

NEXT WEEK AT THE THEATRES

MURRAY THEATRE

The Joe Jenny Trio of male singers and comedians who have entertained audiences from coast to coast for many years with their harmony and side-splitting antics, will headline the new bill opening at the Murray Monday for the first half. This act is a standard vaudeville attraction. Also on this bill are Nora Jane and Company known in vaudeville parlance as "Society and Acrobatic Dancers," Helen Staples, "Prima Donna Petite," and Collins and Hill in "Vaudeville Vagaries," which consists of a bit of everything known to the variety world. The screen feature will be Eva Novak, in her latest feature "The Torrent," consisting of five reels, chock full of interest and excitement. Heading the show coming Thursday is booked Reinhart, Murphy and Gibeon billed as "The Somewhat Different Comedians" in songs of a comedy nature as well as the latest vaudeville act. Completing the bill are The Cortez Sisters, two beautiful girls in "Class Songs and Dances"; Kahne and Reynolds in "A Melange of Mirth and Melody," and Jim Reynolds known as "The Jovial Comedian," with Gladys Walton on the screen in her latest five-reel Universal feature entitled "Rich Girl, Poor Girl."

Manager Holland last Thursday booked a Keith big-time feature direct from the Palace Theatre, Chicago, entitled "Under the Apple Tree," comprising two men and ten stately show girls, a wealth of scenery and costumes, and commanding a weekly salary of $1,700. This act opens Thursday, April 14, for the last half, and holds the record for top money ever paid a vaudeville act in Richmond.

attracts large audiences to the theatre season after season, will be at the Murray theatre, April 8.

On its tenth annual visit this unusual play is again demonstrating its remarkable appeal to the general public, that public which is not in the habit of going to the theatre regularly. Year after year this highly favored story, with its wail of Hawaiian music, comes along and assembles the crowds. Nor does it appear to have run its course yet.

If the audiences of its past engagement are any criterion, it will probably be coming along a decade or two hence, with its music still wailing and its volcano still sputtering. People will measure the years of their activity by "The Bird of Paradise." Not since the hey-day of "Way Down East" has there been a piece of theatrical property as valuable as this Hawaiian story.

The reason for its hold on the public taste is its exotic atmosphere, its self-sacrificing story of love with its fascinating appeal, and the charm of its Hawaiian melodies has made the Tully story of Hawaii one of the classics of the theatre.

Florence Rockwell will again be seen in the role of Luana, the Hawaiian princess who sacrifices herself for her people.

MURRETTE

There is something very satisfying in seeing a bully thoroughly whipped, and in "Gilded Lies" Martin Ward, the villain, receives such a thrashing at the hands of Keene McComb, played by Eugene O'Brien, in the Selznick picture which comes to the Murrette theatre next Sunday for a three days' run.

The picture has such a multiplicity of features that it should afford splendid entertainment to all, according to the reviews of those who have seen it. There is life in the frozen North, where dare-devil men risk their lives, interesting views of the life of those wonderful dogs of the arctic, magnificent settings of home life among the dissipated circles of blatant money squanderers, and a delightful love story.

Among the important players in the cast are Martha Mansfield, who plays opposite Eugene O'Brien, Frank Whitson, and George Stewart.

WEST RICHMOND FRIENDS

FILM IS ANNOUNCED
The photo-drama, entitled "The Stream of Life" will be given at the West Richmond Friends' Church on Monday evening, April 4 at 7:30 o'clock.

The "Stream of Life" strikes a new note in pictures spoken of as equally great as Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation."

The picture is the story of a young man born in the simple life of a country farm. He goes to the city and in the vicissitudes of life is plunged into profound grief and despair. He eventually finds his way to the real satisfactions of life, and the stream which began in a quiet way as a rivulet winds its course finally out into the great sea.

Among many comments of this remarkable picture of life is this "Never before have we witnessed a thing so gripping, so soul-stirring and yet so simple, so fascinatingly guileless. It is instructing, entertaining, elevating."

Children under 16 years of age will be charged no admission. Adults will pay 15 cents.

VICTORY

The lyrical beauty of the music of Victor Herbert's score for the romantic Irish American operetta, "Eileen," which Barry McCormack presents at the Victory theatre, Dayton, for four nights commencing Sunday, April 3, is considered to be the finest work of Herbert's career. The music is dramatic, melodious and expressive, and in every way equals his finest efforts in "Mile Modiste" and excels, in general, the complete score of that immortal piece.

The story, by Henry Blossom, is in brilliant dialogue and moves very swiftly in dramatic intensity from the opening of the first act, outside the tavern of "The Sign of the Black Bull" somewhere on the west coast of Ireland in 1798, to the closing scene which takes place in the high walled garden of Lord Estabrooke's castle.

The fulfillment of Victor Herbert's life's ambition, the writing of a real Irish opera, and its great success brings to Dayton a musical event as important as a presentation of grand opera. There are a score of songs which the lover of music will hum for many a day, and a special "Eileen" orchestra insured their proper introduction. The cast is headed by Irene O'Donoghue in the title role. Miss O'Donoghue is from the Grand Italian Conservatory of Music and has appeared in leading roles with the Aborn and San Carlo opera companies.

Keene McComb (Eugene O'Brien) in the far north learns his sweetheart had been tricked into a loveless marriage. Returning to his home, arriving only with an esquimaux dog whip, he administers to his rival the thrashing of his life. This does not end the story but paves the way to a climax even more stirring and dramatic, in which he risks his own life in order to save his enemy, knowing that by so doing he is throwing away all he has fought so hard for.
