

OFFICERS TRAINING CAMP EXPECTED TO ESTABLISH NEW MARK

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., March 9.—The encampment at Camp Knox, O., this summer of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, is expected to bring out the largest delegation of students since the organization of the corps, according to information received at Ohio State University from the war department.

It is estimated 1,200 artillery and 1,400 infantry students will be enrolled from 25 universities and military schools. Camp Knox is in Kentucky, 50 miles south of Louisville, in the Ohio valley. It is the largest field artillery center in the United States and contains modern cantonments, aviation field, and unlimited opportunities for firing and gun work, according to the university officials.

The encampment will be held from June 15 to July 27. The following institutions are expected to send students:

Cornell, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Lafayette, La., Colorado Agricultural, Yale, Ohio State, University of Illinois, University of Chicago, Culver Military Academy, Purdue, Iowa State, Harvard, University of Missouri, University of Oklahoma, Oregon Agricultural College, Carnegie Institute, Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, Agricultural College of Utah, Virginia Military Institute, and the University of Wisconsin.

Government transportation, at the rate of five cents a mile, will be furnished to and from the camp.

The instruction will include firing of light batteries, pistol practice, equitation, driving battery mounted, practice marches, overnight camps, mapping, orientation, reconnaissance, and motors.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. An expert said that he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth."

"Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs."

INDIANS' SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH
Mr. Brittain certified further: "At a time when I had become discouraged at trying to grow my hair again, I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elixir that he asserted would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days."

True Hair Grower at Last
"That I was astonished and happy to express my state of mind when I was bald, and that I was not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the then mysterious pomade. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this, now called KOTALKO, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist. That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

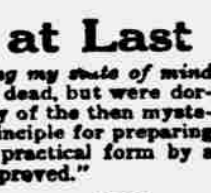

It has been proved in very many cases that hair roots did not die even when the hair fell out through dandruff, fever, alopecia areata, or certain other hair or scalp disorders.

Valuable Capital Saved for Ohio State School

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., March 9.—Receipt at Ohio State University of the last remaining colonnade of Dr. Parkhurst's Madison Square Presbyterian church of New York City, said to be one of the best examples of Byzantine-Roman style, brought to light an interesting story of how the capital was saved from demolition at the hands of workmen.

According to Professor Howard Dwight Smith of the department of architecture, who was mainly responsible for Ohio State securing the column, the wounded artistic sensibilities of a cub draftsman saved the polychrome terra cotta colonnade from the hammers of workmen.

When the church was torn down, most of the details were built into the Hartford New Building at Hartford, Conn. The eight large Corinthian capitals were not used, and workmen demolished them as they were torn down.

A cub draftsman, fresh from college, according to Professor Smith, saw seven of the beautiful columns knocked to pieces and determined to save the eighth. When it was torn down, he rushed from his office, and ordered the workmen to let it lie. Thinking him a foreman, they did. Later he had the capital hauled away.

Several universities, including Columbia, sought to secure the colonnade, according to Professor Smith.

Competition has been arranged among the students of architecture at the university for a design for a base for the column, which will be placed at the entrance of Brown Hall when it is completed.
