formidable contract to Bob, who figured that it would take him eleven years to fulfill it. He was mistaken, however, for a single wildly adventurous voyage, in the course of which he was close to death by violence more than once, was to provide him with $11,000 and a beautiful bride.

The story is told in "Diamonds Adrift," by Frederick J. Jackson, an Earle Williams Vitagraph production directed by Chester Bennett, which will be shown at the Murray theater Thursday.

FOREIGN AGITATORS ACTIVE IN MEXICO; SURVEYED CLOSELY

(By Associated Press)
MEXICO CITY, March 2.—African, German and Russian agitators, who have been conspicuous in every public demonstration held recently in this city, are under close surveillance, and will be dealt with as political intriguers, said a statement issued last night by Rafael Zubaran Capmany, secretary of commerce and industry.

The secretary referred specifically to a parade held on Sunday by striking railroadmen. Several foreigners of the race carried communist banners and vehemently exhorted their comrades to continue the strike and to protest more vigorously against "governmental oppression." Mexican labor laws are so liberal, the secretary declared, that serious labor situations "should not, and would not, exist if radicals did not overstep the bounds of mere agitation with the intent to overthrow the present government and set up a Soviet regime."

Americans Prominent.
American agitators have been exceedingly active during the past few months, having been especially energetic in organizing the protest against the Pan-American federation of labor during the recent congress in Mexico.

On several other occasions when public demonstrations have been held, these same radicals have taken prominent roles and speeches made by them have been of an incendiary nature.

Members of the American colony here have become much incensed over the boldness of the radicals. It is declared they contemplate not only aggression against Mexico but also the United States, and have approached Mexican officials with a view to arranging for the deportation across the frontier. The American legation here has been considering the feasibility of taking energetic action.

POST-WAR LETHARGY GONE FROM SCHOOLS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 2.—The post-war lethargy which has characterized college students is disappearing and they are fast returning to the old standard of work and scholarship, in the opinion of Chancellor Frederic A. Hall, of Washington University.

An improvement is noted at the local institution, he states, in spite of the fact that the number who failed to register for the second term this year, on account of low marks, is the highest in the history of the university.

The charge is illustrated aptly, the chancellor explains, by the lack of restlessness so noticeable immediately following the war, and by the added fact that here is a movement among the students themselves to foster greater interest in the purely intellectual phases of college life.

Issue Warning Against "Fake" Tax Collectors

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Warning against "fake" income tax collectors was issued today by the bureau of internal revenue.

Persons who approach taxpayers saying that they have come to collect the income tax, are in every instance attempting to defraud the public, the bureau said. "In the payment of the income tax, the public is required to seek the government and not the government the public."

OPEN THAT DOOR!

Crazed by jealous doubts of his beautiful wife who had once been a chorus girl, Ross Van Beekman rushed home one evening unexpectedly, and found another man's hat and stick on the hall table. He found his wife alone, but to make sure he fired five shots into the closet door and rushed from the room. Later, a trail of blood was discovered leading from the closet door to an open window. This is the climax to one of the most thrilling and heart-stirring photoplays seen at the Murrette in many a month. ALICE BRADY plays the part of the chorus-girl wife with all her emotional fire.
