Among the loveliest social functions of the Easter season was the card party for which Mrs. Carl Lange and Mrs. O. H. Brubaker were hostesses at the home of the former Friday afternoon. A profusion of roses, daisies and hyacinths were attractively arranged throughout the rooms and formed the centerpiece of the luncheon table. Bridge and 500 were played, favors going to Mrs. Guy Gotschall, Mrs. Raymond Wickemeyer and Mrs. Jack Grosvenor. The guests were: Mrs. Collin Schaeffer, Mrs. Guy Gotschall, Mrs. Edward Wendling, Mrs. Mary Crane, Mrs. Leon Stanley, Miss Mary Dickinson, Mrs. Raymond Mather, Mrs. Lew Kluter, Mrs. Omer Whelan, Mrs. E. J. Dykeman, Mrs. Walker Land, Mrs. Carl Kauffman, Mrs. J. H. O'Byrne, Mrs. Jack Grosvenor, Mrs. Frank Funk, Mrs. Frank Harding, Mrs. Paul Kinley, Mrs. Russell Alexander, Mrs. Paul Druley, Mrs. Clarence Forling, Mrs. Carl Lange and Mrs. O. H. Brubaker.

Prominent among the last of pre-Easter parties of this season was the card party given by Miss Helen Haseltine at her home on Main street Saturday afternoon for members of the younger set. Easter decorations combined with narcissus and callendulas formed an effective setting for the affair. Cards were played at several tables after which a prettily appointed luncheon was served to the guests who included: Miss Mary Reinhardt, Miss Gertrude Williams, Mrs. Sidney Watt, Miss Mildred Whiteley, Miss Helen Bentlage, Miss Katherine Binkley, Mrs. Cedric Johnson, Miss Clara Daub, Miss Roy Campbell, Miss Ogen Shelton, Miss Doris Puckett, Miss Helen Jessup, Miss Miriam Jordan, Miss Lucille Weller and Miss Esther Reid.

navy might as well be scrapped as junk and to convince congress, which is willing to be convinced, that it would be better to spend $45,000,000 the cost of one battleship, for the construction of several hundred airplanes.

Test Planes. Mitchell is one of the few generals whose life is subjected to almost as many hazards in peace as in time of war. He flies all airplanes used by the army and tests them himself before they are turned over to his men.

He is a dynamo of action, quick of decision, intensely human and idolized by his corps of dare-devils. He enlisted in the army during the Spanish-American war and at the age of 41 was a brigadier general. He was the first American officer to fly over the German lines.

He is now devoting his entire attention to putting the navy out of commission. Some job, as everyone admits, but Mitchell does not entertain the slightest doubt as to his ability to do so. He is not built that way. He "hops off" from Bolling field, Washington, two or three times each week for a flight to some nearby aviation field, and when the time arrives for the June maneuvers he will be in trim to assume a pilot's role and actively direct the operations of his winged army.

Makes Impression. A few weeks ago General Mitchell acquainted congress with the need of a greater air defense, and he made a remarkable impression upon the lawmakers. He did not mince words as to what fate might befall the nation if it overlooked the sky as the great battleground of the future. He pictured hostile air fleets cruising over New York and dropping quantities of phosphorus sufficient to annihilate the inhabitants. "What we need behind the Atlantic coast," he said, "is a brigade of 600 airplanes; behind the Pacific coast a brigade of 600 airplanes, and throughout the country in general an air division of two brigades of 1,200 airplanes each can be shifted either way—or an offensive force of 2,400 airplanes. On the basis of a construction program of $45,000,000 a year, which is the cost of one battleship, this force can be built up and made efficient in three years."

American claims against Germany for injuries caused from the world war are estimated at $180,088,324.

One Minute Essays on Health by G. C. Wilcoxen, D. C.

Started With Health and Five Shillings a Week

C. F. Higham, a member of parliament, started as an office boy at five shillings a week. That and his health were the beginnings on which he built a career and a $50,000 a year income.

Health is a matter of keeping the spine in alignment, so that there is no interference with the transmission of nerve impulses to any part of the body. A body in nervous balance—you want it because it means health—and chiropractic adjustments opens the way.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of diseases of the head, eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys and lower organs of the body.

Have You Made Your Will?

When no will has been made, real estate is often tied up so that it cannot be sold or leased or rented without expensive proceedings; personal and business property may have to be sold at sacrifices; the estate will have to be divided and distributed to heirs, who may waste or lose their inheritance through ignorance or inexperience.

These expenses and losses may be avoided if a will is properly drawn and the American Trust and Savings Bank is appointed executor and trustee.

Our officers will be glad to talk over with you this most important matter.
