

FORDNEY WILL SEEK ADVICE OF HARDING ON TARIFF, REVENUE

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 3.—Indicative of a return to the old order of white house conferences with congressional leaders, Republican members of the house ways and means committee have decided to seek an interview with President-elect Harding soon after his inauguration.

Chairman Fordney it was said today plans to call his committee together March 14 to map out a policy as to financial legislation. Before beginning this work, however, he was said to desire a discussion on tariff and revenue legislation with Mr. Harding, and it was assumed the proposed meeting will be sought next week in order that the committee might get down to work on the date scheduled.

Want Harding's Views
Although committee members declined to discuss the plan in detail, it was learned that Mr. Fordney desires a fuller explanation of Mr. Harding's views on the two principal matters with which the committee will deal during the extra session. There were hints also that a frank statement by the president as to what he deemed expedient might serve to solidify the majority members of the committee who are known not to be in full accord.

Some of the committee members do not believe it wise, in view of the difficulties which have attended the Fordney emergency tariff in its recent passage, to attempt the enactment of a second temporary measure which Mr. Fordney has proposed as a stop-gap tariff law.

Fear Delay
They fear that even though the program to which Mr. Harding's approval was given may be broader than the last emergency tariff, attempts might be made to change it in some particulars and the bill would suffer the same delay the Fordney bill encountered.

In view of this, there were reports that before the proposed White House conference house and senator leaders would get together in an attempt to reach a common ground.
