

FRIENDS WORK IN RICHMOND HAS INTERESTING HISTORY; RAPID EXPANSION SEEN SINCE 1912

Another extension in Friends activities was made Thursday, when the Young Friends' board and the Home Mission board, both of the Five Years meeting, moved from the main central office at 101 South Eighth street, to rooms in a cottage on the rear of the lot. Crowded conditions resulted in the change.

It is interesting to note the rapid expansion of work by the boards of the Friends Five Years meeting during the past few years.

In 1912 the American Friend, the official organ published by the Five Years meeting, moved to Richmond from Philadelphia. A single room was occupied in the rear of the fourth floor of the Second National Bank building. With the exception of a few years, during which time the business office of the publication was in Urbana, O., the paper has been maintained here. The editorial offices have been located in Richmond ever since the coming of the office to Richmond in 1912.

Missions Office Downtown. When the business office was re-located in Richmond in the spring of 1918, they were established in the Palladium building. Later, the American Friends Board of Foreign Missions, which had occupied a single room in the home of Charles Tebbets, on College avenue, was moved to the fourth floor of the Second National Bank building. This was also the floor upon which the Young Friends' Board of the Five Years meeting moved when it came to Richmond from Dunreith, in the early part of 1918. In Dunreith, the Young Friends' board had been located in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes, whose daughter, Lillian, was secretary.

About the time the Young Friends board moved to Richmond, the Bible school board came here from Fairmount, and established its office in the first square on North Tenth street. With its arrival, there were Five Years meeting offices located in three different places in the city.

Offices are Extended. From a start of one room in the bank building, the addition of the Foreign Mission board and the Young Friends' board to the office of the American Friend made necessary an extension to five rooms. S. Edgar Nicholson was editor of the Friend's publication at that time. Walter Woodward, present editor, assumed his duties in 1917.

November 29, 1918, the Five Years meeting board purchased the old Math-er homestead, the present main building, and moved in in June, 1919 after remodeling the home to suit the needs of the boards.

This brought together in one building the American Friend business and editorial offices, the American Friends Board of Foreign Missions, the Young Friends Board of the Five Years meeting and the Bible school board of the meeting. It was not until April, 1920 that an office of the Home Mission board was established in the central office. Up until this time, Alexander C. Purdy, of Earlham college, had spent a portion of his time as secretary of the board. Miss Ruthanna M. Shams, who had been a member of the office staff in the Second National Bank building, was made secretary of the Home Mission board, which office she still occupies.

Forward Movement Organizes. Progressive work of the Five Years meeting caused the organization of the Friends Forward Movement, with headquarters on the second floor of the Colonial building. This department now has in use three large rooms and two small ones, and employs a staff of about 10 at the present time. Following the financial campaign this spring, however, the working force will gradually taper off.

With the addition of the building on the rear portion of the lot occupied by the main building, there will be about 16 offices, employing about 18 permanent staff employees. This does not include the Forward Movement offices or forces.

Rooms not used in the Central offices by the Young Friends' board and the Home Mission board will be utilized by the foreign mission board, and by S. Edgar Nicholson, who is to spend one-half of his time at the local office working in the interest of the American Friends' Service committee, of Philadelphia. The other half of Mr. Nicholson's time will be spent in anti-slavery work.

Some Offices Released. With the closing of the financial campaign, the Indiana Yearly meeting this spring, the Forward Movement offices will be released at the Colonial building, and the staff workers retained, absorbed in office activities at the two central office buildings.

Before the permanent location of Five Years meeting boards in Richmond, the boards were scattered and not doing the amount of work now accomplished. It is now the custom to hold staff meetings with employees one each week, and executive staff meetings of secretaries at least that often.

To Store Helium in Battered Coal Mine

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 3.—The battered experimental coal mine, Bruce-ton, Pa., which has been used to try out every sort of new explosive, now digging machinery and new mining theory is to become a storage vault for helium, the non-inflammable gas.

The bureau of mines is making great quantities of this explosive gas at Fort Worth, Tex., and engineers have decided to line a part of the experimental mine with copper and store the gas away until a need for it develops.

Lodge, Jr., Gets Place

WASHINGTON, March 3.—John Lodge, son of Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, and Curator of the Boston art museum, has been offered the post of Curator of the Freer art gallery here by the Smithsonian institute. Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement.

MISSOURI CAPTAIN IS HONORED BY GERMAN AND POLISH PEOPLE

(By Associated Press) KATTOWITZ, Upper Silesia, March 3.—Captain James A. Stadler of Joplin, Missouri, in the employ of the American Relief administration here, is the only man in this stricken country who has received a token of joint approval of the Germans and Polish residents.

After 18 months of hard work and adventuring, in which he has been the common target for the machine gun fire of Poles and Germans, faced mobs, fed the hungry, administered to the dying, saved prisoners slated for execution, and acted as the arbiter of revolution and strikes, he is preparing to go home to show the folks a big silver cup which his friends presented him when they learned he was about to leave.

Unite in Presentation. There was some rivalry about the cup for the Poles and Germans each wanted to give it, and they only wanted him to have one, but at last they agreed upon a common course, for the first time in 800 years, some of them asserted. They all chipped in equal amounts, bought the cup, had it beautifully worked and engraved and presented in with much formality and many nice words in two languages.

As representative of an American organization, Captain Stadler's position has demanded the most careful observance of every rule of neutrality, exercise of considerable ingenuity, and now and then, an extraordinary fleetness of foot.

He established himself with the Poles and Germans alike during the uprising last August. He had been to the Polish prison camp at Cracow to ask for the release of nearly 200 Germans who had been spirited over the border. On his return trip, he got between the Polish and German lines, and machine-guns began to volley at him. He ran to a ditch and crawling along this reached the German side where he was immediately made prisoner, but later was released. He thinks his footwork saved his life that day.

The captain is the only American in Kattowitz.

NEGRO WORK TOLD TO LOCAL FRIENDS

T. J. Woolfer, Jr., field agent for Phelps-Stokes fund for the education of persons in need of assistance, is one of the three persons that helped in the survey of Southland institute, Friends negro college in Kansas, addressed an interested body of Friends at the central offices, Wednesday night.

He spoke of the general conditions in the south, as they relate to the negro, and told of his own experience in the work. The survey of Southland institute conducted by the Friends home mission board in January, was the first step in planning the future of the school, since it was placed under the supervision of the board. Formerly it was under control of Indiana yearly meeting.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 3.—Miss Ruth Marie LeSage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Irwin LeSage, of Highlawn, and Mr. Robert Starr Thornburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thornburgh, of Richmond, Ind., were married at high noon Monday at the Johnson Memorial church by Rev. John S. Jenkins. The wedding was attended by only a few close friends of the young couple.

Only two, a maid of honor, Miss Lucille LeSage, sister of the bride, and a best man, Mr. Arthur T. Streeby, attended the couple during the ceremony.

Mrs. Thornburgh has been a student at Ohio State university for the last four years and finished her work there this February.

Mr. Thornburgh has been a newspaper man about Huntington for 10 years. In 1910 he joined the West Virginia National Guard and went to Camp Kanawha and then to service on the Mexican border. He later went overseas with the 150th Infantry, returning to the states a first lieutenant. He was reporter and city editor of the Palladium at Richmond.

Since the wedding, Mr. Thornburgh has been identified with the Advertiser. He recently resigned to go with the United Press with headquarters in Chicago.
